CONGRESSMEN'S SALUTE TO REDS TOLD AT INQUIRY

Youths Urged to Die in Spanish War.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Pictures on back page.)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—The house committee investigating un-American activities was told today that two congressmen on a visit to Spain last year gave the communist salute after urging American youths to die in battle against the Spanish rebels.

Alvin Halpern.

The congressmen named are Representative Jerry O'Connell [D., Mont.] and John T. Bernard [F. L., Minn.]. These are the two who tried to set themselves up as heroes by announcing they would defy the ban on free speech set by Mayor Frank Hague, boss of Jersey City.

Hague Assault Melts.

Last May O'Connell announced that he would speak for the C. I. O. in Jersey City. He left quietly, however, when he was met by police, who were determined to halt his speech. A joint assault against Hague by O'Connell and Bernard in Jersey City never materalized. O'Connell finally contented himself by printing his blasts against Hague in the Congressional Record.

Alvin I. Halpern, an American youth who fought in the Spanish loyalist army, told the committee of speeches O'Connell and Bernard made last year in Benicasim, Spain, at the dedication of pillars for a hospital.

"They told us we were fighting for a great cause—democracy—to wipe out Fascism," Halpern said. "They gave us the communist salute—the raised, clinched fist."

Halpern added that the congressmen told the assembled several hundred Americans, who were fighting for the Spanish government, that if they wanted anything after they returned to this country to let the congressmen know.

Youths Desert Army.

Halpern's story was corroborated by Abraham Sobel, another American in the Spanish loyalist service. Both testified they had been enlisted through the activity of communist agents in this country. The two youths, who live in Boston, deserted the loyalist army.

"Did you take advantage of the offer of the congresmen for assistance?" asked Representative Harold G. Mosier [D., O.].

"O, yes," Halpern replied. "We asked for 5,000 American marines."

At the conclusion of the youths' testimony the committee voted to call on Attorney General Homer S. Cummings for an investigation of communist recruiting of Americans to fight in the Spanish war. Representative Mosier introduced the resolution for this action.

Antidote for Communism.

The committee clerk was directed to send Cummings copies of the testimony given by Halpern and Sobel. Mosier said the testimony of the two was the best antidote for communism thus far presented to the committee.

At the afternoon session Miss Hazel Huffman, secretary of a New York organization of actors on relief, accused Mrs. Hallie Flannagan, director of the WPA federal theater project, of using her position to advance communism.

Miss Huffman quoted from a letter written by Mrs. Flannagan which said that propaganda plays have been the rule on federal theater projects. Miss Huffman read a list of plays produced by the theater and was asked if they were not all communistic.

"Socially significant is the term Mrs. Flannagan uses," she replied. "But of course they were communistic."

False, Says O'Connell.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Representative Jerry O'Connell of Montana today declared that testimony "by two cheap soldiers of fortune" before the house committee on un-American activities that he had used the communist salute while in Spain was false.

2 POLICY KINGS ADMIT GIVING TO FUND FOR HINES

Tell of Donating to Campaign Chests.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Heavy contributions by the policy game racketeers to the Democratic campaign in the New York City elections of 1933 and weekly payments to the club of Tammany Leader James J. [Jimmy] Hines were disclosed at the trial of the political boss today.

The testimony, unshaken by defense counsel, was the most telling of the evidence brought out by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey at the end of the first week of the trial. Hines is charged with being the political protector for the gang of the late Arthur [Dutch Schultz] Flegenheimer.

Two Policy Kings Testify.

Two former policy kings from Harlem, dapper, soft-spoken Negroes who were forced to knuckle down to the Schultz gang when the racket was organized, told the story that the illicit funds from the policy game were poured into the campaign chest.

The pair of state's witnesses, sartorially resplendent for the occasion, were Joseph Mathias Ison, who said he was called by the nicknames "Big Joe" and "Spasm," and Alexander Pompez.

Pompez said that in the fall of 1933 the sum of $10,000 was drawn from his policy bank by the Schultz gang. George Weinberg, a gang lieutenant who has pleaded guilty to the same indictment upon which Hines is being tried, told Pompez the money was for campaign purposes.

Soon after the Pompez appearance on the stand, Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora adjourned court until Monday morning.

Split for Campaign Fund.

The story told by "Big Joe" Ison was even more striking. He testified that he detected two $2,500 items on the daily expense sheets of the policy bank he was operating under the watchful, greedy eye of the Schultz gang in the fall of 1933.

"I asked George Weinberg what they were for," went on Ison. "He said they were for campaign funds, that they were going to the Democratic party and they wanted to see a Democratic mayor and Democratic district attorney get into office."

This was the campaign in which the present mayor, Fiorello H. La Guardia, was elected on a fusion ticket, beating the Tammany candidate, John P. O'Brien.

In this same contest Judge Pecora ran as an independent candidate for district attorney of New York county. He was defeated by William C. Dodge, who Dewey charges was controled by Hines.

All Policy Banks Assessed.

Pompez testified that the Schultz gangsters had informed him that all the policy banks in the "combination" had been tapped for campaign funds. Ison also testified there was a weekly expense item of $125 which he was told went to "Jimmy" Hines' club. This was believed to be the Monongahela Democratic club, of which Hines is the president.

The testimony was coupled with that of minor witnesses called by Dewey, two mulatto girls who had worked in the policy bank of Alexander Pompez and were caught in a police raid on Nov. 23, 1932. The

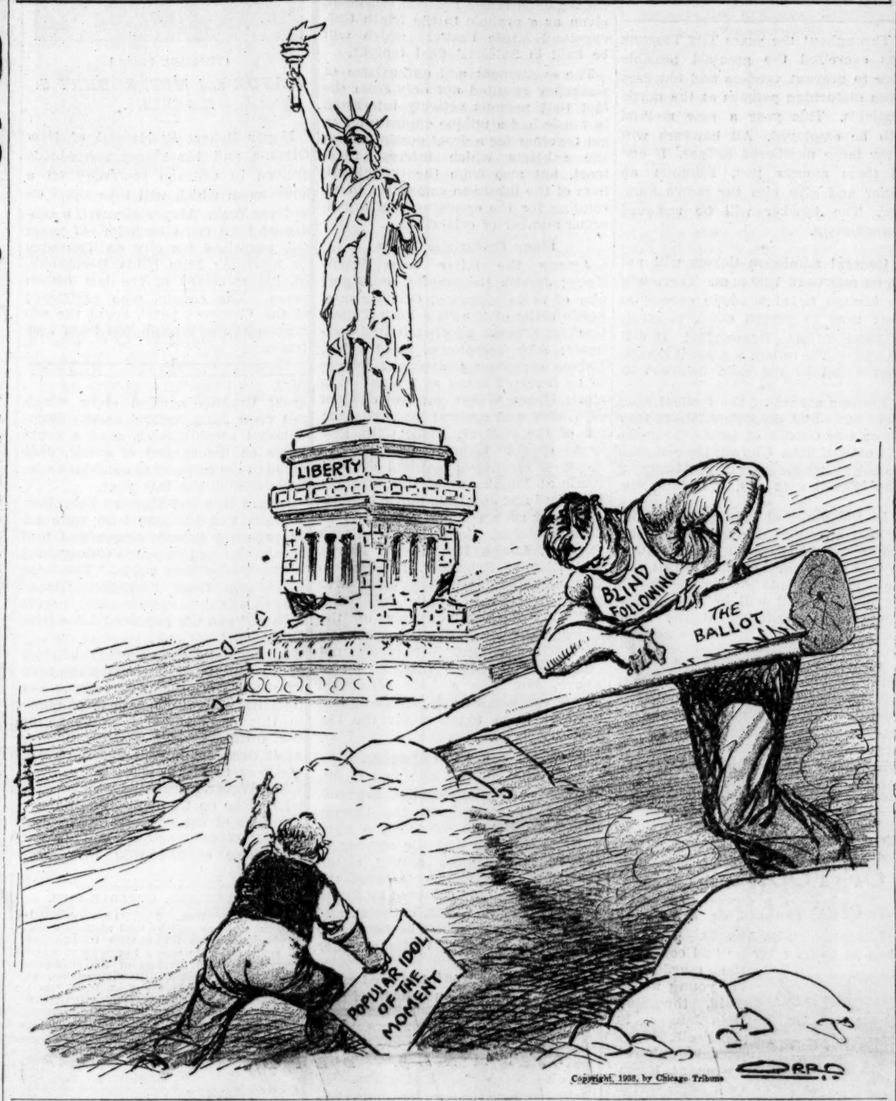
THE ONLY WAY IT CAN BE DESTROYED



BOY, 14, RESCUES NINE IN LAKE, REPAYING RECENT SIMILAR ACT

Nine persons aboard the speedboat Delaware were rescued from a mile and a half off the Edgewater Beach hotel last night when their boat hit a log and was disabled. The rescue was effected by Charles Decker, 14 years old, of 6253 Sheridan road. He was piloting an outboard cruiser which itself tipped over two weeks ago, with five persons aboard. By a coincidence they were rescued by the Delaware at that time.

Decker and two friends, Robert Brown, also of the Sheridan road address, and Wayne Gooch, 6320 Kenmore avenue, saw the Delaware's distress flares. They made three trips, bringing in four women, then four men, and finally the pilot, F. H. Glorch.

The eight passengers were Helen Richter, Phillips, Wis.; G. S. Carter, Denver, Colo.; Florence McMaster, Los Angeles, Cal.; Milton Collick, 1330 North State street; Peggy Wall and Charles Tyler of Flossmoor, Bonnie Kay, 8118 St. Lawrence avenue, and a Mr. Brodt of Chicago.

TOTE EQUIPMENT UP 45 STORIES TO FIGHT FLAMES

Three workmen were trapped for several minutes early today on the 46th floor of the One La Salle street building at 1 North La Salle street by fire which broke out in an elevator shaft. Their cries for help roused guests in the Hotel La Salle across the street. Firemen led them to safety.

The fire proved a hardship for the firemen. It was started by a short circuit which disabled elevator service. As a result, firemen had to walk up 46 floors, toting equipment with them.

The men trapped were Frank Martin, 2717 Wellington avenue; Henry Williamson, 2904 North Mansfield avenue, and Elmer J. Zimmerman, 8216 South Wolcott avenue. They were greasing the tower shaft, from the 24th to the 46th floors, when fire broke out. Smoke and heat forced them to seek shelter on the upper floor.

Men under Battalion Chief Cornelius Minahan found the trio there and led them downstairs. Other firemen, under Acting Marshal James Doyle, also had to walk up more than two score floors. They son put out the fire, which was confined to the shaft. Damage was small. Raymond Sheridan, 5615 North Richmond street, night building manager, and other employés refused to give out the names of the men trapped and tried to bar newspapermen from the building.

Courtney Axes DemolishThird Gambling Dive

State's Attorney Courtney's demolition drive against handbooks entered its third day yesterday with renewed activity. As his axmen visited another betting dive, political and gambling circles buzzed with rumors concerning the prosecutor's further moves and the political implications of his activities.

Ald. Jacob M. Arvey.

Some regarded the spectacular drive as further notice by Courtney that he is no party to the recent Democratic peace pact between Mayor Kelly, Patrick A. Nash, Chicago boss, and Gov. Horner. Yesterday's developments included:

1. An ax squad smashed a handbook, opened only yesterday morning, at 3223 West Roosevelt road. The supposed proprietor, Ben Zuckerman, has a minor police record and is known as a lieutenant of Ald. Jacob M. Arvey, Democratic leader of the 24th ward.

2. Capt. George O'Connor, commanding the 1st [loop] district, was called to Mr. Courtney's office and questioned. This move caused rumors that the state's attorney is putting police captains on formal notice of gambling houses existing in their districts, as a preliminary to preferring charges of misfeasance in office if the gambling continues.

3. Lawyers for handbook owners, it is understood, have suggested that victims of the ax raids sue the state's attorney on his bond for the damage done.

Political Significance Seen.

The handbook smashed yesterday was not so ornate as those destroyed Wednesday and Thursday in the loop and on the near north side. Political observers thought it significant that for the third day in the row the raiders invaded the bailiwick of a powerful leader in the regular Democratic machine.

The loop raid was in the territory of Committeeman Michael Kenna, the "Hinky Dink" of song and fable. The raid Thursday was in the 42d ward, ruled by State Senator William E. Connors. In the 24th ward, scene of yesterday's raid, Ald. Arvey's organization has piled up near-fabulous majorities for organization candidates.

Zuckerman, reputed owner of the place, was called to the state's attorney's office a week ago, after raiders had visited a handbook which he conducted at 3214 Roosevelt road. He was told then to quit business. The new place, opened yesterday morning, was located in a lodge hall, which bore the sign "Culture Center" over the door.

Arrest Manager and Doorman.

Because of its use by the lodges the raiders, led by Sergt. Dan Kenny, confined their ax assaults to the betting tables and a blackjack table found in the place. They arrested the manager, who gave the name of Louis Dann, believed to be an alias, and the doorman, Isadore Kalleck, 1536 South Millard avenue, who told them that Zuckerman had hired him.

Zuckerman, known in the district as "Zukie," was involved in several shooting scrapes during prohibition days. He was arrested at one time on the charge of shooting a Northwestern university athlete after a trafic accident. On another occasion Ald. Arvey defended him when he was charged with slugging Attorney Leonard Grossman, former alderman, during an election campaign.

WOMEN DRIVE CARS AS WELL AS MALES, SAFETY AID REPORTS

French Lick, Ind., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Women are just as good automobile drivers as men, the highway safety educational department of the Ætna Life Insurance company reported today.

"Men react a little more quickly than women when it comes to steering and braking," Barnett L. Golub of Hartford, Conn., in charge of the department's driving tests, told a company meeting here.

"But the women even the score by being better night drivers. They are not bothered as much by headlight glare." Golub based his report on examination of the driving habits of 1,500,000 persons throughout the country in the last two years.

A Hula-Hula Girl Puts Some Teeth in the Law

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—A policeman was bitten on the finger today by an excited girl, 7 years old, in a hula-hula skirt. The occasion was a raid on National Talent Pictures, Inc., an organization which advertised that it would obtain movie rôles for children. Parents of some 125 children complained that the organization failed to produce film jobs for the youngsters. Among other casualties in the raid were four persons arrested on charges of fraud.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

This is the night. For more than half a year the ninth Chicagoland Music Festival has been in preparation. Tonight it will be presented in Soldiers' field in all its grandeur.

But it is a great deal more than a grand spectacle. Its meaning and purpose go much deeper.

The first festival was held in 1930 when the people were beginning to know the sting of the depression. A need was felt for something that could bring these people together. It would have to be big and it would have to be interesting and pleasant to see and hear.

Greatest Mass Music Event.

Above all it would have to be neighborly and friendly. And it has been—through the years. It has grown, too; grown so that it now is the world's greatest mass music event. And as such it is the greatest spectacle of its type in the world.

This year's festival bids fair to be the most magnificent of them all. The events that made past festivals great will be here again this year—the masesd bands, the mighty choruses, and the young singers who are on the thresholds of careers.

But there will be a great deal that is new. Here are just a few of the organizations and events that never before have been seen at the festival: The United German Male chorus of Chicago, with its 600 voices; the 400 voice University of Illinois rural chorus, with its thrilling selections from "Harvest Caravan"; the massed accordion band of 1,500 pieces, and the historical pageant which in music and drama will depict life in America from civil war days through the gay nineties.

Corrigan Honored Guest.

And greatest of all, the festival this year brings an honored guest who recently won the acclaim of the world. He is not a musician, it is true. The beat of propellors and the roar of motors is the only music he knows. But at 9:30 o'clock tonight this man, Douglas Corrigan, who flew to Ireland the wrong way, will ride into Soldiers' field with Mayor Kelly. It will be the high point of the evening for the 100,000 persons gathered there.

As the car enters, held in the glare of spotlights, thousands of colored balloons will be released. As they float upward, their flight will be followed by the colored beams from eight searchlights. [Details of Corrigan's arrival in Chicago today will be found on page 2.]

Alec Templeton to Play.

But the jaunty young flyer is only one of two great personalities who will be there. The other is a truly great musician. He is Alec Templeton, Great Britain's famous blind pianist, whose agile blending and twisting of tunes baffles the music critics.

One of the greatest features of all the festivals has been the breathtaking fireworks displays. This year, under the direction of Frank Duffield of Thearle-Duffield the display will surpass anything ever seen in Soldiers' field.

There in the great arena a silver forest will live in crystal light. A rose garden will flame in vivid scarlet. There will be a giant set piece, "Defenders of the Nation," that will picture in fire the battleships, the big guns and the men who guard our borders. And there will be many others.

Among the most appealing events will be the singing of the young vocalists of Chicagoland who this afternoon will win their right to appear there.

All this music and sound will be carried to the crowd through the giant horns of the finest amplification system in the central west. The system regularly used at the field will be displaced for this one night.

This ninth festival has been built to please all music lovers. There will be music by bands, symphony orchestras, choral groups, and individual singers. There will be something for everybody.

The Chicagoland Music festival is sponsored by the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.

TRAFIC PATH SMOOTHED

BY HAL FOUST.

All is in readiness for the convenience of Chicagoland Music Festival patrons. The gigantic crowd will move to and from Soldiers' field with a minimum of delays and annoyances. The gates will be open at 6 p. m. for the show starting at 7:25 tonight.

Here are the available transportation facilities:

STREET CARS — Any eastbound Roosevelt road or Cermak road car into Burnham park terminals. Also special cars into these terminals from Clark and Wentworth lines from the north and from the south sides.

•BUSES—Shuttle service with free transfers from Randolph street and Michigan avenue and from Balbo [7th] street and Michigan avenue. Also special buses from north and west sides direct to Soldiers' field.

ELEVATED — Use Roosevelt road station. Free transfers to street cars and buses.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL — Use 18th street station. Special trains and the regular interurban trains will stop there.

PRIVATE AUTOMOBILES — Free parking, regulated and guarded, for 12,000 cars. Tipping prohibited.

TAXICABS — A short ride [1¾ miles] from State and Madison streets.

Delays Are Unavoidable.

There will be some delays. They are unavoidable in a crowd twice as big as the attendance at a popular baseball game. But there is precedent for predicting that it will be a well mannered and a well regulated crowd.

During the late afternoon and early evening hours, motorists who are not en route to the event are advised to avoid Burnham park if there is an alternative route for their trip.

At 9:30 p. m., Grant and Burnham parks are to be closed to general trafic. Southbound trafic in Lake Shore drive will be detoured west in Ohio street. Northbound trafic in Leif Eriksen drive will be detoured west at 31st street.

These detours will clear the downtown lake front pavements for the dispersal of the assembly at 10 or 10:05 o'clock.

At the close of the program mass carriers will await the multitude. A fleet of street cars of the Roosevelt and of the Clark street lines will be dispatched from the north terminal as rapidly as they are filled. A second fleet, of the Wentworth and Cermak lines, will file out of the 18th street terminal.

Buses to Wait.

Buses will wait for passengers in the Court of Honor, the plaza at the north end of the stadium.

Taxicabs will be in a double column at the east curb of Columbus drive. They will all be headed southward to use the 23d street viaduct for the trip to the loop, easing congestion in Grant park.

Parking lots will discharge their thousands of private automobiles onto pavements freed of routine trafic. Facilities have been enlarged since last year's festival. The outer bridge has been completed. The outer drive in Burnham park has been improved. A parking lot with a capacity of 3,500 machines has been opened south of the stadium.

In addition to the new lot, there is space for 2,800 cars immediately east of the stadium. Another 2,000 cars can use the planetarium and administration building lots. There is room for 600 machines just east of Field museum. If these overflow, 550 can use a lot at Fort Dearborn.

Police to Aid Throngs.

A detail of 150 policemen and 250 park district guards will eliminate confusion from congestion.

The most pertinent suggestions for those who attend the event tonight are:

Start from home early to avoid the last minute rush.

Take your time at the end—the last to depart will be out of the bowl and on his way within half an hour.

Enjoy the crowd—it's part of the spectacle.

Here are a few more tips:

The gates on the north end of the stadium will not be opened because of construction on a new park administration quarters.

South and west side motorists will save time by parking in the most southerly lot, although it means walking a couple of extra blocks.

Don't step over or duck under ropes protecting pedestrian crossings.

Help the policemen maintain orderliness. They are there to help you.

And have a good time!

CHICAGO IS HOST TO CORRIGAN AND HIS CRATE TODAY

Parade, Luncheon, Tour of City on Program.

Douglas Corrigan, who will receive one of his greatest ovations at the Chicagoland Music festival, will land his $900 "crate" on Chicago airport at 11 a. m. today. Planes of the Illinois Air Pilots' association will meet him fifteen miles from the city and escort him in.

Douglas Corrigan.

The madcap aviator, who flew the "wrong way" to Ireland from New York, will be greeted by Corporation Counsel Barnet B. Hodes as chairman of the reception committee; by Mayor Kelly, and by one of the greatest crowds of Chicagoans ever to welcome a celebrity.

More than 500 picked policemen will be on hand to see that neither the flyer nor his plane are trampled by overeager if friendly welcomers.

Parade Starts at 12:30 P. M.

Corrigan will be escorted by Mayor Kelly and the mayor's New Century committee to the rear of the Congress street plaza, where the parade will assemble. It will start at 12:30 p. m., and move north in Michigan avenue to Randolph street, west to State street, south to Jackson boulevard, west to La Salle street, and thence north to the city hall, where it will disband.

A luncheon in the Blackstone hotel will follow, with Corrigan, the mayor, members of the New Century committee, and civic leaders attending. Later in the afternoon, according to present plans, Corrigan will be guest of the Texas society in the Hotel Sherman.

The young pilot will see a lot of his fellow Irishmen at 3 p. m. at the Blackstone. About 300 representatives of Irish societies in the city will gather there and hear him make a brief speech.

He'll Make Tour of Parks.

At 3:30 p. m. the flyer will be escorted on a tour of Chicago's parks and boulevards, with a brief stop at Hines hospital. Chicagoans may see him as he drives north on Beach drive through Lincoln park. His route is shown in an accompanying map.

Corrigan, still wearing his now famous lether jacket, flew from Detroit to Toledo, O., yesterday, and thence to Indianapolis.

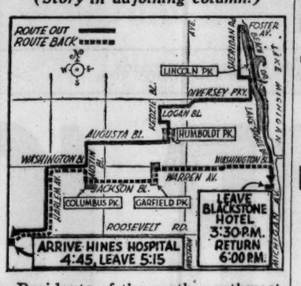
Tonight after a reception at the Chicago Athletic club he will be escorted to Soldiers' field, where 100,000 persons will be attending the music festival. He will be driven around the field to be greeted formally by Mayor Kelly. Corrigan then will speak.

Oak Park Postal Official Is Suspended as Alien

Willis H. Coates, assistant superintendent of the mails in the Oak Park postoffice, was suspended yesterday because he is an alien. He has been a postal employé twenty-four years. Coates was born in Kingston, Ont. He has taken out first naturalization papers only, and said he thought they made him a citizen. He will apply for final papers immediately, he said. He is 43 years old and lives at 2849 North Moody avenue.

Corrigan's Route

(Story in adjoining column.)



Residents of the north, northwest, and west sides may see Douglas Corrigan, trans-Atlantic flyer, as he rides along these streets, beginning at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Music Festival Notes

Throughout the years THE TRIBUNE has exercised the greatest possible care to prevent venders and hawkers from disturbing patrons at the music festivals. This year a new method will be employed. All hawkers will wear large numbered badges. If one of them annoys you, summon an usher and give him the man's number. The hawker will be removed immediately.

General admission tickets will not go on sale until 7:30 p. m. There will be enough ticket windows opened at that time to permit quick handling of those in line. Remember! It will be impossible to buy a general admission ticket at the field before 7:30.

Persons attending the festival need not buy any programs that may be on sale outside or inside the gates at Soldiers' field. Clip out the program on page 1 of this issue of THE TRIBUNE and take it with you. It is complete.

In the event of rain this morning or this afternoon, frequent announcements will be made on Radio Station W-G-N as to whether the festival will be held tonight. If the festival should be postponed, it will be held tomorrow night, beginning at the same hour.

Amateur photographers who take their cameras to the festival tonight will be able to photograph the early events by daylight and other events later that will be illuminated by the fireworks. The fireworks themselves will make good photographic material.

PASTOR SLAYER OF YOUNG MAID GETS LIFE TERM

Bismarck, N. D., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Less than 24 hours after he had confessed the murder of his young housemaid, the Rev. Heio Janssen, 51 years old, Evangelical Lutheran pastor at Krem, near here, was in the state penitentiary here tonight serving a life term.

Alma Kruckenberg.
[A. P. Wirephoto.]

In a midnight court session at Mandan Janssen pleaded guilty to poisoning Alma Kruckenberg, 16 years old, the maid, because she had threatened to reveal that the minister was responsible for her pregnant condition. Janssen confessed he put poison in some wine he gave the girl and then set fire to the parsonage.

With townspeople aroused over the affair, county officials decided to take no chances of possible violence to the minister and arranged for the court action at Mandan. Meantime Mrs. Janssen, the minister's wife, was in a Bismarck hospital, ignorant of her husband's confession and imprisonment.

SECOND FESTIVAL LUNCHEON DRAWS THRONG OF 1,700

Excitement, Enthusiasm Run Through Meeting.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The gold leafed walls and the crystal chandeliers of the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel were the setting yesterday afternoon for an excited, enthusiastic throng of 1,700 persons. The occasion was the second annual Chicagoland Music Festival luncheon, given as a prelude to the Ninth Chicagoland Music Festival which will be held in Soldiers' field tonight.

The excitement and enthusiasm of yesterday resulted not only from the fact that persons actively interested in music had a unique opportunity to get together for a great gossip fest on the subjects which interest them most, but also from the thoughtfulness of the luncheon committee in arranging for the appearance of a generous number of celebrities.

Many Celebrities There.

Among the latter were Mayor Kelly; Jessica Dragonette, most popular of radio sopranos; Olin Downes, music critic of the New York Times; Geoffrey O'Hara, widely admired composer; Alec Templeton, blind young British composer and pianist who is to be featured artist at tonight's festival; Henry Weber, musical director of W-G-N and general musical director of the festival; Noble Cain, general choral director; Robert L. Sanders, recently appointed dean of music at Indiana university; Frances Langford and Jon Hall, movie luminaries, and such sterling musicians as Lola Fletcher, Carl Craven, Frank Bennett, Louisa Hoe, Porter Heaps, and Richard Schreiber. Mayblossom MacDonald, resident instructor, was represented by her ballet.

Philip Maxwell, director of the Chicagoland Music Festival, was master of ceremonies, introducing not only the men and women named above, but also a host of others whose common interest in music had brought them together for the festival luncheon.

Child Ballet is Charming.

After the singing of "The Lord's Prayer" by Lola Fletcher, soprano, and of "America" by the throng, with Carl Craven directing, a light musical program and the serving of the luncheon began almost simultaneously. The former featured the Heidelberg singers, directed by Frank Bennett; Porter Heaps, organist, and a charming child ballet based on the adventures of Snow White and her seven satellites.

A solemn note was introduced when Oscar A. Stoffels, an officer of the great German musical clubs which put on a June festival at the International amphitheater, read a prose poem on the subject of music, dedicated to the memory of musicians who have died in the last year.

Louisa Hoe and Richard Schreiber, soprano and baritone who were adjudged best woman singer and best man singer at last year's Chicagoland festival, offered as a duo, "The Song of Love," from "Blossom Time."

Jessica Dragonette sang an air from "Thais" and the popular "Alice Blue Gown."

Mayor Kelly gave a congratulatory address in which he stressed the service which the Chicagoland Music Festival has done to the cause of music in this city. Noble Cain spoke on the festival's wide appeal, holding as it does music of every type and designed to please every taste.

Mr. Weber introduced Mr. Downes, who spoke on the similarity between the aims of the sponsors of the Chicagoland Music Festival and the music committee of the 1939 New York world's fair.

Honeymooners

MAYOR and MRS. ROBERT S. MAESTRI.

Mayor Robert S. Maestri of New Orleans and his stenographer-bride arrived in Chicago yesterday on a honeymoon which will take them on to New York. Mayor Maestri, a confirmed [and rich] bachelor, 47 years old, surprised his city on Thursday by marrying Miss Hilda Bertoniere, 33, his secretary of the last fifteen years. The couple, who registered at the Congress hotel, spent the afternoon at the Washington Park race track.

VETERAN RAIL EMPLOYE DIES.

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon for Charles C. Dimmock, 77 years old. He was a baggageman on the Prairie du Chien division of the Milwaukee road for 57 years. His nickname was "Sandy." He rode the first train run on the line. He was born in Garden Prairie, Ill.

FINAL CONTESTS TODAY FOR MUSIC FESTIVAL PLACES

Final contests in the 1938 Chicagoland Music festival will be held throughout the day today to select the fortunate winners who will be heard at this great event in Soldiers' field tonight.

The Chicago and Cook county preliminary vocal winners will compete against all out of town entrants in the Drake hotel. The women will sing in the Gold Coast room, and the men will sing in the French room, both beginning at 10 a. m.

The choral contests also will be heard in the Drake. They will be held in the grand ballroom, beginning at noon.

The Chicago and Cook county preliminary instrumental winners will compete at 10 a. m. with entrants from the rest of Chicagoland in the Imperial room of the Medinah Athletic club. The best violinist and the best cornetist will be heard at the festival.

Band contests will be held in the W-G-N studio and the Lake Shore Athletic club. Class D bands will meet at 9:30 o'clock at W-G-N, and class A bands will meet at 1 o'clock at W-G-N. Class C groups will play at 9:30 o'clock in the Lake Shore Athletic club, and class B groups will compete at 1 o'clock in the Lake Shore Athletic club.

The baton twirlers will meet at 9:30 o'clock at Soldiers' field.

Noble Cain will be general choral director and Capt. Howard Stube, chairman of the instrumental contest.

Torpedo Sinks Navy Boat in Practice; Crew Saved

Newport, R. I., Aug. 19.—(AP)—The navy diving boat YP-5 was struck by a torpedo and sunk today during practice on a range outside the harbor. The crew was saved. The 75 foot craft, on routine practice with the destroyer Hamilton, was about to retrieve a torpedo that apparently spent its course. The projectile suddenly turned and rammed the YP-5. Other boats came quickly to her side and took off the crew. Torpedoes used in practice are not equipped to explode.

Leaders of the party are S. Kodsma, secretary of the Japanese Press association, and T. Azuma, member of parliament and publisher of the Hokkai Times. They were received here by Haruki Mori, Japanese vice consul, and later by Mayor Kelly and Police Commissioner Allman. The group will go to Washington, D. C., today.

SON OF HORLICK HEIRESS OPENS BATTLE ON WILL

Legal Objections Filed by Young Sidley.

Racine, Wis., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Charges that fraud and duress forced Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, malted milk heiress, to sign a will last April 8, were made here today in the Racine county Probate court. The allegations were made by Mrs. Sidley's only son, William Horlick Sidley.

Young Sidley also charged that his mother, who died in Toronto, Canada, last July 6, was of unsound mind and incapable of making a valid will at the time she signed it in April. He added further that undue influence was used on his mother to force her to sign it.

Formal Objections Filed.

All these charges were contained in a formal objection to the will that has been filed for admission to probate before County Judge J. Allan Simpson here. The filing of the objections, which were prepared by young Sidley's uncle, William P. Sidley, of a Chicago law firm, is the first formal court action here in the legal battle for Mrs. Sidley's fortune.

The contested will was executed in Toronto while Mrs. Sidley was living at the home of William Perkins Bull, Canadian barrister and financier. She died in Bull's home, where she had been a guest for almost eighteen months.

Under the terms of the will Bull was given $250,000 outright and a one-third interest in the residual estate after certain other specific bequests had been fulfilled. These same provisions were made for young Sidley.

Immediately after the terms of this will became known William Sidley and Alexander J. Horlick, one of Mrs. Sidley's two brothers, let it be known that they would oppose it.

Uncle Not a Party.

The objections were signed by young Sidley. In Chicago Attorney William P. Sidley explained that Alexander J. Horlick, while sympathetic to his nephew's efforts, would not himself be a party to the objections. Horlick was not mentioned in his sister's will and had not been friendly with her for some years before her death.

Attorney Sidley also refused to amplify the bare statements made in the objection. He said that they would be "enlarged upon" when Judge Simpson holds a hearing upon the merits of young Sidley's claims.

The hearing on the admission of the April will to probate is set for Sept. 6. On that day, Attorney Sidley said, the court will set a new date for presentation of evidence or legal arguments on the objections.

Executors Must Oppose.

Under the law the executors appointed in Mrs. Sidley's April will must oppose the objections. Young Sidley is one of the five named by his mother. The other four who will oppose him in the courts are: William Horlick, Mrs. Sidley's second brother; Andrea Pultz, confidential secretary to William Horlick; Col. Roy F. Farrand, headmaster of St. John's Military Academy; and Bernard F. Magruder an official of the Horlick Malted Milk company.

Recognizing the conflict that has been brewing Judge Simpson recently appointed three administrators to conserve the property for the benefit of both sides. The administrators will continue to serve until the courts pass upon the validity of the will.

Bull is not a party to any of the proceedings here. He is, however, friendly to all the executors except young Sidley and may be expected to be a witness in the case. He might also retain counsel to join with the executors in opposing the objections, it was explained by attorneys.

Gets Baby Messages

Mona Barrie, film actress, who received birth congratulations intended for woman of similar name.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Mona Barrie, Australian film actress, is busy receiving congratulations and presents for a baby she didn't have.

"It's all very confusing," she said, exhibiting a pair of booties that came in the morning mail, gift from a fan.

"I really haven't a baby at all," she said, sifting through a stack of congratulatory cables and wires.

The explanation: A boy was born to Phil Berle, actor's agents, and his wife, the former Mona Barry.

Probe Suicide of Butcher, $26,877 Lottery Winner

Passaic, N. J., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Police today sought the cause of the suicide of Andrew Lengyel, 51 years old, a butcher, who won a $26,877 prize in the Irish Hospital sweepstakes in March, 1936. Lengyel drove his car to a quiet part of the city yesterday, sat on the running board, and fired a bullet into his head. His widow said she knew of no financial or other difficulties. When he won the money he sold his butcher shop and opened a tavern. Recently he sold the tavern and reëntered the butcher business. A short time ago, however, he tried to borrow $2,000, police said.

JAPAN LAUNCHES SHANTUNG DRIVE ON GUERRILLAS

42,000 Chinese Irregulars Reported in Province.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Japanese forces have started a big drive in Shantung to eliminate 42,000 Chinese guerrillas reported operating in all quarters of the province.

Japanese advices from Tsinan, Shantung provincial capital, said the initial Japanese thrust scattered 10,000 of the fight-and-run Chinese close to the city. The Japanese said other expeditions were expected to crush all guerrilla resistance in Shantung. They admitted mobile Chinese units had carried on unceasing attacks.

In the last week Chinese reported a guerrilla army had captured Tsinan. The Japanese admitted the assault, but said the guerrillas were repulsed.

Attack Two Towns.

In northern Honan province, Chinese irregulars were reported to have attacked Sinsiang and Siaokichen, inflicting 200 casualties and capturing Japanese supported officials. Paoting, capital of Hopeh province, was reported encircled by guerrillas.

In the Yangtze valley, still more than 100 miles from Hankow, China's provisional capital, Japanese forces struggled against Chinese regulars to widen the front of their drive toward Hankow.

The Japanese hammered again toward Nanchang, 90 miles south of their river base, Kiukiang. Land forces still have about 75 miles to go to reach Nanchang. On the north bank of the Yangtze, Chinese reported, the invaders are stalemated.

Japs Capture Puchow.

PEIPING, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Domei [Japanese news agency] reports today said Japanese troops had captured Puchow, strategic town at the southwestern tip of Shinsi province, after fighting their way through miles of trenches and tank traps. It was the second time Japanese had occupied the city, which lies at the bend of the Yellow river forming southern and western borders of the northern China province.

Calls 1,000,000 More Men.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 19.—Japan today called upon 1,000,000 men in the recruit division, made up of males between the ages of 20 and 34, to "stand by" for the call to quickly enlarge its fighting forces.

The new order by the war office was issued because of the failure of negotiations for settlement of the Siberian frontier dispute with soviet Russia.

The order was taken to mean the new men will be called in a short time and thrown into the grand drive to end the war in China.

A foreign office spokesman said the conferences in Moscow and Tokio had failed to reach an agreement on the selection of a commission to fix the Siberian-Corean frontier in the vicinity of Changkufeng, which territory both Japan and Russia claim.

YOUNG WOMAN SHOT SERIOUSLY BY STRAY BULLET

Miss Frances Mazurk, 21 years old, a private secretary, was seriously wounded by a stray bullet last night at Grass Lake, four miles north of Fox Lake. She lives at 5038 South Ashland avenue and is a daughter of Anthony B. Mazurk, a lawyer.

Miss Mazurk was shot while on the front porch of the cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Giersch, friends. Her younger sister, Virginia Mazurk, was also there. Miss Mazurk was at the rear of the cottage when she heard a shot. She walked out upon the front porch and a second shot, which she did not hear, was fired. The bullet struck her in the right side. She was taken to the Victory Memorial hospital, Waukegan.

Early today deputies under Sherif L. A. Doolittle arrested Martin Peterson, 38 years old, and Michael Mootz, 39, both of Chicago, for the shooting. They admitted they had been target practicing with a small caliber rifle less than two blocks from the Giersch cottage at the time Miss Mazurk was shot.

Tappahannock, Va., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Essex County Sherif S. S. Newbill went still hunting today. He found three moonshine operations—one on his own farm. The sherif said today's was the second still discovered on his own premises. With the still he found 600 gallons of mash.

KENNEDY UPSETS U. S. DIPLOMATIC CORPS IN EUROPE

Reported Plea for General Housecleaning Hit.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 19.—American career diplomats in Europe are in a state of consternation over public comments by United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy that the American diplomatic service is second rate and stocked with incompetents. He made such comments recently when in the United States.

Diplomats in half a dozen capitals have clippings of United States newspapers and weeklies quoting Ambassador Kennedy's remarks that the diplomatic service needs a house cleaning. They now are wondering whether he recommended to the state department the house cleaning wish that he expressed in his interviews.

Diplomats Criticize Kennedy.

Some diplomats criticize Kennedy for being too sweeping in his charges. "Undoubtedly there is a lot of dead wood in the service that ought to be removed, but Kennedy's remarks would have come better after his own success as a diplomat had been demonstrated," said a widely known ambassador who has been in the service many years.

He added that "we also would like to know whether Kennedy's charges against the service are based on conditions he found in the embassy when he took over in London or whether he is speaking generally."

Many Shifts Made.

Uneasiness is increased by the fact that there recently have been many shifts and removals in diplomatic personnel and rumors are floating about of more pending changes. Changes already have been made in Brussels, Belgium. It is an open secret that when William C. Bullitt took over as United States ambassador to France he did not like his Paris staf and asked the state department to change a large part of it.

Reports are heard that Kennedy has not found his staf here satisfactory, but this may be based on the fact that he brought over two special secretaries of his own whom he pays out of his own pocket. He has expressed the opinion that an ambassador ought to do a lot of the work it now is customary to turn over to secretaries.

Reports Due to Chance Remark.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy has made no comment on an impending housecleaning in the diplomatic service in foreign posts, according to information here tonight. At a party for newspaper men during his brief stay in this country recently, he did remark that he would like to have a couple of good newspaper men along with him to help him on his job and help the state department. This remark caused a Washington newspaper to run a scare story that Mr. Kennedy sought to shake up the diplomatic service.

LILIENTHAL GETS INTO HOT WATER AT TVA HEARING

Rap at Morgan Lawyer Causes a Stir.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Director David E. Lilienthal got into hot water today before the congressional investigating committee when he cast an implied slur on the lawyer for Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, ousted TVA chairman. Later he was forced to back water, and that part of his testimony was stricken from the record.

Other developments of the day included: Lilienthal's denial that politics played a part in TVA's handling of the Berry claims; repetition of his charge that vindictive resentment motivated Dr. Morgan's action in the marble case; Lilienthal's hint that he plans to sue Dr. Morgan for libel; the witness' charge that the congressional investigation of TVA was voted under false pretenses as a result of Dr. Morgan's accusations of personal dishonesty.

Clashes with Committee.

Lilienthal got into hot water and clashed with the committee when he brought up the name of Len G. Broughton. Broughton, the witness pointed out, was chairman of the federal commission which last March found the $5,000,000 marble claims of Senator George L. Berry [D., Tenn.] and associates worthless. Lilienthal then called attention to the fact that Broughton is now serving as counsel for Dr. Morgan in his suit challenging the right of President Roosevelt to remove him from the TVA.

Just what Lilienthal meant to imply, by pointing out Broughton's rôle on the federal commission and as Dr. Morgan's counsel, stirred a hornet's nest. After the hearing it was explained that Broughton is a practicing lawyer, a friend of Dr. Morgan, and has no public position which prevents him from continuing his private practice.

Asked to Show Relevancy.

When Lilienthal brought up the Broughton matter, Francis Biddle, committee counsel, asked: "What's on your mind? What is the relevancy of Broughton, a lawyer representing Dr. Morgan?"

Lilienthal declined to amplify and asked that his statement be withdrawn from the record. But Biddle persisted in demanding an explanation.

"I insist on asking what the purpose is of this evidence," said the committee counsel.

"Counsel is quite right," said Representative Charles A. Wolverton [R., N. J.], a member of the committee. "The witness has made a statement about Broughton implying that he is acting in some capacity he is not entitled to.

Defends Broughton.

"Why let a witness make aspersions without explaining and then say, 'I'll withdraw'? Once it's in the evidence it takes a stomach pump to get it out. Broughton is a reputable member of the bar. The witness should not be allowed to get away with this."

"All I have done," said Lilienthal, "is to state facts."

"You made certain statements," said Biddle. "What is their purpose and relevancy? What are the further facts?"

A motion to expunge by Representative Thomas Jenkins [R., O.] was passed. Wolverton voted against it. Senator Vic Donahey [D., O.] voted with Jenkins.

"You can't expunge the implication," Biddle commmented.

Raises Political Question.

At another point Wolverton asked Lilienthal whether TVA's agreement of July 10, 1936, to conciliate the Berry claims for marble deposits flooded by Norris dam was made because President Roosevelt was running for reëlection. At the time Berry was head of Labor's Nonpartisan league, which was lining up the labor vote for the President. After the election conciliation was dropped and condemnation of the marbles was ordered by TVA.

"Was all this politics?" asked Wolverton.

"No," replied Lilienthal. "After the election the conciliation was reaffirmed." [That was on Feb. 25, 1937.]

"It was in effect, though, only a few weeks," said Wolverton, "for it was abandoned March 31 [1937] when the condemnation was ordered."

Fought by Dr. Morgan.

The conciliation agreement was at the heart of the examination of Lilienthal. Under this agreement, Dr. John Finch, director of the United States bureau of mines, was to act as mediator, without power, to effect a settlement of the Berry claims.

Dr. Morgan, then TVA chairman, fought against the conciliation agreement. He declared it was an effort to lend an air of good faith to an attempt to stick up the government. He fought so vigorously that conciliation was abandoned in March, 1937, and the condemnation proceedings were ordered. This resulted in the federal commission's finding that the claims were valueless. Dr. Morgan immediately demanded the congressional investigation.

Dr. Morgan's letter to the TVA board on June 17, 1936, frequently bobbed up at today's hearing.

Resentment Charged.

In this letter the TVA chairman said that a chief promoter of the marble leases [Berry] was a close adviser to the President, that marble from Berry's quarry was used in a government building, and that it would be indefensible for any one connected with the administration to profit by TVA purchase of the land. Dr. Morgan urged that the President be informed of the situation.

Lilienthal reiterated his views that Dr. Morgan was motivated by vindictive resentment when he suggested taking the marble case to the White House. This resentment, the witness said, was because he [Lilienthal] was appointed to the TVA by President Roosevelt over Dr. Morgan's objections. This testimony brought a comment from Wolverton.

Wolverton Gives View.

"I have in mind the 1936 situation," said Wolverton. "It was a presidential year, and Franklin D. Roosevelt was a candidate for reëlection. Berry stood high in official circles. Therefore, if in the opinion of Dr. Morgan, also a friend of the President, the Berry claims were unfair and might involve the President as a friend of Berry, it seems proper he should have taken them to the President. If that was his true purpose, it was commendable and not blackmail.

"Do you think his feeling against you and the President might have caused him not to help in the situation?"

"I think there is no doubt of it," Lilienthal replied, "and I think the supposition that he might try to help President Roosevelt was entirely out of the picture."

Gives Hint of Suit.

After saying Dr. Morgan had charged him with personal corruption, Lilienthal gave a hint that he might sue the deposed chairman for libel. As Jenkins questioned him about the personal corruption charge, the witness said: "Civil liability is involved here, and I don't want to waive anything."

When Jenkins remarked, "I find no place where he [Dr. Morgan] charged you with personal corruption, Lilienthal remarked: "A jury in Knox county may take a different view." After the hearing Lilienthal told reporters he planned no immediate action.

Lilienthal did not elaborate on his statement that the congressional investigation of TVA was voted under false pretenses as a result of Dr. Morgan's charges of personal dishonesty in TVA matters.

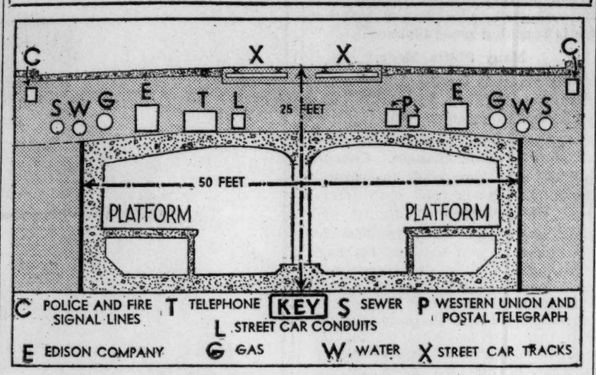
Cites Course of Charges.

The witness said that the TVA handling of the Berry marble case was first criticized as another Teapot Dome scandal and the steal of the century, but now the charge has dwindled away until TVA is merely being accused of trying to outsmart Berry.

Lilienthal assailed Dr. Morgan for appearing as a witness last Dec. 20 in the Berry marble condemnation trial against the wishes of TVA counsel. At that time Dr. Morgan hammered away on the question of bad faith on the part of the marble claimants. Lilienthal said it was at about this time that he first heard of a congressional investigation of TVA.

"The interpretation of Arthur Morgan's testimony," he said, "was that TVA counsel had laid down on the job, had not put in all the information for improper reasons. No punches were pulled. The case was well handled and it was won. Dr. Arthur Morgan's statements were unjust and unsupported."

New Step in Subway Plan



The diagram shows how underground utilities lines would be located in State street after construction of the proposed rapid transit subway. It is a cross-section of State street between Madison and Monroe streets, looking northward. The existing freight tunnel, approximately 12 feet below the subway, would not be disturbed.

NLRB PLEDGES SPEEDY DECISION IN N. SHORE LINE STRIKE DISPUTE

The National Labor Relations board will conduct a speedy hearing Monday and render an immediate decision on the claims of five rival unions to represent 1,300 striking employés of the North Shore Line. Leonard Bajork, regional director of the NLRB, gave this assurance yesterday to Harry E. Scheck, federal conciliator.

Leonard Bajork.

Scheck considers the interunion dispute to be the most formidable obstacle to settlement of the strike, which was called Tuesday. Company officials have declined to meet with the union heads until the NLRB has designated the bargaining agent.

The strike was voted by the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés of America. They acted to protest a 15 per cent wage cut after the company abrogated contractual relations which had existed for nineteen years. Four craft unions have challenged the Amalgamated by asking the NLRB to designate them as employé representatives.

UTILITY REMOVAL PACT IS PROPOSED TO SPEED SUBWAY

Let Courts Allot Costs Later, Mayor Urges.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

Mayor Kelly yesterday asked public utilities companies to coöperate with the city in working out an agreement for relocating underground lines in State street so as not to delay construction of a rapid transit subway.

He suggested a plan which would defer a decision on whether the city or the companies should pay the cost. Under his proposal the courts would be asked to decide that issue, but in the meantime construction would go ahead as soon as the Public Works administration decided on a subway grant.

Confer in Mayor's Office.

Mayor Kelly met with the utilities representatives in his office. The companies represented included the Illinois Bell Telephone company, Chicago Surface Lines, Commonwealth Edison company, Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies, and the Chicago Tunnel company.

Unofficial estimates place the cost of moving the utility lines at 3 to 4 million dollars.

"The subway plans are practically complete, financing is being arranged and it is hoped to start actual work this fall," Mayor Kelly said.

"While the city has no desire to saddle any unreasonable expense upon the companies, nevertheless they must realize that the administration has a duty to protect the public interest and finances."

Promise an Early Answer.

Mayor Kelly gave copies of a written proposal to the utilities officials. They promised, he said, to give him an early answer.

"We contend that the companies should pay all of the costs," he said after the meeting. "I imagine they think the city should bear it. The courts will have to decide."

Mayor Kelly suggested a suit be started at once to determine this issue. In the meantime, the city and the companies would execute an agreement providing that each party undertake that part of the removal work which can be done most economically and efficiently by its own forces or contractors.

It provides for organization of a board of apportionment whose duty it would be to keep a record of expenditures. The agreement would stipulate that expenditures incurred by each party would be adjusted after the legal decision.

PAINTERS ELECT AGENT IN PLACE OF SLAIN DUNGAN

George Henneman, treasurer of local 191 of the painters' union, was elected business agent last night to succeed the slain James G. Dungan. Henneman had long been a trusted aid of Dungan, who was assassinated Aug. 8 in front of his home at 3116 Lowe avenue.

On Jan. 3, 1936, Henneman's wife, Elsie, was shot to death by a gunman as she was riding in an automobile with Henneman in front of 333 Root street. Police said the shotgun blast was meant for Henneman. The murder is still unsolved. In February, 1937, Henneman was sentenced to six months in the Bridewell on a gun toting charge.

Last night's election was held at 5444 Wentworth avenue. Charles Musti resigned as local president and was elected financial secretary. Mike McLane, vice president, automatically succeeded Musti. Jack Richards was elected vice president. A treasurer to succeed Henneman will be chosen later. Musti succeeded Gustave Fischer, who was ousted recently. Fischer is expected to submit to police questioning Monday in connection with the Dungan murder.

Glencoe Athlete Recovering from Bandit's Knife Wound

Stabbed just above the heart when he resisted a colored robber, Joseph Sacco, 21 years old, a north shore athlete and playground instructor, was recovering yesterday in the Highland Park hospital. The robber tried to hold him up while Sacco was walking to his home at 411 Randolph street, Glencoe, late Thursday night. Sacco kicked a revolver from the robber's hand, but then was knifed. Sacco pulled the knife out of his chest and chased the bandit until he collapsed from loss of blood.

HUGHES HOPS OFF FOR TEST OF HIGH ALTITUDE MARK

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Howard Hughes, wealthy airman, took off this evening in the Lockheed plane in which he recently circled the globe for a substratosphere flight to New York. He and his crew are working with Dr. Richard Loelace, Mayo Foundation surgeon, to test an ultra-light oxygen mask for air travel almost six miles up.

At 25,000 feet, Hughes said, his ship will be capable of cruising more than 220 miles an hour. He said the long-standing west-east nonstop transport record of 11 hours and 5 minutes, made in 1935, probably will fall during one of his winter test hops across America.

DEFEATED POPE CONSIDERS RACE AS INDEPENDENT

G.O.P. Sees Idaho Senate Victory if He Does.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Senator James P. Pope, [D., Idaho], the yes-man who was defeated by an anti-Roosevelt Democrat in the recent Idaho senatorial primaries, returned to Washington today to "get a perspective on the Idaho situation." The Senator will decide at conferences here whether to run independently as a 100 per cent Roosevelt supporter, he said.

Republicans are hoping that the other senator from Idaho does run independently, being confident, they declare, that it would split the Democratic vote and assure them another seat in the senate. The Republican nominee in Idaho is Donald Callahan.

In the 1932 election, Senator Pope received 103,020 votes to 78,325 for his Republican opponent. The majority was reversed in 1936, when Senator William E. Borah received 128,723 to 74,444 for his Democratic opponent.

Defeated in Primary.

In the recent Idaho primary, Senator Pope yas defeated for the renomination by Representative D. Worth Clark, who campaigned frankly as "a conservative, anti-New Deal Democrat." Pope received 39,000 votes to 42,000 for Representative Clark.

Although Postmaster General James A. Farley congratulated Mr. Clark and offered him the services of the Democratic national committee in his campaign against the Republican nominee, ardent Roosevelt supporters are urging Pope to run independently. Among these are Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, Senator George W. Norris [Radical, Neb.], and Senator Robert M. La Follette [Radical, Wis.].

So far, none of the senators marked for slaughter in President Roosevelt's attempted purge of the Democratic party has been defeated, while three of them—Senator Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.], Senator Frederick Van Nuys [D., Ind.], and Senator Bennett C. Clark [D., Mo.]—have been renominated.

Others Marked for Purge.

If the attempted purge of Senator Walter F. George in Georgia, Senator Millard E. Tydings in Maryland, and Senator Ellison D. Smith in South Carolina should fail, the net result of Mr. Roosevelt's undertaking would be the loss of Senator Pope. Hence the movement to run him as an independent.

The administration is putting tremendous pressure on federal office holders in Maryland and Georgia to force coöperation with the purge. The firing yesterday of Edgar B. Dunlap, Georgia counsel for the RFC, because he was supporting Senator George, was only one instance in a concerted move to force the office holders into line. Dunlap said he was told to campaign for Lawrence Camp, the hand picked administration candidate against Senator George, or else. He chose the else.

Henry W. Webb, until recently WPA administrator in Maryland, was sponsored for that job by Senator Tydings and discharged because he would not use his influence among Maryland's 15,000 WPA relief workers in behalf of Representative David J. Lewis, the 100 per cent administration candidate against Tydings.

Predict Marshal Will Go.

The administration, it has been disclosed, will fire August Klecka, United States marshal at Baltimore and a Tydings appointee, just as soon as the Lewis managers can agree on his successor.

Senator George L. Radcliffe [D., Md.], manager of the Tydings campaign, but a loyal supporter and close personal friend of President Roosevelt, says he will fight confirmation of any man appointed to succeed Klecka.

Meanwhile Senator Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.], chairman of the senate committee investigating campaign expenditures and the use of patronage or public funds to influence votes, said he had told investigators in Georgia "to get the facts" concerning the firing of Mr. Dunlap.

Senator Sheppard said the committee would look into the charge that assistants of District Attorney Camp were politically active for Camp provided an official complaint was made. Dunlap made the charge in a speech. Sheppard said the committee had agreed that a federal officeholder properly might be a candidate for senator, but that this would not include support by the officeholder's assistants.

Slug in Subway Turnstile Stops the Wheels of Justice

New York, Aug. 19.—(AP)—A woman juror was arrested today on a charge of putting a slug instead of a nickel in a subway turnstile. Her arrest caused a mistrial in the case of Squire Watson, a Negro, after $2,100 had been spent in trying him. The juror, Vivian Morrison, was arrested in a subway station on her way to court. Watson was on trial for second degree assault.

G. O. P. CANDIDATE ENTERS RACE FOR O'CONNOR'S SEAT

New York, Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Allen W. Dulles, attorney and former diplomat was today entered in the September primary in the 16th Manhattan congressional district on the Republican ticket. He is backed by a group headed by Kenneth F. Simpson, Republican county leader. This is the district now represented by John O'Connor [D.], whom President Roosevelt is opposing. There had been talk of putting O'Connor on the Republican ticket because of his opposition to some of the Roosevelt measures, but such a move was opposed by Simpson. It finally was decided that O'Connor, despite his being on the Roosevelt purge list, was too closely linked with Tammany, to make an acceptable Republican candidate.

At O'Connor's campaign headquarters today hundreds of telegrams and letters were received commending his address last night in which he assailed the President's purge as a move toward dictatorship.

Government Experts Hope to Develop Stingless Bee

Beltsville, Md., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Government would like to develop a gentle honey bee. The laboratory of the bureau of entomology here is studying the many varieties of bees and their characteristics. When the study is concluded, experts hope to start cross breeding to produce a pacifist bee that will produce more honey and be less inclined to swarm and sting.

girls said they had been caught red handed but a presiding magistrate turned them loose in quick time. The girls, Lillianna Hammond and Lessie Ware, testified that bail and attorneys were supplied for them by the gang.

Name of Judge Withheld.

The dismissals in this case were granted by Judge Hulon Capshaw, who has been named by Dewey as one of the judges who had been bribed, intimidated, or influenced by Hines so that the lottery racket could be carried on unmolested by the law.

Capshaw's name did not go into the record, however, because Justice Pecora upheld a defense objection that no connection had been revealed in the evidence so far between Hines and the judge. Dewey promised the court he would make the connection clear later in the case.

Pompez told a vivid story of how he had been forced into the racket by the late Dutch Schultz and his lieutenants. Twice, he said, he had been conducted to the gang leader's apartment, where Schultz prominently displayed a revolver and then laid it on a table.

"I'm going to make an example of you for all Harlem," was the Schultz pronouncement when Pompez first declined to let the gang take over his numbers game bank.

The extent of the Pompez operations was shown when he told the court he lost $60,000 on Thanksgiving eve of 1932 when many persons bet on the number "527." The number came out on the horse track parimutuel machines in the odds.

Sticks to His Story.

Lloyd P. Stryker, chief of the Hines counsel, had tough sledding when he attempted to break down Ison's story. The former policy operator shot back answers which discomfited the defense attorney and at times moved the whole courtroom to laughter.

At the outset Stryker referred to the indictment of Ison in 1937 on policy game charges and the latter's departure for Paris, France. Neither Ison nor Pompez were named in the later indictment of Hines, but the first indictment still is alive, and it was announced the pair would plead guilty to a misdemeanor. The prosecutor will recommend leniency.

"You were a fugitive from justice during 1937, were you not?" asked Stryker.

"No," was the surprising answer of Ison.

"Then why did you go to France?" Stryker demanded.

"For my health," replied Ison.

Some of Ison's early testimony on direct examination was stricken out when the state agreed to change the time of the origin of the conspiracy from March of 1931 to the fall of the same year. It was pointed out that the reference to the earlier date in the indictment had to do with Davis and the other conspirators while Hines' alleged rôle did not begin until later.

Before that Ison had testified about being taken for a "ride" by two Schultz lieutenants early in 1931. He came back alive, he revealed, because he agreed to be "shooken down" in the amount of $600 weekly.

Two Killed by Oil Tank Explosion; Five Injured

Dublin, Ind., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Auburn Money, 35 years old, of Straughn, died tonight in Henry county hospital at Newcastle, second victim of the early morning explosion of an 8,000 barrel oil tank near here which injured five other persons. Clarence Zook, 35, of Dublin, died in the hospital a few hours after the explosion. The two were at work in a pit around the tank when the blast tore the top off. The tank, nearly empty, was part of a Gulf Oil company storage unit.

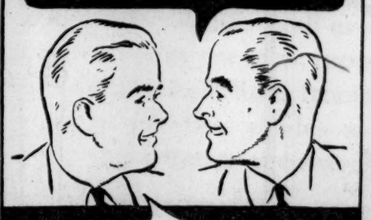
"My pay is nearly double what it was two years ago"



"My wife had the right idea. She said that the only way to get ahead is to train for a better job. If anybody had told me two years ago I would be making what I am today, I wouldn't have believed it was possible."

The best way to get out of a rut is to train for a better job. If it really is a good job, it takes a good man to fill it. Industry is always willing to pay better salaries to trained men who know their jobs. The man who has trained himself is the man who can hold a better job and command a better price.

FRANCO MASSES TROOPS FOR BIG ATTACK IN SPAIN

Rebels Bomb Barcelona; Sink British Ship.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PERPIGNAN, France [Near the Spanish Frontier], Aug. 19.—A new Spanish rebel offensive, probably on two fronts, was being prepared today as Gen. Francisco Franco shifted large bodies of troops in Spain. The insurgent force was expected to be hurled against Barcelona, provisional loyalist capital in northeast Spain, and Valencia, vital Mediterranean port.

Navarese troops, the pride of Gen. Franco's rebel legions, and Italian soldiers were concentrated on the Catalonian front for the Barcelona drive. They were replaced on the central front by Moorish troops, reports said, for the renewed push toward Valencia.

A Drive to End the War.

The coming drive, military experts said, will be on a big scale. It will be aimed at winning the Spanish civil war before its third winter. Gen. Franco himself will lead the campaign, rebel sources admitted. He named Gen. Juan Vigon, former chief of staf of the northern army, as chief of his personal staf.

Two developments were viewed as preliminaries to the new offensive. They were:

FIRST—Insurgent aviation loosed a series of intense aerial bombardments on the eastern Mediterranean coast in which British shipping suffered.

SECOND—The insurgents closed their frontier to France, a precaution to insure secrecy.

14 Killed in Barcelona.

Barcelona was the target of one bombing raid. Fourteen persons were killed and 90 wounded. Other attacks were made on Sitges and Vallcarca. The combined casualty toll in the three raids was estimated at more than 150 persons.

Two British merchantmen were bombed. The freighter Stanbrook was sunk in the Vallcarca harbor. The freighter Stanforth was off Barcelona, en route to Oran, Algeria, when rebel planes "deliberately bombed" it, a radio message from the ship said. The Stanforth was not hit.

Several houses were ruined when rebel planes bombed Gandia, a British controled port on the eastern Spanish coast.

HITLER ASKS AID OF RICH JUNKERS IN NO. GERMANY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—Reichsfuehrer Hitler today entered Pomerania in northern Germany, stronghold of the Junkers, on his tour of German army maneuvers. A number of wealthy landowners in this region still regard Hitler's rule with noticeable coolness.

The Fuehrer was expected to confer with local leaders in an effort to win their sympathy for the Nazi cause. The Nazis feel the whole nation now should be united "to fight for the liberation of the oppressed Germans in Czechoslovakia."

Col. Ladislaus Nyiry von Szekely, in an article in the Essener Zeitung, revealed today that plans for an encirclement of Czechoslovakia by Hungary, Poland, and Germany have not been fully discarded.

[The foreign offices of these nations have denied the existence of such plans.]

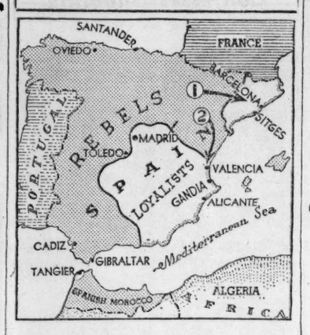
Von Szekely said groups in Hungary hope to slice off part of eastern Czechoslovakia "when the impending solution of the so-called Czechoslovakian problem is taken in hand."

Prepare for Battle



Gen. Francisco Franco maneuvered his rebel troops yesterday for two drives intended to bring the Spanish civil war to a close before winter. One attack is expected against Barcelona (1) and the other toward vital port of Valencia (2).

UNCOVER SECRET FLIGHT OF JEWS FROM GERMANY

Hundreds Spirited to Swiss Border.

BASEL, Switzerland, Aug. 19.—(AP)—France and Switzerland strengthened their border patrols today to block an increasing flow of refugees from Germany. The refugees, most of them Jews, traveled along a secret "underground railway" through Nazi territory.

The Swiss mobilized all available police in the northern cantons. The central council in Berne promised more troops for the frontier if necessary to reinforce 300 guards already there.

French border guards were reinforced at all points of entry from Switzerland and Germany. Credentials of all train passengers from these countries were checked carefully.

Trek Well Planned.

A conference of cantonal police chiefs in Berne decided that more than 1,000 persons who had crossed the Swiss frontier illegally would be tolerated for the present. A warning was issued, however, that all would be sent back if more refugees tried to enter the country.

Swiss detectives questioned 400 refugees who made themselves known to the authorities in Basel after crossing the frontier. They learned of the existence of a twentieth century combination of the "Scarlet Pimpernel" of the French revolution and the "underground railway" of American slavery days.

The flood of refugees, the detectives learned, was arranged by a secret organization among Germans and Austrians who feared for their future under the Nazi régime.

Pass Near Hitler's Retreat.

German families sympathetic to refugees provided shelters for them on the routes to the frontiers. Refugees told of hiding in woods and on farms in constant fear of capture by Nazi border patrols.

Many Austrian refugees, the Swiss police said, went through Bavaria, not far from the Berchtesgaden mountain retreat of Reichsfuehrer Hitler, and then into Switzerland or France from Baden.

GERMANS SPURN CZECH OFFER OF POLITICAL JOBS

'Wholly Inadequate,' Nazi Minority Retorts.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Sudeten German [Nazi] party leaders today described as "wholly inadequate" Czechoslovakia's offer of civil jobs as a peace gesture. The German minority, which is backed by Reichsfueher Hitler, demands full equality with the Czechs.

"Seven postmasters were tossed into the scales on the side of peace but they did not weigh enough," said one party leader. He was referring to the government's offer of that many postmasterships to Germans in Sudeten regions of the Czech republic.

The proffered postmasterships are in larger communities, including Bodenbach, Asch, and Rumburg. In addition the government said the chief of overseers, who directs public works, in Bruenn will be chosen from among the Sudeten Germans. District governorships in Asch, Trautenau, and other areas are to go to them.

More Concessions Expected.

"An offer of 700 jobs and many more later would have been a fair beginning," said another representative of the nation's 3,250,000 Sudeten Germans.

It was admitted, however, that the government's move was considered conciliatory toward its Germanic population.

From the government side came an intimation that more substantial concessions would be made—that from time to time more jobs would be opened to Germans to permit them a greater share in the government.

Officials Meet with Runciman.

Government chieftains held a conference with Viscount Runciman, Great Britain's unofficial mediator, to discuss possible means of increasing the offers of these attractive political plums.

Sudeten leaders said today's offer did not touch on the real issue of their minority quarrel, and that they would not be tricked into "selling out" for trifling concessions.

It was said in Sudeten quarters that Runciman's discussions have swept aside unimportant matters. The unmistakable issue is whether Czechoslovakia is to be a nation of Czechoslovaks, as the Czechs demand, as an association as equal autonomous nationalities as the Sudeten Germans demand, Sudeten spokesmen asserted.

Extortion Note Bearer, Aged 12, Cleared of Blame

Milton Zuda, 12 years old, 1750 Clybourn avenue, was held blameless by the police yesterday in connection with the delivery of an extortion note Thursday evening. Zuda was seized when he took a note to Isadore Lasko, a butcher at 404 North avenue, demanding $1,500. The boy said a man gave him 25 cents to deliver the note and wait for an answer. The man has not been found.

King Sees Troops

Darkened areas on map indicate the cantons of Malmedy and Eupen where King Leopold III. of Belgium yesterday inspected the military maneuvers.

MALMEDY, Belgium, Aug. 19.—(AP)—King Leopold III. was given a tumultuous welcome today in the cantons of Malmedy and Eupen when he came on an inspection tour of Belgian military maneuvers.

[Under the treaty of Versailles the cantons of Eupen and Malmedy and Moresnet—a combined area of 382 square miles—were ceded to Belgium by Germany.]

SCIENTISTS TOLD ABOUT A GULL'S GULLIBILITY!

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAMBRIDGE, England, Aug. 19.—[Special.]—A gull's gullibility or fooling the finch might have been the title of a paper presented today before the annual convention of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. It was the report of F. B. Kirkman, a London ornithologist.

Mr. Kirkman spent weeks in a study of feathered frustration. He watched birds try vainly to hatch rubber balls, golf balls, camphor balls, and cotton reels. One black headed gull sat for twenty-two days on a rubber ball which did not hatch. Another sporting bird tackled a cricket ball, but rolled off after repeated attempts to mount.

Two Oxford university professors, in another report, said that a study of the famous Swanscombe skull indicates the Englishmen who lived 250,000 years ago hardly could have differed from modern man. Their brains had already acquired status comparable to homo sapiens, the report stated.

WOMAN CHARGES EX-POLICEMAN WITH ASSAULT

Isaac Perry, 66 years old, who retired from the Zion police force in 1936 after many years' service, yesterday was arrested on an assault and battery charge.

The complainant is Mrs. Edith Wolfe Hansel, 34, of Waukegan, until Aug. 6 proprietor of a restaurant on Sheridan road south of Zion. Mrs. Hansel, who rented the building from Paul M. La Rose, Zion attorney, had a judgment entered against her Wednesday for $219.58 in back rent.

Mrs. Hansel, who said she owed nothing, appealed the case. Yesterday she obtained a writ of replevin. Accompanied by Constable Charles Krueger she went to get her furnishings, which were guarded by Perry. Perry, she told Waukegan officers violently resisted her efforts. Sherif's deputies were called and removed Perry. He will be arranged Wednesday.

60 ARABS SLAIN IN CLASH WITH BRITISH TROOPS

Palestine Hills Echo Fire of Machine Guns.

JERUSALEM, Aug. 19.—(AP)—British troops struggled hand to hand tonight with Arab detachments who are fighting against a Jewish influx into the Holy Land.

The Arabs, reports said, have suffered heavy reverses, with sixty dead and hundreds wounded. British troops, with the advantage of aircraft, suffered six dead and twelve wounded.

Northern Palestine hills echoed with rifle and machine gun fire. Aircraft dived and circled, machine gunning retreating Arabs who for days had sought shelter in orange groves, rocks, and caves.

Heaviest Fighting of Strife.

Fighting yesterday on the outskirts of Acre and today on the plain of Sharon was the heaviest the Holy Land has seen in the current wave of disorders, which became serious July 5.

The two battles began as British troops, taking the heaviest offensive yet, tried to force hill bands into the open.

Airplanes scouted positions of organized bands reporting them to army headquarters. Tonight the Nablus district thundered with the roar of planes and the rumble of tanks and trucks passing from village to village in a search for suspicious characters and armaments.

Report Many Wounded.

Two small engagements were reported west of Nablus, but no details were given. Reports said many Arabs were attempting to reach Syria and Iraq with their wounded.

Several Jewish casualties were reported in scattered disorders. A German Jew was found stabbed to death.

At Haifa, six were wounded, three seriously, when a Jewish bus was bombed.

VICTIM OF CRASH DIES.

Lincoln, Ill., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Elizabeth Wendell, 66 years old, of Peoria, died today in the Deaconess hospital. She was in an automobile crash near here Tuesday night. Seven other persons injured in the crash are recovering.

ICKES HALTS WORK ON 2 PORTO RICAN BUILDING PROJECTS

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

SAN JUAN, P. R., Aug. 19.—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, as administrator of the Porto Rican Reconstruction administration, today ordered that all work on the School of Tropical Medicine and the University of Porto Rico be stopped at noon tomorrow. Until the legislature passes a bill giving Columbia university a part in the direction of the School of Tropical Medicine work must not be resumed, Ickes ordered.

To enact this legislation, made necessary to correct an "inadvertent error" at the last regular session, eliminating Columbia's participation on the board of trustees, was among the reasons listed in Gov. Blanton Winship's call for the special session.

Four years ago the legislature adjourned before the legal end of the session because of instructions on legislation from Secretary Ickes' office to Gov. Winship which the legislators termed "colonial dictatorship."

95 New Whooping Cough Cases in Day; One Death

During the twenty-four hours ending at 9 a. m. yesterday 95 new cases of whooping cough and one death due to the disease were reported to the board of health. This brought the total for the year to 3,875 cases and 22 deaths, compared with 2,367 cases and 28 deaths in the corresponding period in 1937. The outbreak is the worst since 1926.

SAVING THE MARK

By CALEB

TWO SLENDER, jagged lines move across the charted graph of man's life span. Beginning at the top and moving down across the years is the urge of adventure. Beginning at the bottom and moving slowly upward are the elements of experience and caution.

What an adventurer the child is as he begins to walk! Had he the strength and agility, what would he not accomplish—for the great urge of adventure finds in him no inhibitions, no slightest voice of caution.

The first tumble down the steps, the first burn from the fire awakens the line of caution in the graph, and starts its upward progress toward the norm, the point of intersection. Usually, as experience increases, the fascination of adventure decreases—the two lines meet and cross. Such graphs tell the story of the average life.

Sometimes the slow up-climb of experience never quite overtakes the soaring persistence of adventure. The line of caution levels off or wanes, while the urge to do and see new things keeps the other line high above it.

These unconverging lines chart the career of such men as join some desperate military cause to fly outmoded planes into the murderous face of a superbly equipped enemy. Again, they chart the lives of scholars in the cloistered loneliness of a laboratory—insular lives of devotion answering the call of adventure in the unknown realms of physics, anthropology, medicine or the stars.

Those of us whose life lines move across the chart in steady conformity sense the diminution of the drive to adventure, the sure, slow rise of caution and experience as we grow older. And it is, perhaps, better so. This course that most of us follow is the background, the orderly pattern that brings purpose to the sallies and support to the leadership of the adventurers. There is solace in the knowledge that it is often more difficult to hold, organize and consolidate than it is to discover and conquer.

Without the humdrum assignments, the restricted daily circles of countless useful lives, the adventurers themselves would be lost, for strangely enough, it is the stay-at-homes who furnish the sinews and the backing for adventure. It has been so since bow first flung an adventurous arrow —and so it must always be.

FIND PRESIDENT DISAGREES WITH MONROE RECORD

He Holds 1823 Doctrin Included Canada.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today expressed irritation at some of the interpretations placed upon his Kingston speech yesterday in which he assured the Canadian people that "the people of the United States will not stand idly by if domination of Canadian soil is threatened by any other empire."

Prof. A. B. Hart, whose book disagrees with President's view.

Mr. Roosevelt, upon his return to his summer home here this morning, told reporters that his remarks did not mean the extension of the Monroe Doctrin to cover Canada. He said positively that he did not interpret the doctrin as excluding Canada from the other American states, colonies, and dependencies which the doctrin sought to protect from foreign invasion or resettlement. He challenged the newspaper men to find any justification for their conclusions from a reading of the text.

Interpretation Disputed.

The correspondents accepted the challenge. They examined the text of the original message sent to congress by President Monroe in 1823 and found support for the conclusion that the doctrin applied to Latin America and that Canada had not been in Monroe's mind. The President's interpretation was also disputed in the most celebrated study of the doctrin written by Albert Bushnell Hart, professor of the science of government at Harvard university, in 1916.

Monroe's message to congress proclaimed that "the American continents, by the free and independent condition which they have assumed to maintain, are henceforth not to be considered as subjects for future colonization by any European powers."

The paragraph of the message which seemed to bar Canada from the terms of the doctrin read as follows:

"With the existing colonies or dependencies of any European power we have not interfered and shall not interfere." Canada, in 1823, was, as it is today, a British possession.

No Pledge of Assistance.

Nor did the message contain any promise of armed assistance to any of the European controled colonies in the event of their invasion or "domination" of their soil by a foreign power other than that to which they then paid allegiance.

The correspondents also contended that the President did not take into consideration the historical background of the times that prompted Monroe's message. It was pointed out that the message was aimed immediately at the project of the holy alliance [Russia, Austria, and Prussia] to restore King Ferdinand to the throne of Spain and recover his American colonies.

One passage of the message was quoted to show the locale President Monroe had in mind: "It is impossible that the allied powers should extend their political system in any portion of either continent without endangering our peace and happiness; nor can any one believe that our southern brethren, if left to themselves, would adopt it of their own accord."

President Speaks from Auto.

The President's remarks, delivered from his open automobile in an informal press conference after he had alighted from his special train this morning, were provoked by a correspondent's observation that the state department in Washington apparently considered the President's Canadian speech as an expansion of the Monroe Doctrin but one for which he assumed personal responsibility.

The President seemed a little appalled at the world-wide reaction to his speech and he replied sharply that the Monroe Dictrin had not been expanded and that it had always covered Canada.

In direct contradiction to this statement, Prof. Hart in his 400 page study of the Monroe Doctrin stated flatly that Canada had never been protected by the doctrin.

"Neither the colonization clause, nor the other parts of the message contained any clause which applied to Canada," he wrote. "Then, and most of the time since, that region was unquestioned by the United States as a permanent part of the British empire."

See Aid for Britain.

The Kingston message strengthened Great Britain considerably in its European position, observers pointed out. If it should be involved in war, it would be free to employ its navy without the necessity of defending the extensive Canadian coast, Mr. Roosevelt now having promised to defend it in case of invasion.

The President was asked to comment on the sale of an estate across the Hudson from his home to Father Divine, negro cult leader of New York. A number of Father Divine's followers have settled upon the estate. Mr. Roosevelt remarked that any one standing on the front lawn of the Roosevelt residence could see that Father Divine's heaven was not next door but a mile and a quarter away.

The President would not comment upon the radio speech last night of Representative John J. O'Connor of New York, one of the prominent Democrats marked for the attempted party purge. O'Connor called the President's campaign "an escalator to dictatorship."

Remains for Ten Days.

Mr. Roosevelt will be at Hyde Park for the next ten days. There are a number of domestic problems for him to meet. He confers tomorrow with Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, presumably in connection with administration plans to dispose of a huge wheat surplus. He will also study a list of candidates for the present Supreme court vacancy.

Tells of Cruelty

Mrs. Etha Henderson Henneberry as she appeared at hearing which resulted in divorce and $350 a month alimony for her.

ETHA HENNEBERRY WINS DIVORCE AND $350 A MONTH

Gets New Auto, Too; Cites Two Acts of Cruelty.

Mrs. Etha Henderson Henneberry won an uncontested divorce and a large financial settlement yesterday from George F. Henneberry, head of a rotogravure company at 4001 Ravenswood avenue. She testified in a brief hearing before Judge Peter Schwaba to two acts of cruelty.

Her attorney, Robert Cantwell Jr., and Henneberry's lawyer, Frederic Fischel, then announced an out of court agreement had been reached whereby Mrs. Henneberry will receive $350 a month. The full payments will continue even if she earns additional income, but they will end if she remarries.

Terms of Agreement.

Henneberry also will keep up payments on a $50,000 life insurance policy of which she is beneficiary. In addition he will buy her a new automobile and she will keep the furnishings in her home at 201 East Delaware place.

Mrs. Henneberry, a blonde, 37 years old, was dressed in black when she testified. She wore a pearl necklace. Questioned by Attorney Cantwell, she said her husband slapped her face on Nov. 15, 1937.

On Aug. 1, this year, he quarreled with her while they were driving to Barrington, she testified. Henneberry ordered the chauffeur, William Skinner, to stop the car. He and his wife got out and then he dragged her back into the car, she said. Mrs. Henneberry wept while Skinner was on the stand corroborating her story.

Both Diverced Before.

The Henneberrys were married on Feb. 25, 1932, after both had been divorced. Henneberry's first wife, the former Janet Hibbard, divorced him in 1931. They had two sons, Robert Paul Henneberry, who was shot to death by another student at Williams college, Williamstown, Mass., in 1936, and George F. Jr., who was killed in an automobile accident about sixteen years ago.

Mrs. Henneberry's first husband was Jack Henderson, an official of the Crowell Publishing company, with offices in Detroit, Mich. She recently won a court order to force Henderson to pay for his eldest son's education, although the son is more than 21 years old.

G. O. P. JUDGESHIP NOMINEES ASK FOR FREE COURTS

Republican nominees for Municipal court judgeships met yesterday in the La Salle hotel and adopted a resolution condemning control of that or any other court for political purposes.

"This control constitutes an appalling danger to the liberties of our citizens," the resolution read, "and destroys that equality under the law that is guaranteed by the constitution.

"If and when we are elected to the Municipal court bench and it comes to our attention that fewer employés are needed and that intelligent economies might be instituted, we shall vote to adopt these measures immediately. No bosses of any party will dictate our actions in the slightest degree in this or any other matter that may come before us."

The resolution was a reference to the action of Bailif Al Horan of the court in refusing to rehire 55 deputies he discharged before the April primary election.

PAUL BEHN, GRID STAR AT DRAKE, DROWNS IN LAKE

Paul Behn, member of the football squad at Drake university, Des Moines, Ia., was drowned last night while swimming in the Chicago harbor off 8th street. Dozens of persons on shore and in boats in the harbor saw him sink. He was 23 years old, and lived in West Chicago.

A desperate effort to rescue Behn was made by his friend, Robert Fieroh, 25, of 8857 South Leavitt street. Fieroh is part owner of a sailing boat called the Blue Ghost. It was anchored about 200 feet off shore. Behn and Fieroh had attempted to swim to the boat.

Two-thirds of the way to the boat, Behn, a husky six footer, cried out: "I'm afraid I can't make it."

Fieroh, who was ahead, swam back and grabbed him. Behn, however, struggled, and Fieroh was forced to break free. As half a dozen boats neared them, Behn sank. His body was recovered 35 minutes later. Inhalator squad 8, under Capt. Raymond Daley, worked for 45 minutes in a futile effort to revive him.

GETS A WRIT TO STOP HUSBAND'S MOLESTING HER

Mrs. Mildred O'Hara filed a divorce suit yesterday against her husband, Henry, and then went before Judge Peter M. Schwaba with her attorney, Victor Frohlich.

"O'Hara thinks he is a two-gun man," Frohlich told the court. "Whenever he quarrels with his wife, he gets two guns from his desk and threatens her life."

Judge Schwaba issued an injunction restraining O'Hara from molesting his wife. Mrs. O'Hara lives at 5720 South Rockwell street with her two children, June, 10 years old, and Margaret, 8.

LYONS PROMISES PROBE OF INSULT TO G. O. P. AT FAIR

Assails Horner for Cossack Affront.

Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for United States senator, assailed Gov. Horner last night in three speeches on the west side. He accused the governor indirectly of disrupting Republican day at the state fair grounds Wednesday.

Closed gates met the Republican party workers when they sought to enter the grounds for the party rally. State policemen stood guard. When the party leaders protested vigorously the gates later were thrown open.

"That disturbance was caused by the state Cossacks under the guidance of none other than Henry Horner," declared Lyons. "The Cossacks even drew their pistols.

G. O. P. to Demand Quiz.

"At the next session of the general assembly the Republicans will demand an investigation to find out who was responsible for the police orders to bother the Republicans. I would like to know whether the fair grounds are run for the people or for the Cossacks.

"Gov. Horner and his 60,000 pay rollers are out to whip me. He has declared me the original No. 1 purge of Illinois. I challenge him and his pay rollers. I'll beat his handpicked candidate from Havana [Congressman Scott W. Lucas, the Democratic candidate]."

Mr. Lyons spoke before nearly 2,000 persons. His address was delivered at the St. Wenceslaus church carnival, Ridgeway avenue and School street; at Cermak road and Crawford avenue, and at the 22d ward Republican picnic in Pilsen park, Cermak road and Albany avenue.

He ridiculed the Democratic promises made at every two year election since 1932 and cited the mounting unemployment. From 8,000,000 in 1932 the unemployed now total 13,000,000, Lyons said, referring to statistics of the American Federation of Labor.

Criticizes WPA System.

"It costs $1,100 a year for a man on the WPA," he declared, "but only $55 a month goes to him. The administration costs $45 a month. I don't criticize the man on WPA, but the system behind him. It is the Republican aim to release him from the political subservience of WPA.

"With the return of prosperity, the Republicans hope to raise him from $55 a month to $55 a week with a job in private industry. There is no reason why the mills of this country cannot be opened to give jobs to all. It is the government that prevents business revival."

WIFE OF NOTED MUSICIAN SHOT BY AN ASSASSIN

Husband of Housemaid Gives Up; Confesses.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. Emita Jewett Krueger, member of a well known Chicago family the wife of Karl Krueger, noted symphony orchestra conductor, was shot and seriously wounded in a busy Hollywood boulevard this afternoon, by an assassin who fled.

At a hospital, where Mrs. Krueger received two blood transfusions, she said: "Frances' husband shot me. He was a troublemaker. He had been following me for three days."

A short time later Charles E. McDonald, estranged husband of Frances McDonald, formerly employed as a maid in the Krueger home, surrendered to the police. He confessed the shooting. He blamed Mrs. Krueger for his domestic troubles.

Car Followed for Blocks.

The shooting occurred while Mrs. Krueger was on her way to a dancing school to get her daughter, Theresa, 9 years old. Witnesses told police they had seen a man in a dark sedan following Mrs. Krueger's automobile for several blocks.

When she reached the school, Mrs. Krueger leaped from her car and ran for the door. The man leaned out a window of his sedan and fired three shots. Two struck Mrs. Krueger and the third was embedded in the school door. Then the assassin drove rapidly away.

Mrs. Krueger was spending the summer here with her daughter and husband. Mr. Krueger is conductor of the Kansas City Philharmonic orchestra and was vacationing here, as he and his wife frequently have done for years.

Daughter of Samuel Jewett.

The wounded woman, 38 years old, is the daughter of the late Samuel R. Jewett, a prominent Chicagoan and a member of the Chicago Stock exchange and of its board of governors. He died in 1922. Her mother, Mrs. Lucy M. Jewett, died in 1928.

Mrs. Krueger has two sisters, Mrs. Godfrey Lundberg of Winnetka, Ill., who writes for THE TRIBUNE under the name of Eleanor Jewett, and Mrs. Leo Brady of Baltimore. Her brother, McCormick Jewett, died at Daytona Beach, Fla., in 1935.

Mr. Krueger was conductor of the Seattle Symphony orchestra before he went to Kansas City and has been guest conductor in many American and European cities. Ten years ago he was ranked in Europe as one of the first conductors of the day.

ROOMERS ROUTED BY FLAMES.

A score of roomers were routed from 6507 Cottage Grove avenue last night by fire which started in J. Lichter's paint shop at 6507 Cottage Grove. No one was injured. Firemen estimated the damage at $4,000.

GERMANS ATTACK ROOSEVELT PLAN TO GUARD CANADA

Call It Step Toward War Against Japan.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 20 [Saturday].—President Roosevelt's pledge of American armed aid to Canada was an effort to justify America's vast expenditures on armaments, the Voelkischer Beobachter said today. The United States is rearming, it said, because it may be planning to attack Japan.

The Beobachter, chief organ of the Nazi party, devoted a front page editorial to denunciation of the President's address. Mr. Roosevelt made it Thursday at Queens university, Kingston, Ont.

"Canada is neither threatened nor feels threatened," said the newspaper. "The newly discovered danger to Canada is for him [the President] only a link in his attempt to explain his reasons for rearmanent expenses and, what is no less important, for discarding the American neutrality policy. Second, the United States is at present making military preparations toward Asia from Alaska and the Aleutian Islands, with an obvious point toward Japan.

Says Many Oppose War.

"The land route to this strategic advancing point, however, leads north over Vancouver, over British Canadian territories. Mr. Roosevelt, therefore, needs an especially intimate friendship with Canada if this British daughter country is to permit him to build roads and railroads.

"We doubt, however, that America's neutrality policy is entirely a thing of the past. We know large circles of the American people are by no means won over to the idea of repeating the bloody, costly, and entirely useless adventure of 1917 and 1918.

"We do not doubt that the present American government is doing all it can to convert these contrary souls, even with the childish fairy tale of a 'threatened Canada.'"

"Mars, the Great Consumer."

The Hamburger Fremdenblatt, angered by Mr. Roosevelt's attacks on authoritarian governments, charged that Americans would welcome a world war.

"Mars seems to them the great employer and consumer. War would mean jobs for the unemployed, dividends for stockholders, a boon for speculators, and fat years for the farmers," said this paper.

For American politicians it would be "the only legal means of establishing an authoritarian form of government for which Mr. Roosevelt fought vainly against the resistance of congress and the watchfulness of the Supreme court," it added.

An official government spokesman said: "Mr. Roosevelt's speech was made in the course of a political campaign and was meant for internal consumption in America."

BERLIN REFUSES EXPLANATION OF BRITON'S ARREST

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Authorities kept strict silence tonight on the arrest of Capt. Thomas Kendrick, British passport officer, in Vienna. He remained in "honorary confinement" in the custody of the secret police in Vienna for the third day.

Arrow indicates Freilassing, where Briton was seized.

Inquiries brought a statement that the case was in the hands of secret police headquarters in Berlin. Neither German nor British officials revealed the reason for Kendrick's detention.

Kendrick was taken into custody at Freilassing on Wednesday as he and his wife tried to leave Germany on a vacation. She was allowed to return to their home.

[The British government, through its ambassador to Berlin, asked the German government for "a full and speedy explanation" of Kendrick's arrest, London dispatches said.]

PROTEST WILL GIVING PRIEST WOMAN'S ESTATE

A contest was started yesterday against the will of Miss Mary Mulligan, who left $6,000 and an unestimated amount of real estate to the Rev. James P. O'Donoghue, pastor of St. James Roman Catholic church, 2942 South Wabash avenue. A suit was filed in Circuit court by Attorney Kenneth Kirk in behalf of Miss Mulligan's brothers, James and Patrick Mulligan of Dublin, Ireland.

Miss Mulligan died Feb. 7, 1937, at the age of 58. Her will specified that the money was to be used for masses for herself and other members of her family. The brothers charge she was of unsound mind and memory, and mentally incompetent when she drew up the will.

They drove him to Goethe street and Ogden avenue and took $600. Then the gunmen forced Luecheessi to take off his shirt and trousers before they shoved him out of the car.

PAROLEE KILLED IN 11 STORY FALL FROM LOOP HOTEL

Leo C. Fay, who was paroled from Stateville prison last November after serving eighteen months for embezzlement, plunged to his death from the window of his seventeenth floor room in the Palmer house yesterday. His body landed on the roof of an inner court opposite the sixth floor.

Leo C. Fay.

Fay, who had been separated from his wife, Elsie, 1839 South 60th court, Cicero, left a note stating he was despondent because of the separation and because of ill health. He was 38 years old and had been living at 1635 South Austin boulevard, Cicero. He rented the hotel room Wednesday, registering from Kansas City, Mo., as "L. C. Fay and wife."

Fay had been credit manager for the S. A. Maxwell company, wholesale wallpaper dealers at 1907 Mendell avenue, when he was arrested in February, 1936, for embezzling $3,500 of the company's funds. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to one to ten years. He has one daughter, Arlene, 3 years old.

NAZIS TELL JEWS TO ADD 'ISRAEL' OR 'SARAH' TO NAMES

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Nazlism today acted to give all Jews names which are easily recognizable as Jewish. It was decreed that after Jan. 1 every Jew with a non-Jewish first name must add Israel or Sarah to his name. Every government official and every business man then will know from a man's signature whether he is dealing with a Jew.

The ministry of the interior will compile a list of names considered Jewish, and then every Jew who has a name not on the list must add Israel if a man, Sarah if a woman. Jewish infants may be given only Jewish first names. The decree expressly exempts Jews of foreign nationality.

Williamson Candy Workers All Take Syphilis Tests

The 578 employés of the Williamson Candy company, 4701 Armitage avenue, have responded 100 per cent in volunteering for syphilis tests, board of health officials said yesterday. The tests, made on Thursday, are part of the anti-syphilis program among industrial and business groups.

ONTARIO PREMIER RIPS ROOSEVELT WATERWAY PLAN

Opposes Joint Project on Economic Grounds.

TORONTO, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario today told Dominion Prime Minister MacKenzie King the Ontario government is opposed to the projected St. Lawrence river waterway project on "economic" grounds.

Premier Hepburn.

Hepburn made Ontario's stand known in a letter he sent to the prime minister within a day after President Roosevelt urged in an address at Ivy Lea, Can., that the United States and Canadian governments coöperate to develop the river for greater electric power and shipping facilities.

"Irrespective of any propaganda or squeeze play that might be concocted by you," Hepburn wrote King, "you may rest assured that this [Ontario] government will resist any effort to force us to expend public funds in such an unwaranted manner or to foist upon the people of Ontario an additional burden of debt and taxation."

Reply to U. S. Letter.

The letter was in answer to a communication from the United States state department to the Dominion prime minister which King forwarded to Hepburn without comment.

The Ontario premier contended no accurate estimate has been made of the cost of the entire project and warned of the effect a rival transportation system might have on Canada's railroads. He said in part:

". . . the fact is well known to you that Ontario has an ample supply [of power] for many years to come—indeed, a huge surplus—for which it must pay and receive no benefit.

"I have on various occasions ventured the opinion that the St. Lawrence waterways project could not be justified on economic grounds. Until such time as you solve what is considered to be one of the major problems of Canada—that of the national railway deficits—I cannot conceive how you could seriously consider spending public money for the purpose of creating another public, competitive avenue of transportation."

U. S. to Push Treaty.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Notwithstanding the opposition of Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario, the state department intends to urge the negotiation of a treaty with Canada for the development of the St. Lawrence waterway.

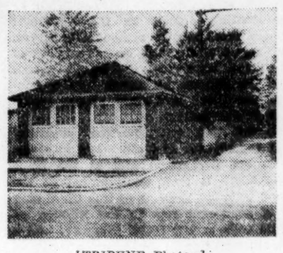
That was the consensus of department officials today following publication of the premier's letter to Canadian Prime Minister MacKenzie King.

Shirland, Ill., 100 Yrs. Old; Honor Founders Tomorrow

Shirland, Ill., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—A hundred years ago, in 1838, Arlow and George Seaton erected a log cabin a half mile east of here. It was the first dwelling erected by a settler in the new community and the forerunner of a large number of New England pioneers who established the township and became its earliest citizens. Shirland township will honor its pioneer founders Sunday at the Sugar River forest preserve at a centennial reunion and celebration.

Garage Wife

Mrs. Lillie Ann Duplissis, seeking separate maintenance, has lived in a windowless garage for 15 years, according to her attorney.



[TRIBUNE Photos.]

The Duplissis garage home.

Mrs. Lillie Ann Duplissis lived in a windowless garage for 15 years, her attorney, Norman Becker, told Master in Chancery Samuel Epstein yesterday.

"She was willing to do that because she loved her husband," Becker said. "But she discovered recently that he has been writing to other women."

The garage is at 8157 Paxton avenue. Mrs. Duplissis' husband, Thomas, now lives at 7265 Coles avenue. He has a divorce suit pending, charging cruelty. Mrs. Duplissis charges desertion in her cross bill for separate maintenance.

Master Epstein ordered Duplissis to pay his wife $25 immediately and $5 a week until further hearing.

50,000 TAXPAYERS SEEK REFUNDS ON 1934 REALTY LEVY

More than 50,000 applications for refunds on 1934 real estate taxes have been received in the last five days, Assistant State's Attorney Marshall Kearney said yesterday. The refund resulted from a recent Illinois Supreme court ruling that, part of the 1934 tax was illegal. County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki signed the first refund orders last Monday. Approximately $4,000,000 is available for distribution on expected 70,000 refund orders, County Treasurer Horace G. Lindheimer said.

POSTAL AGENTS CLOSE IN ON 100 IN LOTTERY GANG

Investigate Activities of Indicted Zimmerman.

Postal inspectors yesterday dug into the career of Abraham F. Zimmerman, reputed head of a nationwide fake lottery ring, as they sought further evidence here to smash the racket. Zimmerman rose in six years from newspaper boy to leader of the ring with an income in six figures.

The fraudulent lotteries are reported to yield their operators 20 million dollars a year from suckers in twenty-six states. The gang has made its headquarters in Chicago. The federal agents expect to have sufficient evidence within three or four weeks to indict nearly 100 of the higherups in the racket.

Zimmerman, who is 37 years old, is under indictment here on charges of evading income taxes of $65,760 for the years 1929-'30-'31. His gross income for those years was estimated at $411,916. He is at liberty on bond awaiting trial. He is also under indictment in Trenton, N. J., for transporting lottery tickets in interstate commerce.

Held in Baseball Pool Case.

In 1922 Zimmerman operated a news stand at 63d and Halsted streets. Then he began dabbling in lotteries. In 1928 he and four other men were arrested in connection with the operation of a baseball pool in New York City.

He was sentenced to sixty days in jail. At about this time, according to evidence presented to the federal grand jury which returned the income tax indictment, Zimmerman was operating in every state east of the Mississippi river. He sometimes paid as high as $10,000 as first prize in a lottery.

In May, 1934, Zimmerman was arrested as a ringleader in lottery operations estimated to have a weekly turnover of $750,000 to $1,000,000. His arrest was the outcome of a surprise raid by police on a printing and lithographing shop in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Called Largest in Country.

The Brooklyn shop was described by police as the largest lottery plant in the country. It had complete engraving equipment, typesetting machines, and printing presses.

The present inquiry into the lottery ring racket was begun in Boston, Mass. It was confirmed here by Postal Inspector J. J. McCarthy.

Four different types of lotteries were used by the gang. These were Derby race horse pools, baseball pools, treasury balance figures, and the policy game [popular among colored people].

ROBBER BIRD'S WIFE IS GIVEN MONTH IN JAIL

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Judge Samuel K. Dennis sentenced Mrs. Barbara Bird, wife of Charles Bird, midwestern desperado, to thirty days in jail today for being an accessory in one of her husband's seven holdups here. Judge Dennis told Mrs. Bird, who is 24 years old, that her offense of aiding her husband was a natural one and something almost any wife would do.

The judge took cognizance of her expected child, saying he did not wish to add to the trouble of your children by causing her second child to be born in jail. Her son, 14 months old, is with her parents in Cleveland.

Jury Finds Police Killing of Holdup Man Justified

A verdict of justifiable homicide was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday at the inquest into the fatal shooting of John Maxwell, 28 years old. He was shot Aug. 6 when he tried to hold up Park Policeman Clyde Walbert in Grant park. The policeman was not in uniform. Two companions of Maxwell are under arrest.

New York, Aug. 19.—[Special.]—John Bellinger, 33 years old, had a date last night with his sweetheart, Miss Marie Joyce, 25. They worked for the same advertising company and saw each other often. They dined and talked over cocktails, but soon they were quarreling.

Bellinger wanted to announce their engagement. Miss Joyce wanted to call it quits. They quarreled on the way home and in the lobby and hall of Miss Joyce's apartment house.

Today Bellinger, accompanied by a priest, walked into a police station. "I killed my sweetheart," he said. He said he shot her with a sawed off rifle he had carried in a brief case last evening. Police went to Miss Joyce's apartment and found her body in front of the door.

RECLAIMING THE SLUMS.

A practical plan to rehabilitate the blighted areas surrounding the loop is beginning to take shape.

These areas, covering twenty square miles or more, today constitute Chicago's greatest liability. Tomorrow they may become one of the city's greatest assets.

The streets are mean and the houses are old and sagging. When the tide of immigration was pouring tens of thousands into the city each year these areas teemed with life. Today, and indeed, ever since the world war, the blighted areas have been losing population. Many houses are deserted. Many stores are vacant. Most of the buildings are in great need of repair and vast numbers of them are so far deteriorated that repair is out of the question. Tax delinquency is high.

And yet these areas are potentially attractive for residence purposes. They are relatively close to the lake for coolness in summer and are well provided with parks and schools. The public improvements are all in and all paid for. The blighted areas are far more conveniently placed in relation to the city's shopping center, its principal museums and its amusements than are the fashionable suburbs.

As matters stand these advantages are outweighed a thousand times by the disadvantages, but the balance can be righted if the problem is approached intelligently.

After the great fire it was necessary to have many thousands of houses and shops built as rapidly as possible. That necessity continued under pressure of a rapidly expanding population for decades. The easiest way and probably the only way to have accomplished this immense task at the time was the way which was adopted: relatively small scale operations. The land was divided into small parcels. Speculative builders would erect half a dozen single family houses on adjoining lots or the typical Chicago apartment houses occupying at most two or three lots.

This method served admirably to convert raw prairie into a city, but it will not serve to reclaim the blighted areas. If a builder today were to acquire three or four lots in a run-down neighborhood and erect on them a modern apartment house he could not get his money back because his attractive new homes would be an island in the midst of desolation. Tenants who could afford to pay a fair return on the investment would not think of condemning themselves to life in such drab surroundings.

The salvation of the blighted areas lies in large scale operations. Tracts of land must be acquired large enough to assure a complete change in the character of neighborhoods. We must think not in terms of a few houses or even a few blocks of houses but of dozens of blocks covering hundreds of acres.

Under present law it is practically impossible to operate in this way. Land in the city is divided into small holdings and it is correspondingly difficult to assemble a large tract. It is difficult even when the great majority of owners are willing to sell at a fair price, for there is always some one who hopes to obtain a nuisance value for his land by holding out longer than any one else, and there are many tracts to which it is almost impossible to obtain a clear title because of missing heirs and a great variety of other legal complications.

A group of business men, including J. Soule Warterfield, former president, and Arthur Krugel, the present president of the Chicago Real Estate board; Paul Angell, vice president of the same organization, and Herbert Nelson, executive vice president of the National Association of Real Estate boards, have worked out a program which seems to meet the principal legal and financial difficulties.

These men propose the enactment of a state law authorizing the creation of so-called public service housing corporations. They would be subjected to regulation by a commission corresponding to the Illinois commerce commission and in return would be given power to condemn land in large tracts. When 50 per cent of a proposed site had been assembled by ordinary purchases the commission would be authorized to place its appraisal upon the rest. If the owners of these lots thought the figure too low they could take their cases to court, but meanwhile the corporation could acquire possession by posting a bond. The work of demolition and rebuilding would therefore not be delayed.

Mr. Angell reports that he has outlined his plan to investment bankers who believe that money could be obtained in adequate amounts from private investors.

This plan imposes no burden on the taxpayers. The housing corporations would be required to pay taxes like any other landowner. There would be no operating deficits to be met from the public treasury. It is not a scheme to give some people something for nothing. It is a program for saving the city from the cancer which is consuming it. It is a program which deserves support at the forthcoming session of the legislature.

THE HOUSE OF MORGAN AND GANNOCHY LODGE.

A small news note of personal interest from Aberdeen, Scotland, says that King George VI. has gone from Balmoral castle to spend a few days grouse shooting as the guest of J. P. Morgan at Gannochy lodge, Angus. Queen Elizabeth is to join the king later. Mr. Morgan, it is noted, has been the neighbor of the earl of Strathmore, the queen's father, for a number of years, and the king, since his marriage, has regularly opened the shooting season as the New Yorker's guest. A mosquito bit the king over the eye just after he arrived at the lodge, but that delayed the shooting only a day. The party is on.

A lodge in Scotland for the grouse shooting is regarded by many Americans, including some of our diplomats, as something so little this side of paradise as to be almost actually over the border. Grouse shooting in well stocked preserves is a bit on the stockyards side of sport and has its wholesale butcher business aspects combined with the highest of the social amenities and adventures. To be host to the king and queen is unquestionably tops in human experiences in Britain.

American legends give Mr. Morgan many hidden powers. He may not be familiar with all of them himself, although the Nye munitions committee of the senate must have helped him understand. He had to prove that he did not send the United States into the world war to rescue England and his investments. The fable of occult agencies in America, of the international banker, and the munitions maker, nearly always gets back to the House of Morgan. Mr. Morgan's preference for yachting with the archbishop of Canterbury and grouse shooting with the king does nothing to increase the light of reason.

MR. ROOSEVELT AGAIN ON A BRIDGE.

There is something about a bridge that inspires Mr. Roosevelt to flights of international statesmanship. It may be because it is something to cross when you come to it or because of the water flowing on and on and on below it. He just keeps rolling along. It needn't be an international bridge. The Chicago bridge was good enough, last year, for the bandit speech which made the stock market think that we were going to war in a fortnight.

At the new Thousand Islands bridge dedication Thursday Mr. Roosevelt told the Canadians that the United States would not stand idly by if danger threatened them. In giving the dominion this assurance Mr. Roosevelt referred to its position as part of the sisterhood of the British empire. Canada has loyally honored its obligations to that sisterhood when it was in danger and has liberally contributed its full measure for every benefit it may receive as a member of the imperial commonwealth.

Great Britain now shares with other nations the perils to which people have been subjected everywhere by the madcap autocracies playing power politics in international relations. Canada is not directly threatened by these disturbing forces, although other parts of the British empire are. The present days are particularly trying because of the German mobilization which puts all of Hitler's weapons in his hands if he should have a sudden mad desire to use them.

Mr. Roosevelt's assuring words to Canada, which is in no particular anxiety about its territorial integrity and does not contemplate an immediate call to stand by to repel raiders, may have been intended to cross the ocean and be interpreted as containing a deeper meaning than was directly implied. The general understanding has been that Canada and the United States had a common stake in the preservation of liberties as now theoretically enjoyed. The possibility that Canadians might have to come to the aid of Americans is not very great nor do present prospects indicate any invasion of Canadian territory. The British fleet is still on the seas and no hidden designs against the dominion have been charged against any of the autocratic countries imperialistically inclined and seeking new territory.

Mr. Roosevelt frequently warns bandit nations that the world cannot permit them to run loose scattering terror. His admonitions never seem to check the aggressions and the international conferences he calls to correct injustices never get anywhere. Nevertheless he continues to issue warnings which Secretary Hull of the state department frequently repeats. It may well be that the assurance he gave the Canadians was intended to be read in Europe as another warning that the United States would not consider itself unconcerned if lawless nations made a wanton attack upon countries which desire to keep the peace and create a better world.

THE MUSIC FESTIVAL.

Day by day, the news columns of THE TRIBUNE have told what and who will be heard and seen at the Chicagoland Music Festival tonight in Soldiers' field. Corrigan and Alec Templeton, fireworks, the Festival chorus, the German chorus, the Negro chorus, the University of Illinois chorus, the winning soloists, the massed bands, the prize bands, the drum and bugle corps and all the rest have been mentioned. We have nothing to add to the list.

And we have nothing to add, either, to Mr. Cecil Smith's column of comment on the significance of the annual festival which was published in last Sunday's TRIBUNE.

But we think a word is due THE TRIBUNE'S electricians and sound amplifying experts who will make it possible for 100,000 in the audience to hear even the lightest tones and to hear them truly; and more than a passing mention should be made of Philip Maxwell who, on behalf of THE TRIBUNE, has organized the festival, planned it, assembled it, and made each year's production more stirring than the last.

FIVE YEAR LOWS.

[Rockford Register-Republic.]

After advancing encouragingly through June and the first half of July commodity and grain prices have fallen off sharply to add a discordant note to the predictions of a late summer recovery. Grain prices hit a five year low on Monday. That is a hard blow, because agriculture is the foundation of prosperity. The city dweller cannot expect to thrive if the farmer is not successful.

There is no single phase of the managed economy of the national administration which gives its sponsors more trouble than the price structure. We are all helping to pay the bill incurred by Secretary Wallace in his plan to insure good times on the farm, but this expenditure does not seem to be producing the promised results.

After five years of monetary control, restriction of production and government loans to support the prices of certain commodities, it becomes increasingly clear that the forces of supply and demand will not be denied and that while the price level as a whole may be affected by government direction, the price of wheat and cotton will be determined in the last analysis by forces not in man's control.

Secretary Wallace planned to eliminate uncertainty from agriculture. He and his co-planners have spent from May 12, 1933, to Aug. 31, 1937, a total of $2,294,727,246 through the AAA. They have spent hundreds of millions more in the last twelve months in an effort to bring about ideal conditions in agriculture and the results are the lowest grain prices in five years.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U.S. Pat. Office

Vincent Sheean's new novel, "A Day of Battle," makes stirring reading for fanciers of military tales. It deals with the grim conflict at Fontenoy, Belgium, 1745, between the French under Maurice de Saxe and an English army with Dutch and Hanoverian allies under the duke of Cumberland. This battle was the Gettysburg of the eighteenth century, and it has a bright place among the legends of Irish valor because a brigade of exiled Irishmen, serving under their own officers, saved the day for Louis XV. of France, who was present as a spectator. Many an American schoolboy, in the declamation period of our educational system, has recited Thomas Osborne Davis' poem on the subject, which contains the lines.

On Fontenoy, on Fontenoy, like eagles in the sun,
With bloody plumes the Irish stand—the field is fought and won.

There is a new Irish eagle in the Chicago sun today [graceful transition, eh?] and his name, of course, is Corrigan. He is a true son of the Wild Geese of Erin who flitted overseas during the Jacobite times to perform fantastic deeds of daring as at Fontenoy, on behalf of the Young Pretender. O, curious, irresponsible, backward-flying Mr. Corrigan, comedian of the Atlantic clouds and first cousin of Ariel, the poets of the Line o' Type column have been chanting odes to you for weeks. If you can stay serious for a minute, young fellow, me lad, listen to the best of these commemorative ditties which follows:

CORRIGAN'S SONG.

They say he sang to keep awake that night
Between the worlds that we call old and new;
When life was only fog and sea and flight,
And heart the lodestone holding compass true.
Perhaps he sang the valiant battle hymns
Of men with lesser foes than time and space,
Or else the chants we learn when courage dims
And faith and prayer our broken wings displace.
Who knows? And yet I think he must have sung
Some blarneyed tune of love and whimsy's guile
To coax the fates that guard the spirit-young
To this one time be kind to one whose smile
And backward ways, in artless Irish art,
Unerring found their way to every heart.

Quizzicuss.

Everybody Here Knows Kelley.

John Kelley, retired, Grand Old Man of Police Reporters, wires from Erie, Pa.:

"Tell the Music Festival bands to play 'The Rocky Road to Dublin' as Corrigan's welcoming song, and for an encore 'I Don't Know Where I'm Going, but I'm on My Way.'"

Chicago Vignette.

Half frightened by the thunder of the "L" trains and confusion of 5 o'clock trafic, the old gentleman and old lady stood close together waiting at the corner of Wabash and Madison. Her gray dress was wrinkled a little, but her soft brown eyes were radiant. She'd never imagined the city could be so glittering! The skyscrapers so stately! Her slender arm was held protectingly by the old gentleman's gnarled hand. He stooped slightly and his trousers bagged at the knee. But there was something fine and good in the blue eyes that held you. They reflected the peace of green hills back home; the serenity of an old man whose soul is untarnished by any lien or mortgage! Then you saw the girl coming. The girl who'd made good in the city. Young, lovely, her crimson scarf flying, she wore success like a banner. "Mom! Dad!" Her voice bubbled with joy and the pride in their faces was more shining than all the cellophane in the shop windows. Pat R. A.

Maybe this was the sort of song that Corrigan sang:

Carpe Diem.

(Cut down to minutes for moderns.)

We're here today, we're gone tomorrow—
Grab the moments, damn the hours!
Cut the sadness, cut the sorrow
(We're here today, we're gone tomorrow).
Death no doubt will let you borrow
Trouble later—under flowers!
We're here today, we're gone tomorrow;
Grab the moments, damn the hours!

What Every Husband Knows.

There's a word for that disease common to women who work themselves into a lather over petty choices of which dress to wear, what looks better with it, and whom to omit from the dinner party list. The technical word for acute indecision is "abulia." To cite an extreme case, we knew a girl at Sweet Briar college who had an especially trying time choosing a sweater and skirt from her wardrobe and eventually in a frenzy went to class in her petticoat.

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF TOO MUCH LYMPH TISSUE.

EVERY now and then we learn of the sudden death of a boy or girl from some apparently trivial cause. The popular—and in some cases desirable—extirpation of diseased tonsils and enlarged adenoids necessitates a great many general anesthetics. Should an accident occur during such an operation, investigation may reveal that the little one suffered from the disorder known as status lymphaticus or, as it is sometimes called, lymphatism.

What is status lymphaticus? There may be more than one element involved, but we may consider the condition as representing defects in the glandular system, including the sympathetic nerves. Furthermore, there is an oversupply of all lymph tissue and the thymus gland may be abnormally large. As a consequence there is a drop in the resistance of the patient.

Examination will disclose generally that the thymus and other lymph structures are overgrown and at the same time there is poor development of the blood vessels. Because of this there may be a persistent rise in the number of white cells, a low blood pressure, and a low blood sugar. In other words, we may say that there is some failure in the endocrine system and the suggestion has been offered by numerous writers that possibly tuberculosis is responsible.

Are there any external signs which serve as pointers and which should be checked carefully before submitting a tot to the hazard of surgery? Certain characteristics have been observed; for example, the skin is usually pale, soft, thin, and delicate, and the hair is silky. The extremities are well rounded and there is an abundance of fat, but the muscles feel flabby. The expression may be listless or dull.

What rôle does the thymus play? Certainly, if it is larger than normal, this fact is significant, but evidence here is quite contradictory. At any rate, we may regard an enlargement of the structure as indicating status lymphaticus unless other tests prove the contrary.

As a part of the picture, the tonsils, adenoids, and spleen are overdeveloped. This may be one reason why so many children who fall into this group are subjected to the removal of both tonsils and adenoids.

Another typical symptom with very young children is the interference with respiration because the trachea is pressing upon the thymus. At times the infant's face may appear dusky [cyanotic] and there may be a croupy, whistling inspiration, especially if there is an infection within the throat or nasal passages.

What can be done to aid one of these victims? Because these children may be lacking in energy—inclined to be somewhat apathetic—overexertion should be guarded against, as they do not possess the physical reserve necessary for hard play. It is wise to augment the food intake, particularly starches, and to make certain that lime—from milk and green vegetables—is present in large quantities. Sometimes calcium lactate may be given with the meals. Many do well on small doses of nux vomica and occasionally the employment of the extract of the outer portion of the adrenal gland has been followed by brilliant results.

Let us assume that we have recognized the condition and that the thymus is increased in size, as shown by X-ray films. If the child needs surgery because of badly diseased tonsil tissue, the "party" should be postponed until a more favorable time, possibly until the child is older.

On the other hand, our chief reliance is X-ray, and many children will improve rapidly after one or two exposures, the gland in question shrinking to normal proportions.

All of which means that any one 10 years of age or younger who is facing surgery should be gone over with the greatest care. We cannot gainsay the fact that lymphatism actually exists and may be, in a few instances, the dominant factor in an untimely death.

DEPENDS ON CONDITION.

B. D. R. writes: Is it all right for a patient with tuberculosis to crochet? The lung is healing.

REPLY.

Any form of exercise may be harmful. Everything depends upon the stage of the disease and the reaction of the body as far as temperature is concerned. Many patients can crochet with safety. Others will need to restrict even so mild a form of activity.

NOT SUCH A REMEDY.

M. writes: Is the insulin treatment given for chronic alcoholism?

REPLY.

Alcoholism is more of a mental than a physical condition. Treatment usually is psychological. Insulin is not a remedy.

HAY FEVER PAMPHLET.

S. T. writes: What suggestions have you for the relief of hay fever?

REPLY.

We have a leaflet explaining the various methods of relief. This can be obtained by inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

DEBRIS REMOVED.

Chicago, Aug. 12.—[Friend of the People.]—A few months ago the street in front of my property and the lawn were torn up when a new fire plug was put in. To date nothing has been done to fix up the lawn or street, which was left in a very bad shape. J. E.

On Aug. 2d the water pipe extension division of the bureau of engineering removed debris and made the necessary repairs to lawn at this location.

We thank you for calling our attention to the matter. OSCAR E. HEWITT, Commissioner of Public Works.

HALL LIGHTS.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Are landlords required to have lights in their halls? 2. At what hour are they to be extinguished? There is a hall light on our meter. 3. Are we supposed to defray this expense? R. F.

1 and 2. The landlord is under no general legal obligation to furnish light in halls and stairways. [283 Ill. 271, 273, and 36 C. J. 36 and 214]. 3. The answer is no.

THESE ARE PARLOUS DAYS.

Wittenberg, Wis., Aug. 18. — Not so long ago this nation was thoroughly shaken by a scandal known as "Tea-Pot Dome." Fortunately the nation then possessed a conscience and without reserve condemned the entire affair and all individuals connected with it.

Now an investigation of TVA is in progress. It has only scratched the surface of the mess, but I see that the investigation will be postponed shortly until after the November election. That is sinister.

Never before in this country have elections been openly purchased with public funds. Never before has the purge been employed.

Never before in our history has a party platform been so flagrantly discarded and scrapped. Never before have we had such hordes of men and women feeding on the public treasury. And all this in the name of humanitarianism and the more abundant life. J. W. G.

THOSE NUDIST CAMPS? WHERE?

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Being unable to afford vacation clothes for a cool rest in the north woods or by the seashore, the writer thought he had hit upon a happy expedient: Namely, to vacation in a nudist camp.

What could be cooler? And no clothes to buy. So financial worries in connection thus ended.

But where, O where, are those nudist camps the papers printed so much about last year?

Has the fad died out or are they hiding or holding out on us? Are the newspapers sworn to secrecy that they make no further mention of them?

Any one with the address of a nice cool nudist camp, please advise.

BUSTED WILTED WILLIE.

THERE ARE MANY BICYCLISTS.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—As one who walks frequently in upper Lincoln park I have been impressed with the fact that our politicians are really overlooking something.

Why spend a million, more or less, to provide a bridle path for the few who can afford horses and horseback riding, when there are literally thousands of voters and potential voters who would be so deeply grateful for safe bicycle paths?

Then, too, the politicians could line these bicycle paths with signs of similar import to the one at the Montrose-Wilson parking lot: "These free bicycle paths are provided for you by the Chicago park board."

LEILA WALLINGTON WHITNEY.

DOWN ON THEIR LUCK.

Chicago, Aug. 17. — Before criticizing WPA workers for their listlessness, people should find out the cause of their indifference towards their work. Reader, have you ever filled out the application blanks, answered the innumerable, highly personal questions, and endured the long waits for assignment that are part of the ordeal suffered by the "fortunate" WPA worker? Those fellows on WPA are not loafers and chiselers but, rather, good Americans down on their luck. Give them a boost. D. F.

A HINT TO THE PARK BOARD.

Evanston, Ill., Aug. 17.—I indorse H. L. Engle's letter published today in the Voice of the People headed: "Why Not Bicycle Paths Again?"

The idea is good enough to be made No. 9 in THE TRIBUNE platform. Besides being a means of giving pleasure to numberless people, young and old, bicycle paths would encourage the use and manufacture of bicycles and thus help to reduce unemployment.

J. W. S. REID.

FINDS TWO HONEST MEN.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Will you allow me to relate one of the nicest incidents I have ever experienced. Some time ago I lost a wallet, containing most of my weekly salary, on a crowded street car. The finder could have kept this money as there was no identification of any kind in the wallet. However, he went to work on the only clew—a check stub. He called at the bank where it was issued; obtained the name of the party to whom it was issued and in that way finally got in touch with me. He then returned the money intact, refusing a reward of any kind.

I take pleasure in stating that Mr. James Richert, 4828 North Kilpatrick, is without a doubt the most honest person I have ever had the pleasure of meeting. Also, thanks to Mr. Walter Okon, 4921 North Monitor, who assisted Mr. Richert in locating me. Even more to me than the return of the money is the knowledge that such nice people exist. L. K.

URGES WOODSHED SPANKING.

Oak Park, Aug. 17.—Recent articles concerning delinquency among the girls would indicate a crying need for a return to the old fashioned "woodshed discipline." For some reason the idea has arisen that a girl can do no wrong. The result is that they stay out later than necessary, drink to excess, permit liberties which go unreported, disregard parental authority, and act in other ways neither smart nor American.

It is folly to believe that a sound spanking as needed would alienate a girl's respect and appreciation of her parents. When mother was a girl a slight disobedience meant swift justice on the seat of her black satin bloomers without the bloomers. Before granddad finished she had resolved to avoid the punishment with obedience. If dads did the same to today's girls the delinquents would awake and remember. Let's return to the woodshed justice. HAY R. BRUSH.

BLIND BOY AND THE SEEING EYE.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Under a title, "Three Dogs Lead Three Blind Boys to Fuller Life," THE TRIBUNE says "The three are the first boys ever trained in America to use dogs as guides."

I think this statement is incorrect. I have a booklet which says that in Morristown, N. J., is an institution called The Seeing Eye, Inc., founded in 1929 by Mrs. Harrison Eustis, where dogs are trained to lead the blind and where blind persons are trained with them.

This booklet was written by Roy Buchanan [blind since birth] of Long Beach, Cal. In it he describes his dog and his period of training in Morristown, where he entered the training class of June 30, 1936, with several other boys.

I saw this fine appearing boy and his dog this summer in Long Beach, where he is well known and respected. I understand he is studying to be a lawyer.

STAGGERS THE IMAGINATION.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Can you imagine—after six years of the dizziest social and economic reforms that this country ever went through — Franklin D. calling Ex-Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia "a man of panaceas"?

LOUIS FISHMAN.

PERFORMING ANIMAL ACTS.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—I must express my appreciation of the fine "Line o' Type" that June Provines is editing for your paper. It is so varied and so human that it is something to look forward to each morning.

Particularly I want to commend her for the article on the performing animal acts. If only more columnists whose articles are read by thousands of people would speak a word for the poor little animals that are tortured [no less] to give a momentary gasp of astonishment [no more] to a heedless audience this foolish business might be stopped. If people could be made conscious of the long hours of training it takes and of the means and methods employed to force the helpless little things to go through with their tricks—well, we might see animal lovers walking right out on these acts.

And please, newspaper columnists, investigate the miserable lives of the animals used day after day and year after year in the rodeos and make the public conscious of their terror as they flee the ropes and "bull doggers" that almost always eventually cripple them. Tell the people they are not really performing in the sense they seem to be. They are merely trying to escape with their lives. Amusing, isn't it?

MARGARET LOFLAND.

JUNGLE TALES IN A SCRAPBOOK.

Greenwood, Wis., Aug. 17.—At present I am employed in a nonpolitical office. There is really such a thing—and like our "first" citizen I have the urge to do a little "culling" of New Dealers.

My hat goes off to Cartoonist Orr for his series of "Jungle Stories." I am making a scrapbook of them to use—not as bedtime stories—but to hand down to future generations.

The Jungle Tales should go down to posterity, not as Aesop's Fables, but as bugaboos kindred only to tales of the witching hour. They may remind posterity that it is paying taxes on "great-grandpappy's castles in the air."

My one and only hope is that the Jungle story will have a happy ending.

WISCONSINITE.

A BLIGHTED REGION.

Melrose Park, Ill., Aug. 17.—I would suggest a project to surround the County hospital with a more pleasant environment. At present it is a blighted district.

The section from Harrison to Taylor, even to Roosevelt road, from Damen to Marshfield, even to Ashland avenue, should be either condemned or titles purchased at a low cost. The unpaid taxes on most of this district are more, if not many times more, than the worth of the land; the land has no value. It would make Cook county's medical center the envy of the world.

WPA workers could make a wholesome recreation park for convalescents instead of being confined to corridors or uninviting areas for recreation.

EDNA RISTAU.

SUGGESTS THEY SWAP JOBS.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—I see the men on the North Shore road have gone out on strike because they can't accept a reduction in wages. How about changing places with us shovel leaners? Maybe they will get along more comfortably with our $55 a month to support a family. H. S.

Fatty "Wings" Are Ugly, So Eradicate Them

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

There is one outstanding weakness about the mature woman's figure of which she herself is not conscious. Not conscious enough of it, perhaps we'd better say, for on second thought we can't believe that any woman possessed of this particular figure liability is unaware of it.

We refer to those two growing lumps of solid fat tissue that appear below the shoulder blades in back and often extend out to the sides, creating a bad dress disfigurement along with unwieldy weight. Left to their own devices, these lumps grow and grow until they are enormous.

Bloused backs in waists and frocks are sometimes resorted to as coverups. Capes are worn for the same reason, but nothing really hides the ugliness of a back that harbors the big fleshy wads. True, you find them invariably in company with excess fat all over, so that a general reducing program is usually required.

But we have seen otherwise successful losses of weight, except for the upper back bulges of which we speak. Exercise becomes imperative in such cases, exercises directed at the particular underlying muscles. And posture—tall, erect posture—must likewise be practiced.

Women of tall, erect posture never suffer the particular silhouette ill, you will notice, so that sitting, standing, walking, one must pull up tall and straight spined. But to give strength to the back for the erect posture and to rid the back of its topheavy load, there are three exercises which we outline now:

First: Sit down facing and as near the wall as you can get. Then, begin stretching your legs up along the wall until your entire weight is resting on your shoulders. Keep stretching your legs as you climb up and up the wall with your legs.

Second: Stand with back to wall, your feet forward eighteen inches. Keep head firmly set against wall. Shove your body forward. Keep hands and arms extended directly in front.

Return shoulders, waist and derrière flat to wall. Forward again and back. Do twenty times or more.

The third exercise is to lie flat on back on floor and let brisk rubbing of the fatty part of the upper back against the floor serve as a massage. Keep hands on hips and rub, rub, rub.

Briggs Dyer Named Head of Rockford Art Museum

Briggs Dyer, 27 years old, of 649 Wrightwood avenue, a former student of the Art institute school, yesterday was notified of his appointment as director of the Burpee art museum in Rockford. He has exhibited at the last two shows of Chicago artists in the institute here. In the 1938 exhibition a nude and a romantic landscape of his were shown. His wife, the former Kathryn Bradford, also studied at the institute school here.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

If you've a daughter setting off for school shortly, here are some beauty suggestions:

Get her a good permanent, one given by an expert who uses the best equipment and excellent judgment. See that a stiff hairbrush, some waving lotion and some brilliantine are in her luggage. Try to wangle a promise that she will brush her hair every day for ten minutes.

Stock her up with good preparations that will lend themselves to a simple, speedy beauty routine. Bland soap, cleansing cream, a tissue cream [to combat dryness] are the basic needs. If she's one with skin more oily than dry include a complexion brush, to be used at least a couple of nights a week, and plenty of mild tonic that keeps the oil flow in check.

She should have stacks of powder puffs so she won't be tempted to use a soiled one too long. She can get face powder, rouge, and lipstick as she needs them—she'll probably want to switch these from time to time.

And do arm her with a good, rich lubricating cream for nightly use on her hands before and during the football season. Also a lotion to be used after washing each day. If she has these things she'll use them; if she has to stock up for herself she'll probably choose to have a couple of sodas instead.

Some little things as eyebrow brushes, hand brushes, and tweezers with which to keep the stragglers in check should also be tucked in somewhere. It is not the fashion on college campuses now to be overdressed or over madeup, but the wise schoolgirl who hopes to be popular is invariably well groomed. She follows a program of exquisite cleanliness. Artificiality has gone out, but fastidiousness is definitly in.

The Housewife

Housewives who do any occasional job of dry cleaning will be glad to hear about a new cleaner that does the work quickly, effectively, and without leaving a ring, or a clinging odor. One gallon of this liquid will clean from five to eight dresses. Full directions for its use come with each can.

You're also told how to remove many types of stains with this cleaner. It will dissolve chewing gum, for instance, and will aid in removing coffee, tea, wine, fruit, and vegetable stains. It is also an excellent cleaner for automobile upholstery and for upholstered furniture. It can be used on carpets and rugs and on felt hats, gloves, and satin and kid slippers.

This cleaner is sold in gallon, 2 gallon, and 5 gallon cans. It's economical to get the largest of the cans.

Normal Child Is Bound to Be Noisy, Active

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"I want my child to be quiet and well behaved," many a mother writes me, and is really distressed when a busy little 3 or 4 year old, or a strong, husky 10 year old doesn't fill that particular bill.

My advice is, don't be so horrified when your baby or little child screams or howls when he's angry, yells when he's frustrated, cries when he's unhappy. Don't be disturbed by loud voices, shouts of laughter, roughness, and noise in your family.

"Hush! Hush!" I've heard again and again from a mother to a noisy child for no reason at all, just because he was noisy. Well, why shouldn't he be noisy? There are times when we must say hush, but just noise of itself is not to be checked.

Every child should have some place where he can shout if he feels like it, stamp and run freely without being squelched or scolded. To have to say, "The lady downstairs will call up the superintendent if you do that" is frightful, I think. I know a family who live in a city and do not own their own home. At some inconvenience to the grownups they always choose a place to live where no one below will complain. Children must give vent to their feelings; they must express their emotions. There must be a time and place when and where they can let off steam.

You yourself can get so you like the clatter, and laughter, and nonsense, and noise of children, free and full of vitality. Or you can become so that you cringe for yourself and other grownups at the vigor of young things and coddle your nerves so that they are affronted by the sounds made by wholesome, red blooded children.

Of course, the expression of a child's emotions must eventually be handled. And there are times when we want quiet for our own sake and other times when we want quiet for the children's sake. They don't always know when they've had enough activity and excitement. We are much surer of obtaining these if the lid isn't on all the time. The main point, however, is learn to like the signs of wholesome vitality and freedom in your children.

"Living With Our In-Betweens" is the name of a booklet sent on request. Address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill., enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BY ANNA NANGLE.

No joker in this title—it says "Prison Farm" and it depicts exactly that. The story revolves around an innocent girl who gets tangled up with a crook. They both land at the penal farm, where the warden is callous, but not particularly dishonest, and is interested only in keeping up the institution's record as a money maker. Prison labor is hired out and produces an excellent revenue for the state.

Matrons are gimlet-eyed and guards are rough and tough. With the exception of several of the inmates, the prison doctor is the only thoroughly human being on the place. Life in both the men's and women's sections of the camp is portrayed, and Jean and her true love become members in bad standing in their respective sections. Happily, there are no torture scenes, although the girls' strike in the laundry is exciting and rather dreadful.

The players struggle valiantly with their rôles and do as much as can be done with an uninteresting and obvious plot. Lloyd Nolan does a very neat job as the no-good Larry, and May Boley and Mae Busch are occasionally funny as typical feminine prisoners.

A Smart Suit Has No Equal for Fall Style

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Jackets, dozens and dozens of them, are giving the first fall shoppers lots of excitement. Money carefully amassed for other things goes for snappy new jackets.

It's bad for your peace of mind to cruise about the current showings of new clothes without selecting a couple of new beauties to carry home. The jackets are irresistible. They are low in price and high in snap. Huge plaids, small checks, and the newest striped glories are some of the finds.

The best finds of the week for anybody's money are some dress and jacket combines that are priced considerably under twenty dollars. The dresses are made of dark, thinnish wool. Some of the skirts are tucked and flared. Others have plaited skirts. The jackets provide contrasts in stripes, checks, or gaudy plaid. The striped jackets are definitly new. Nothing is left to imagination. Bright tones of blue, orange, green, red, and purple streak up and down or around. These are very snug, fitted affairs. Pockets are made with the stripes going crossgrain. Belts and sometimes sleeves also run counter to the striping of the body of the jacket. Buttons are unobtrusive but harmonizing. Nearly all the necklines are cut high, with a soft curve keeping the entire combine more like a costume than the suit idea.

Judging by the present assortments, dressmaker soft two piece suits and these dress and jacket combines are going to make a tremendous record for popularity. Every one likes them because they're universally becoming, because they're refreshing in color contrast, and because they are the youngest sort of outfits you can find. You can select the strongly contrasted duets of dark skirt or dress with an exuberantly patterned and colored jacket. Or you can pick the clever solid colored twosomes in hazy fall colors, russet, green, mauve, tawny gold, and the dark street colors.

Five Nuns Who Took Vows Together Fifty Years Ago to Celebrate

Fifty years ago tomorrow a class of 10 young women took part in the final ceremonies which made them nuns. Tomorrow half of the class, all of them more than 70 years old, will repeat the vows they made then, in ceremonies to follow a jubilee high mass at St. Scholastica convent, 7416 Ridge avenue. The other five are dead.

Members of the Benedictine Sisters of Chicago, founded in 1861, most of the five have been connected for varying periods with the St. Scholastica High school. The Benedictine order's work is chiefly educational. After the mass the five sisters will entertain friends at breakfast and continue to hold open house for former pupils and other friends during the day.

Of the five, Sister Bertha, whose family name is Feller, and Sister Agnes [Sutter] were born here. Sister Hyacinch [Tully], Sister Veronica [Wieland], and Sister Hedwig [Rupp] were born in Baltimore. Sister Hyacinth taught English in St. Scholastica here from 1888 until a few years ago, and now does clerical work.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

The Week in Hollywood.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 19.—"Slicker," a seal, steals acting honors from George Raft, Henry Fonda, John Barrymore, and Dorothy Lamour at the Westwood Viilage première of "Spawn of the North." . . . First it was Charlie McCarthy, then it was Snow White, and now Slicker to confound flesh and blood actors.

The program notes had this to say: "Because Miss Lamour is allergic to fish, Slicker had to be doused with Eau de Cologne before doing a scene with the sensitive Miss Lamour." . . . The new show business? . . . Raft, before the picture was previewed, went on strike.

On top of that, he insulted grievously every master of ceremonies in the country, because the reason for his sitdown was his refusal to play the part of a master of ceremonies in "St. Louis Blues." . . . All of us who have acted as M. C.'s are cut to the quick.

Will Hays spoke for one hour and thirty minutes at the pep meeting of the Association of Motion Picture Producers on the necessity of bringing back patrons to picture theaters. . . . After a one hour and thirty minute talk Hays will have difficulty in getting the producers back to a meeting.

Goldwyn and Heifetz finally agreed on the story. . . . Heifetz will be allowed to play his violin. . . . Leopold Stokowski arrived in New York and refused to discuss Garbo. . . . He is no kiss-and-tell conductor.

After eight years with Zanuck, Sam Engel resigned as associate producer at 20th Century-Fox. . . . Newsreel shots of Darryl in striped trousers and a gray topper were too much for Engel.

Hollywood's alphabetical soup department: Monday, NLRB issues SDG complaints. . . . Tuesday, SAG turns George Raft case over to SAG attorneys. . . . Wednesday, SWG polished code for AMPP. . . . Thursday, ASCAP confers with NLRB, SDG, and SAG. . . . Friday, SAG notifies RKO that Frances Mercer has canceled her strike. . . . Saturday, SWG puts O. K. on Jim McGuinness.

Rivals Louis B. Mayer and Harry M. Warner launch rivalry on a new field, at the Saratoga auction sales. . . . Instead of buying actors and scripts, Mayer and Warner bought horses, which, like actors, can be deducted from your income taxes in addition to running faster.

Spyro Skouras, speaking at the Fox West Coast convention, proved the Greeks had a word for it by telling the theater managers the greatest season was directly ahead. . . . The managers took it sitting down. . . . Tyrone Power left for Pineville, Mo., where "Jesse James" will be shot, figuratively and literally speaking.

Just how Director Henry King is going to clean up the character of Jesse James, a ruthless murderer, so that Tyrone can play it, is one of the prize problems of the year. . . .

RKO's Leo Spitz made a deal with Corrigan, but the announcement of it was in Corrigan style, backward. . . . First report given out to the press was that Corrigan would appear in the film. . . . This was corrected, Howard Benedict explaining that the publicity compass was pointing west, instead of east.

Answering the allegations of senate probers, that communism is rampant in Hollywood studios, Donald Ogden Stewart, Sylvia Sidney, Ernst Lubitsch, Fredric March, Lewis Milestone, Dorothy Parker, and Gloria Stuart challenged the Dies committee to participate in an open debate at the Los Angeles Philharmonic auditorium on the 24th.

Howard Hughes announced his return to picture production, and his intention of starring Katharine Hepburn in an aviation epic built around Amelia Earhart. . . . Renee de Marco finally got Tony de Marco flat on his back and served divorce papers at the Cedars of Lebanon hospital. . . . The same night, they kissed and made up, and he asked her for the next dance.

Irene Castle McLaughlin arrives in Hollywood, to see Fred Astaire, who is in New York. . . . Continuing to use Joel McCrea as a trading block, Sam Goldwyn loaned Joel McCrea to Paramount for De Mille's "Union Pacific." . . . In return, Sam will get Adolph Zukor and a soubrette.

Norma Shearer, who rushed to New York for the première of "Marie Antoinette," refused to walk past a picket line. . . . Had the original Marie Antoinette been as aware of her obligations to the working class as Norma proved, there would have been no French revolution. . . . I hope that nobody uttered this sage truth before this edition gets on the streets.

Henry Armstrong wins a close decision over Lew Ambers at Madison Square Garden, with Clem McCarthy referring constantly to Joe Louis. . . . "Louis drove a left to Ambers' head," etc. . . . Why Clemuel!

As insisted here some weeks back, the Laurel and Hardy partnership is at an end. . . . Harry Langdon replaces Laurel, which will give Laurel more time in which to get married to Illiana. . . . Langdon returned to pictures a few weeks ago in "There Goes My Heart" [Adv.]. . . . Vicki Lester, who was given the name of the heroine in "A Star Is Born," was dropped from the RKO stock company pay roll with 16 others. . . . Vicki Lester, in real life, found that "A Star Is Born" was slightly phoney in theme.

Edward G. Robinson's "I Am the Law" was previewed at the RKO Pantages theater, and though the preview audience failed to show up, the picture is a solid box office smash. . . . It is one of Robinson's finest characterizations, and ringing the bell with him is Wendy Barrie, playing a different sort of gun moll than the screen has seen. . . . Director Al Hall can take a low bow on this one, because it is big league in direction, pace and entertainment values.

Don Ameche lands in New York and learns his next will be a costarrer with Loretta Young. . . . Bill Howard, rabid Cincinnati Reds booster, takes over Paramount's Astoria studios to make "Hometown" in the east, and bids for his pal, Robert Montgomery, to play the lead. . . . Invitations arriving for the preview of the Fred Astaire-Ginger Rogers' picture "Carefree" next Wednesday. . . . M-G-M is readying "The Woman" for Norma Shearer. . . . From "Gone With the Wind" to a bathtub, in one week.

Dragonette Is at the Top in Stage Appeal

No Grant Park Concert Tonight

Because of the Chicagoland Music Festival, which is to be held tonight in Soldiers' field, there will be no concert in Grant park this evening.

BY CECIL SMITH.

Only a few hours after her first Chicago public appearance at the Chicagoland Music Festival luncheon, Jessica Dragonette, one of America's favorite radio sopranos, sang for a large sector of the city's population in Grant park last night. The audience, announced as the largest of the summer, quickly gave her the warm welcome for which Grant park audiences are becoming famous.

As the program neared its close and the singer added encores one after another, the applause was reinforced by whistling, shouting, waving, and other friendly demonstrations of approval.

Miss Dragonette chose to approach her audience with songs of a light character. Among them were three by Jerome Kern—"The Song Is You," "I Dream Too Much," and "The Night Was Made for Love" [the last named, oddly enough, sung in French]; two by Friml—"L'Amour, Toujours L'Amour" and the "Indian Love Call," and Noel Coward's "I'll Follow My Secret Heart."

Before she has been on the stage thirty seconds, every one in the audience, no matter how crusty his disposition, realizes that it is impossible not to fall under Miss Dragonette's spell. Unaffected in manner and radiant to look upon, she sings with an enchanting air of happy girlishness.

With the assistance of Carl Hohengarten and his Columbia Broadcasting System orchestra, Miss Dragonette sang her songs prettily, neatly, and accurately. After ten years of radio experience she is, of course, past mistress of the art of projecting music of this kind with sincere naturalness, letting the lilting tunes carry themselves along.

It was perhaps unfortunate, however, that she did not follow in the footsteps of her predecessors this summer by undertaking a few songs of serious consequence. No doubt she knows her abilities well, and felt that she would present herself in the best light in the music that had already won her radio popularity.

Except for Dvorak's "Songs My Mother Taught Me," sung as an encore, she left us without any accurate measure of her capacity as a serious concert artist. In this one song she hardly showed us more than the surface of either the music or the poem.

Her voice is pure and sweet, though quite small. While its texture was usually lovely, she seemed to reach her upper notes with some effort, and her tone had a tendency to become thready.

Let us hope that she will return to Grant park next summer to sing with a bit more ease, and to present a program that will give the audience something a little more durable to take home.

Tenderfoot's Inheritance

By Marie De Nervaud

(Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

SYNOPSIS.

Anne Claxon arrives from New York at the Wyoming ranch she has inherited, after refusing the last minute proposal of her city beau, Gerald. She meets Steve Hayward, a neighbor ranch owner, who tells her that Jake Collins, who owns the adjoining ranch, expects to buy her heavily mortgaged ranch, but her uncle never would sell to him. Anne determines to stay and fight. She is immediately attracted to Steve, but Gwen Collins, Jake's daughter, shows a proprietary attitude toward him. She wins over old Tim Salter, her uncle's foreman, and Whitey, a handsome ranch hand. She finds the house in disorder and a gun missing from the rack. Tim thinks Collins has been there and threatened her uncle with the gun, and that her uncle died from a heart attack. Whitey gives Anne a riding lesson. She tries riding alone and is thrown just as Jake Collins, Gwen, and Lawyer Bill Jennings arrive. Collins turns ugly when she refuses to sell. When Steve calls and advises her to sell she is cool to him. Steve is offended and jealous of Whitey. To help surmount financial difficulties Anne writes to invite her former boss, Mr. Trainor, his wife, and four children to the ranch as paying guests.

INSTALMENT XII.

DECLARATION OF WAR.

Jennings' threatening words to Anne had soon been forgotten in the excitement of making purchases. But for Whitey's intervention, Anne would have bought seeds enough to feed vegetables to a hundred dudes.

"I reckon by the time you've planted all those you'll figure it's about enough," Whitey had commented, and Anne had come to learn that his prophecy was only too true.

But it took more than a lame back and aching muscles to discourage her. Except for the heavy plowing, she steadily refused offers of help from Tim and Whitey.

"No, Tim, the garden's my job," she smiled up into his anxious face, "you and Whitey have all you can do to work the cattle. If only that letter from Mr. Trainor would come, so you could get two more punchers!"

It was ten days now since the letter had gone off. Tim had just come back empty handed from his daily trip to their rural delivery box, five miles down to the fork of the road.

"Sure, it's yore job," Tim conceded, "but there's no sense wearin' yuhself to a frazzle over it. First thing yuh know, yuh'll be stampeded into a nervous breakdown, and then what'll happen to the dudes?"

"I never felt less like a nervous breakdown, Tim," Anne laughed. "The thing that'll come nearest to giving me one, though, will be having you call the Trainors 'dudes!' You must get out of the habit of it right now. Nothing would make them more furious."

"Dudes is dudes," Tim declared stubbornly, "but it's to their credit to be touchy about it, so I'll try to pipe down."

Anne watched his bow legged walk with affectionate amusement as he made his way to the corral. She could look at the corral now without a burning feeling of inferiority. She lifted her head with an exultant sense of pride as she caught sight of Rocket by the farthest fence.

This morning, for the first time, she had stuck when he had tried to buck her off.

Every morning Anne had been up at dawn and down at the coral, giving Rocket a tryout on her own before Whitey appeared.

Then for an exhilarating hour they would ride over the mesa and explore for a short distance the tempting trails that led up the steep slopes of the timbered ridges.

Every morning after Whitey left her she made a hasty breakfast of coffee, toast, and bacon. Then she fed and tended the chickens, with frequent delvings into the precious volume on "How to Raise Poultry" that she had insisted on buying in spite of Whitey's derision.

She then spent two hours or more in the garden, grabbed a hasty pickup lunch, and reversed the order of events for the afternoon, beginning with work in the garden and ending with a ride.

By 6 o'clock she had found she was only too glad to capitulate in her declaration of independence and accept Tim's invitation to supper.

It was extraordinary, the difference the regular routine and the hard physical exercise was making. Something deep down in Anne responded to this pioneer life. She found herself expanding with a sense of power that was both new and exhilarating.

"Come on, Shep, we must get those carrots in before lunch."

With a last triumphant look at the corral and the unconscious Rocket, Anne went back to her digging.

"I may be doing all this work for nothing," Anne defended herself over the supper table that night, as Tim and Whitey gloomily pointed out that Mr. Trainor had had plenty of time to answer her letter if he was coming. "Still, I'd rather do it than just wait. Even if the Trainors don't come, I mean to stay here until the mortgage is foreclosed and I'm thrown out!" She defiantly changed the subject. "Tell me more about the cows you brought down today."

"What yuh aimin' to do? Write a book on cows?" Tim winked across at Whitey.

"I have to make up for lost time. I wish you'd let me ride with you tomorrow, Tim," Anne pleaded. "I want to learn to work cattle as soon as possible, so I can help in a pinch!"

Before Tim could answer, a clatter of hoofs shattered the twilight stillness. The next minute there were steps on the tiny porch of the mess shack and a knock at the door.

At Tim's shout to "come in" a cowboy pulled open the door and drew a paper out of his pocket.

"I've got a note here for the boss," he announced.

"A note from whom?"

"From Jake Collins. There's no answer."

As abruptly as he had come, he was gone.

Anne opened the folded paper.

She read it with a puzzled frown, then handed it over to Tim.

"I don't exactly understand what it's all about," she watched him anxiously while he read it.

Tim crashed his fist down on the table. His eyes blazed as he tossed the note to Whitey.

"Jake Collins is sounding off his first guns," he declared grimly. "Like the wary coyote he is, he's playin' safe in the eyes of the law by givin' yuh notice in advance."

"What does he mean by fencing in the water holes?" Anne asked. "Are they on his land?"

"That's an open question," Tim raged, "and he knows it. Usage has always left those water holes free for the X Bar Nine as well as the Triangle Three. If he fences 'em in, with a dry season comin' on, a good part of the cattle we've got left are done for."

"He can't do it!" Anne blazed. "I'll pull down the fences myself, as fast as he puts them up!"

"It ain't as simple as all that." Tim reached over and took the note from Whitey, reading it aloud with slow emphasis.

"'Notice is hereby given that water holes on the southern boundary of the Triangle Three will hereafter be fenced in. Any trespassing cattle will be shot and their owners prosecuted to the full extent of the law. Jake Collins.'"

"It's a declaration of war, that's what it is." He handed it back to Anne. "Do we fight or do we take it lying down?"

"Fight!" Anne declared. "That's what Uncle Ned would have done, isn't it?"

"Old Man Claxton, he wouldn't never knuckle down to Jake Collins!" he answered.

"Then neither will I! Here's my answer to his declaration of war!"

Anne took Jake Collins' note and defiantly tore it in two.

It was good to feel the nipping morning air after the restless night that followed Anne's answer to Jake Collins' declaration of war.

Rocket was waiting for her at the gate of the corral. Anne rubbed his nose with affectionate recognition of the compliment.

She swung into the saddle and started off at a walk, breaking soon to a trot. Trotting was no longer the agonizing ordeal of a week ago, although Anne was still far from mastering the equestrian art of sitting to it. She had begged Whitey to teach her to post, but he had been adamant.

"None of that dude bouncin' up and down for the boss of the X Bar Nine," he had declared. "You may as well learn the right way, first at least!"

Sun Valley Party at Knollwood Club.

A taste of resort life is in store for those who go to the Night in Sun Valley party that is being given tonight at the Knollwood club. The party begins at 10 o'clock at the pool where a cowboy band will entertain. There also will be a diving exhibition. At midnight the dance floor will be converted into an ice skating rink and Bobby McLean and his girl skating belles will put on an ice skating show and an exhibition of figure and speed skating. Tables will be set up around the rink and supper will be served during the show. After supper the rink will be removed and dancing will follow.

The club will hold its annual Darby and Joan golf event for husbands and wives tomorrow afternoon. It will be followed by a dinner in the evening at which David J. Malloy, president of the club, will award the trophy, which he donated, to the winning husband and wife. Mr. and Mrs. Adelor J. Petit Jr. have won the event for the last two years and if they are victorious again tomorrow the trophy will become their permanent possession.

The officers of the Peacock Camp for Crippled Children will give a picnic luncheon at the camp at Lake Villa on Monday for the associate members and those interested in seeing the camp. After the luncheon the children will present a play which they have written.

Among those arranging for the luncheon are Mrs. John Evans, Mrs. Lithgow Mitchell, Mrs. Nicolas Starosselsky, Mrs. Wirt Morton, Mrs Owen West, and Mrs. Frank A Priebe.

'Clothes Make the Man' Take More Interest

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

In a chapter entitled "Dressing for Men," Hildegarde Dolson, author of "How About a Man" [Lippincott] stresses the influence clothes lend one's assurance with men.

"If you know you look attractive, it increases your poise to start with," she tells. "You can wear one outfit almost constantly, provided it's right in the first place. And be sure you choose clothes that are excitingly becoming, as well as smart.

"If you are dressing on practically nothing a year, that entails a lot of shopping around, often on too short lunch hours. But it's better to go without until you find exactly what you want.

"And once you have it, be sure to put yourself thoroughly together at home, so that you'll never have to pull and hitch at your clothes in public. Another thing, never overlook the importance of a good girdle to make the most of your figure."

What you wear, in Miss Dolson's opinion, is a highly individualized matter. There are, however, a few good basic rules for pleasing men. For instance, black and white is one of the surest bets for collecting compliments. Whether it's an $8.95 little black rayon number with a wide-eyed white collar, or a deceptively simple Chanel original, nine men out of ten respond.

Red is a good magnet, our authority discovers, especially in winter. Blues and dark green are generally effective.

Men like a clear, well groomed effect, not overcurled hair and fussiness or strident masculinity. They like soft feminine blouses as a foil for your tailored suit. They love big brimmed hats.

They go for a romantic fragility by night, provided you're the type to swing it. Miss Dolson adds that there's an old saying about pink getting a man to propose. She thinks there's something to it. While not backing the theory that men should choose a woman's clothes, they can certainly give us pointers, she says.

Flattering to Mature Form

WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

This frock is suitable to all types of figures, since its flowing lines enhance the silhouette, but it is especially favorable to mature forms. You may style it simply in a plain or figured crêpe, and sheers are pretty, too, or you may make it dressier by the use of a lace panel down the center front. The neckline is oval and rather high, and gathers do much to soften its outlines, providing a nice frame for the throat. The sleeves, if they are long, are puffed at the shoulders and gradually diminish in width until they are tight at the wrist. If you like them shorter, allow them to flow gracefully over the upper arm, as shown in the sketch at the right. The skirt is fitted to the hips but flares at the hem.

Many of the new autumn materials feature unusual and distinctive shades. Some of the smart browns are particularly effective.

Style No. 3375 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material, with 1 yard of 18 inch contrasting.

"Let's try another deal," said East cheerfully after every one had passed. "You don't catch me opening on two two lousy aces!"

As per tradition, North and South showed each other their hands, then, after a moment's study, let out a concerted groan of dismay. This was the entire deal:

South, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

NORTH
♠ Q J 3 2
♥ Q 8
♦ Q 5 4 2
♣ K 4 2

WEST
♥ 7 5 3 2
♦ K J 7 3

EAST
♠ 9 7 5
♥ A 10 4
♦ A 10 9 6

SOUTH
♠ K 10 8 6 4
♥ K J 9 6
♦ 8
♣ A 9 7

"Four spades cold!" North and South moaned with perfect synchronization.

North said: "Well, I'm not guilty, that's a cinch!"

"Neither am I," South said virtuously. "You would'nt want me to open with only two-plus honor tricks, would you?"

North amiably admitted he wouldn't expect such outrageous optimism. And there the matter rested, everybody especially East and West, satisfied with the passed out deal.

I am much too peace loving to start trouble between partners. I like to see them agree, even when they're both wrong! But the fact remains that this was not one of those rare deals that contain a laydown game but which cannot logically or conventionally be opened by any player. Obviously, North had nothing resembling a bid, even third hand, but South would not have had to "stretch" to open with one spade. Indeed, kibitzing the game, a vague recollection crossed my mind that I had seen South's hand, or one almost exactly like it, used to illustrate the very point involved. On a hunch, I obtained a copy of my own Gold Book from the club manager, turned to page 109 in the chapter, "Opening Suit Bids of One," and quickly found why the hand had seemed familiar. Discussing the influence of playing strength, I had written: "With five cards in one major suit and four in the other, and with strong intermediates [jacks, tens, and nines] an opening bid is justified with about two-plus honor tricks." And one example I had used was:

♠ K 10 9 3 2 ♥ K J 8 7 ♦ A 6 3 ♣ 4

Distributionally and in top strength the hand is a twin of South's in the above deal!

Whether or not the partnership could reach a game contract, even after an opening one spade bid by South is, of course, very doubtful. the wonderful fit cannot be visualized by either partner and the bidding well might go:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

But, even so, that would be distinctly better than passing out the deal!

"Thirty-three Refrigerator Cakes" is a collection of Mary Meade's best icebox cakes. The booklet is on sale for 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, or it will be mailed for 5 cents in stamps. Mail requests should be addressed to Mary Meade.

BY MARY MEADE.

Mashed potatoes in a hurry may be made from one of the new Idaho potato products—potato shreds or powdered baked potato. They'll also make potato soup, or German potato cakes, in the twinkling of an eye.

These will float in gelatin: Almonds, pecans, diced apple, sliced banana, marshmallows, sections of fresh orange and grapefruit, fresh strawberries, fresh sliced pears. These will sink: Canned cherries, peaches, apricots, pineapple and raspberries, cooked prunes. Knowing what swims and what sinks in gelatin, a cook can make pretty self-layered desserts with a combination of fruits.

ABOUT SUGARS: Pack brown sugar firmly in the cup when measuring it. . . . Grind maple sugar and pack it firmly when measuring. A one-pound brick will yield 1 1-3 cups. . . . Caramel flavored desserts and sauces are easily made if you keep on hand a jar of powdered caramelized sugar. Here's one good way to make it: Put 3 cups white sugar and 1 cup water into a saucepan. Cover and boil rapidly to a thick sirup. Remove cover and cook slowly until sirup turns amber. Pour into buttered pans in a thin layer. Break into pieces and grind in the food chopper. This will keep indefinitly.

ABOUT QUICK FREEZING: A western frozen foods distributor was recently granted a trademark on this name for his frozen fish: "Frozen with the Wiggle in Its Tail." . . . Quick freezing causes little or no loss of vitamins in fruits. Some vegetables, including spinach, broccoli, peas and asparagus, lose a little of their vitamin C in the process. . . .

That freezing keeps meats fresh was illustrated this year when Russian explorers in the arctic came across the carcass of a 20,000 year old prehistoric elephant, so "fresh" that their dogs set upon it and had to be dragged off.

A reader's request for a sour cream chocolate cake recipe reminded me of how good this one is:

Sour Cream Devil's Food

[Two 9 inch layers]

2 cups sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon soda
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sugar
1 unbeaten egg
2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
½ cup sour cream
½ cup milk

Sift flour, measure, and resift three times with soda and salt. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and beat together until very light. Add egg and beat well. Add cooled chocolate and blend. Combine cream and milk. Add flour mixture and liquids alternately to the batter, beating well after each addition. Bake in two greased 9 inch layer pans at 350 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes.

Want to know about a luscious frosting for this cake? It's our old friend, seven minute frosting, plus chocolate to make it brown and rich.

Chocolate Seven Minute Frosting.

2 unbeaten egg whites
1½ cups sugar
1½ teaspoons light corn sirup
5 tablespoons cold water
3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 teaspoon vanilla

Put egg whites, sugar, corn sirup and water in the upper part of a double boiler, and beat with a rotary beater until well mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly with a rotary beater, and cook for 7 minutes, or until frosting will stand in peaks. Remove from heat and fold in cooled chocolate and vanilla. Do not beat. Cool and spread on cake.

Common Sense View on Future of Our Country

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"A New Birth of Freedom," by Nicholas Roosevelt. [Scribners, $2.50.] Published a week ago yesterday.

Where are we, as Americans, going? Where have we come from? Is our present confusion a political, a social, or a moral malaise? And what, if anything, can we do about it?

Nicholas Roosevelt has here written a stimulating book. His point of view is long range, rather than short. He is nonpartisan, in the sense that he neither advocates nor denounces specific Republican or Democratic principles. He also has a thoroughly wholesome and sincere belief in man's innate integrity and his preference for as well as his right to a life of his own earning.

Mr. Roosevelt writes succinctly about how governments in general operate and especially how the American government has operated in the past and is operating in the present. Government is either servant or master, he says, and civil liberties begin to end when a state resorts to arbitrary compulsion. "If," he pointedly states, "government is to be all-powerful, it is proper to ask: Who are to be the governors?"

"The government which the framers of the constitution established was . . . not a centralized government," he says. He advocates more, not less, individual state responsibilities, as against the present status of the federal government, "now virtually supreme throughout the land."

Both politicians and reformers "are making a spendthrift out of Uncle Sam," the author declares. He explains where the money comes from that is being spent, pointing out there are 53 different taxes on a loaf of bread, 126 on a pair of shoes, 57 on a quart of milk, and 216 on gasoline and oil.

He states unequivocally that planned economies [in Germany, and Russia on a large scale] are "a return to a form of economic slavery with the single difference that instead of men being forced to work for their individual owners they will be forced to work for the state."

He explains how democracies die, and he issues a final clarion call for a resurgent federalism. "Idleness and its bastard brother, irresponsibility," are the greatest curse of the country today, he proclaims. But he concludes that no one need fear for the future of America if "people of modest means but proud traditions . . . resume the burden of supporting sound political and economic reforms, of attacking the false gods of wealth, idleness, irresponsibility, and dependence."

Travel Diary Discloses Genius for Description.

"With Malice Toward Some," by Margaret Halsey. [Simon & Schuster, $2.] Published Wednesday. Joint choice of the Book of the Month club for September.

One of the most amusing books of many a day is this frankly titled travel diary of an exchange professor's wife who saw England, Sweden, Norway, and Paris for the first time and with the least jaundiced eye that any traveler ever turned toward them. She has a new twist of phrase for every—and any—old thing or place. The only even faint tinge of ennui that ever overtakes the reader is caused by her always acute observations curdling just a little [but very rarely] into "cute."

These are pages to read aloud, especially to Anglophiles! For Peg Halsey gets blue around the gills in the gelidity of English drawing rooms "in this dim aquarium of a country," and says so. And what she thinks of English cooking—the soup she says, tasted as if it had been drained out of the umbrella stand—would be funny in all languages, including the Scandinavian. Incidentally she thinks Sweden is the little bit of heaven we've heard so much about in song and story.

But the English countryside never got a better or more wholehearted press agenting, nor English conversation a better lambasting. The small town where she and her husband lived, she says, "looks like the kind of place where the conversation seldom gets above the vicar's cough and never gets below it." She has a genius for description.

And Here's Tragedy in Truest Sense of Word.

"The Fishmans," by H. W. Katz. [Viking, $2.50.] Winner of Heinrich Heine prize, awarded by a group of exiled German writers in France.

The tragedy of "The Fishmans" is neither unspectacular nor simple. Their physical and emotional sufferings are individual, but typify a race. They know hunger and homelessness, and are always under the shadow of fear that their world may collapse.

The Fishmans were Jews in Galicia when the world war started. They are scattered by the invading Russians, the father escaping to America while the mother and the children become wanderers, hoping always and finally vainly to join him. The father, returning in desperation to find his relatives and take them to America, is seized as a spy and then drafted for service at the front. He finally finds his family, gets a furlough, and returns to his wife's deathbed. In the truest sense of the word this is a "horror" story, for it chronicles the most terrible of all horrors, man's inhumanity to man.

"The Fishmans" is written in the first person and has every evidence of being autobiography instead of fiction. It is a first novel, and already has brought its young exiled author out of his unheated Paris garret and given him more than the dry bread he ate while it was being written.

Looking Over Latest Books

An Informative Study of Situation in China.

"Japan in China," by T. A. Bisson. [Macmillan, $3.] June choice of the Book union.

Under a fellowship from the Rockefeller Foundation, T. A. Bisson spent much time during 1937 in the far east gathering material for his book. Prior to that time he had traveled widely in the orient.

When he reached China in 1937 the nation was experiencing one of its most quiet and prosperous periods in more than ten years. Then came the "incident" in North China, which has grown into one of the world's greatest invasions, as Japan's armies sweep on.

Mr. Bisson presents a calm and thorough survey of the situation in China during the last few years and as it is developing today. Most of his facts are solid. He has dug deep into cold statistics which are rich in factual gold for the student.

There are several books on the Chinese-Japanese situation, published recently, which are easier to read, but none which shows more meticulous care in its compilation. Mr. Bisson has written a valuable book.

Here Are Five Volumes for Sea Reader's Shelf.

"Castaway Boats," by Capt. Victor Slocum. [Lee Furman, $3.]

"The Making of a Sailor," by Alan J. Villiers. [Morrow, $4.]

"Ships and Water," by Alfred A. De Lardi. [McKay, $3.]

Capt. Victor Slocum, author of "Castaway Boats," is the son of the world's most famous small boat sailor of modern times, Capt. Joshua Slocum, whose "Sailing Alone Around the World" is a sea classic. The younger skipper has painstakingly compiled an anthology of famous shipwrecks of the last three centuries. His book should be on every sea shelf for it is authentic, unusual, and interesting. The author has made sketch maps of all his sea tragedies and the book is illustrated in color and black and white.

Alan J. Villiers, former Australian newspaper man, who wrote "Falmouth for Orders," has made use of the wealth of photographic material obtained during his cruise round the world in the square rigger Conrad in "The Making of a Sailor." His new volume also has many pictures taken on Baltic cruises in the Georg Stage. It is a vivid photographic story of schoolships under sail, showing these youthful mariners at work and play.

"Ships and Water" also is a splendid collection of nearly one hundred marine photographs, from forty-four cameras of many nations, compiled and edited by Alfred A. DeLardi and arranged by Heyworth Campbell. In a brief foreword Joseph C. Lincoln says: "This book will be welcomed and cherished by every sea lover. It is authentic and beautiful. It is a lovely and intriguing thing—a treasure to get and to keep." A. C.

A Southerner Discovers His Own Dixieland

BY CHARLES I EAVELLE.

"A Southerner Discovers the South," by Jonathan Daniels. [Macmillan, $3.]

The south, writes Jonathan Daniels, has needed for a long time to be discovered. This is undoubtedly true. And it is fortunate for the south that it has been discovered in this case by one who knows the region and its inhabitants, who understands them, who is himself a southerner who has traveled enough of the world to evaluate his own section with a mind that is free of bias.

Mr. Daniels, editor of the Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer and son of Josephus Daniels, discovered the south in the most sensible way possible; by looking for it. He traveled by automobile from Maryland to Louisiana and from Tennessee to Florida. He evaluates the Tennessee of TVA, the Georgia of the textile barons, the Louisiana in which Huey Long's ghost still lurks.

What Mr. Daniels has written will miff many southerners, but they can profit by his thrusts, which are not cruel—only true. Best of all his criticism is constructive. For each thrust he offers at least the basis of a cure for the sore spot it probed.

He does not believe the south was looted irreparably by the carpetbaggers. He is almost ready to forgive those who stole and moved on. "The ones who stayed to reform us did the damage," he says.

Negroes of the South During the Civil War.

"Southern Negroes, 1861 to 1865," by Bell Irvin Wiley. [Yale University Press, $3.]

This valuable and comprehensive work was awarded the Mrs. Simon Baruch prize by the United Daughters of the Confederacy as a real contribution to the history of the south. It tells what happened to the Negroes during their transition from slavery to freedom during the civil war, viewing them individually and collectively. Their treatment and behavior is covered both in the sections held by the confederates and those that were in possession of the invading armies.

The new material introduced undoubtedly will alter prevailing opinions of the colored man's loyalty to his master during the war. The trust put in Negroes by unprotected southern women and their admirable discharge of that trust is belatedly recorded here. There have been countless works that dealt with the Negro after and before 1861, but almost none, prior to this one, to fill in the gap of the war years.

Guide to Politics and a Picture of World Refugees

"Dorothy Thompson's Political Guide." [Stackpole, $1.25.] Published Monday.

"Refugees," by Dorothy Thompson. [Random House, $1.]

"Dorothy Thompson's Political Guide" is, in the author's own words, "intended to be a political dictionary—the intelligent woman's guide to isms." Most of the material in it appeared in two popular women's magazines. The subject matter is simplified as only a brilliant writer can simplify the complex. When the reader—man or woman—has finished this little volume he will be able to hold his own with either right or left arguers.

In "Refugees" Dorothy Thompson attacks the problem of the world's disinherited. She goes at it with characteristic verve and brilliancy and offers a plan which is fundamentally one of international finance. This article, which appeared in the April issue of Foreign Affairs [in a less extensive form], is conceded to have influenced the formation of President Roosevelt's advisory committee on political refugees which met [and, as such things have a way of doing, is still meeting] in Evian. "Refugees" has an introduction by "Refugees" has an introduction which has been written by Hamilton Fish Armstrong. F. B.

N. Y. CONVENTION ASKS 57 CHANGES IN CONSTITUTION

Voters Pass on Proposals Next November.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(AP)—A five months convention to revise the basic law in President Roosevelt's home state wound up tonight with 57 proposed constitutional changes. The changes include a "bill of rights" for labor and what opponents of the Roosevelt administration term a curb on government burocracy.

New York's Republican controled constitutional convention, eighth held since 1777 under a permanent provision that permits revamping of the constitution every 20 years, also approved in its closing hours a reapportionment of legislative districts labeled by Democrats "unjust and brazenly political."

1915 Proposals Rejected.

All measures adopted by the $1,350,000 convention must meet a popular referendum in November. The document formulated by a similar convention in 1915 was rejected in its entirety, leaving the state to operate under an 1894 constitution plus numerous individual amendments subsequently approved by the people.

The so-called anti-burocracy proposal, described by Democratic opposition as a "whack at the New Deal," provides for court review on the facts as well as the law in appeals from decisions of state bureaus, except those dealing with taxation, education, and workmen's compensation.

Labor Bill of Rights.

Labor's proposed bill of rights would stipulate the privilege of collective bargaining by representatives of its own choosing, require an eight hour day, five day week for laborers on public works projects and payment of the prevailing rate of wages.

Democrats predicted rejection by the people of the Republican proposed new lineup of the two house legislature, which increases senate seats from 51 to 53 and assembly representation from 150 to 159.

Chief of the proposals defeated by the convention, and impending as an outstanding election campaign issue, was a Democratic proposal that would have guaranteed state ownership and control of the Niagara and St. Lawrence rivers water resources.

TROOPS DEPART FROM SCENE OF MAYTAG STRIKE

Newton, Ia., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—The last of the National Guardsmen who have maintained martial law in Newton for a month were withdrawn today. The troops were sent here to preserve order in the C. I. O. strike that kept the Maytag Washing Machine plant closed for nearly three months.

Maj. William Gaines formally read in the courthouse Gov. Nels Kraschel's proclamation ending military rule and restoring civil law to the county. At the same time the remaining 125 guardsmen, half the original force sent here July 20, started breaking camp.

The governor announced that the Maytag company had agreed to withdraw a court injunction prohibiting the C. I. O. from massing picketing or any other acts which might interfere with normal operations of the factory. This was done, he said, to eliminate friction in attempts to end the prolonged controversy.

U. S. LABOR BOARD AID IS RELIEVED IN WEIRTON CASE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Edward G. Smith, labor relations board trial examiner, who was hanged in effigy last July during a board hearing of C. I. O. charges against the Weirton Steel company, has been relieved of handling the case at his own request.

The disclosure by the board today that Smith would be replaced as trial examiner followed an announcement that the resumption of the Weirton hearing, postponed once until Aug. 24, had been put off again until Sept. 12.

Smith became a storm center in the Weirton hearing at Steubenville, O., last July when he ordered Weirton's general counsel, Clyde A. Armstrong, barred from the proceedings for "contemptuous" conduct. Steubenville citizens and company workers hanged the examiner in effigy during a demonstration protesting the order. Armstrong's exclusion was sustained by the labor board after a hearing in Washington.

POLICEMAN DIES AFTER CRASH OF CYCLE AND AUTO

Motorcycle Policeman Joseph Mitchell was fatally injured yesterday when his machine went out of control at 106th street and Torrence avenue as he was pursuing a speeding automobile. The motorcycle skidded in the street car tracks on 106th street and crashed into a parked car in front of 10523 Torrence avenue. Policeman James Keen, who was also on a motorcycle chasing another speeder, took Mitchell to the South Chicago hospital. Both speeders escaped. Mitchell, who lived at 5819 South Whipple street, died early today.

James Fiala, a Cicero motorcycle policeman, was seriously injured last night when he collided with an automobile at Cermak road and 54th avenue, Cicero, while chasing a speeder. William Korbel, 2640 South Hamlin avenue, driver of the car, was charged with reckless driving. The speeder escaped.

CHICAGO RELIEF LOAD INCREASES SLIGHTLY IN JULY

Chicago's relief load increased from 85,467 in June to 86,473 in July, Relief Commissioner Leo M. Lyons reported yesterday. The increase was 1.2 per cent. It was a gain of 6.5 per cent over July, 1937.

The Chicago Relief administration opened 9,092 cases last month, principally because of loss of private employment, Lyons said, while 7,792 cases were closed due largely to WPA or private employment.

The total cost of relief in Chicago for July was $2,555,492. The average cost per case was $26.79.

Vulcan, Mich., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Picketing of St. Barbara's Catholic church and parish house was continued by parishioners today to prevent the departure of the Rev. Simon Borkowski. He has become so popular during the 15 years he has been pastor here that his flock is determined he shall not leave.

Three hundred persons assembled yesterday when Father Simon attempted to leave for his new assignment at the Salvatorian seminary at St. Nazianz, Wis. Scores of women and children walked the grounds, some weeping and many carrying rosaries. A group of men grasped the priest as he emerged and led him back into the house.

A spokesman for the parishioners said the picketing, now in its sixth day, would not be abandoned until assurance was received that Father Simon would remain here. A similar demonstration was successful last spring in keeping the priest at his post in this village.

INQUEST CALLED IN DEATH OF AUNT WHO SHOT NIECE

Coroner Adolph E. Kerger of Kankakee county yesterday called an inquest for next Thursday in the death of Miss Martha McGuire, 65 years old, 3852 Calumet avenue. Miss McGuire shot and wounded her niece, Mrs. Elizabeth Cooke, and then killed herself Thursday in Bird park in Kankakee.

Mrs. Cooke, daughter of John F. Hahn, Evanston real estate man, is a patient in Manteno state hospital. Miss McGuire visited her at the institution and got permission to take her for a ride. They drove to the park in a taxicab.

There were no witnesses to the shooting. A note on Mrs. Cooke's clothing, and signed by her aunt, read in part: "I cannot endure the thought of leaving darling Bess alone and my health is breaking." At Kankakee state hospital it was said Mrs. Cooke would recover. Last evening the body of Miss McGuire was brought to Chicago.

CHILDREN BARRED BY NAZI SCHOOLS FIND HOME HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Max Korshak, 506 Roscoe street, have reared a family of four children. They have aided in rearing seven grandchildren. Today, when they arrive home from New York, they will begin again with a new family of four.

Their new charges are the children of Herr and Frau Max Neuberger, a Jewish family of Sennfeld, near Stuttgart, Germany. Mr. Korshak, who is an attorney and master in chancery in the Circuit court, heard of the Neuberger children through a little girl immigrant from Germany. She told of her friend, Berty Neuberger, 12 years old, who wanted to go to school and could not because she was not Aryan. The Korshaks wrote the Neubergers. Then they went to Germany.

There they found Berty's sister, Ericka, 10, and two brothers, Lothar, 14, and Joachim, 15. They were the last Jewish children in the village, all others having been evacuated. Their parents were willing to give them up so that they might enjoy the advantages of the United States.

The Korshaks and their four wards docked in New York yesterday aboard the S. S. Ile de France. With them was an aunt of the children. Frau Selma Talheimer, 35, who will also live at the Korshak home.

A STRIKE BOUND RAILWAY OFFERS SOME FREE RIDES

Passenger trafic over the Chicago, Milwaukee and North Shore line, which is tied up by a strike, was resumed last night. Only a select number of passengers were carried, however, and the trip was interrupted a mile and a half from its starting point by Wilmette police. The passengers are anonymous.

John J. Moran, who lives at 924 Greenleaf avenue, was sitting on his porch when he saw a handcar pass on the main line. He thought the crew looked oddly unlike section hands. He called the police.

Policemen Edward Whiteside, John Hendrickson, and William Schmidt found the handcar abandoned between Greenwood and Chestnut avenues. It was returned to the Linden avenue yards. The policemen had to pump it back.

ROBBINS, ISBELL LEAD ALL-STARS IN PASSING DRILL

WORK 2 HOURS ON AIR ATTACK; PLAN DEFENSE

Hope to Stop Baugh with 6 Man Line.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

In their last drill preparatory to their intra-squad game this afternoon in Dyche stadium, the All-American football players worked two hours yesterday afternoon in a forward pass scrimmage. This supplemented the morning workout on passing attack and defense without contact work.

This afternoon's game is the second scrimmage under game conditions for the All-Americans since they started practice a week ago for their game with the Washington Redskins in Soldiers' field on Aug. 31. It will be the sixteenth practice session.

Cecil Isbell of Purdue, on the Red team, and Jack Robbins of Arkansas, on the Blue team, did the passing for the elevens which drilled in the fenced practice field yesterday. Isbell was placing the ball accurately, connecting almost every time a receiver was clear. The Blues rushed hard and shortly after the start of scrimmage Isbell received a cut over his left eye.

Score on Three Straight Passes.

Although limited to passes on attack, the Reds went the length of the field for their first touchdown in three consecutive plays, the last from Isbell to John Kovatch, Northwestern end. Kovatch later outran the Blue secondary to take a forty yard pass and continue to the goal. In between these scores Ralph Wolf, Ohio State center on the Reds, intercepted a pass by Robbins and he ran thirty yards behind quickly formed interference for a touchdown.

Pat McCarty of Notre Dame, the Blue center, ended the Reds' scoring spree when he intercepted one of Isbell's passes, but Pat was downed immediately. The Red team lined up as follows:

Left end, Benton, Arkansas; left tackle, Kinard, Mississippi; left guard, Ruetz, Notre Dame; center, McCarty, Notre Dame; right guard, Kuharich, Notre Dame; right tackle, Babartsky, Fordham; right end, Zachary, Purdue; quarter back, McDonald, Ohio State; left half, Robbins, Arkansas; right half, Rohm, Louisiana State; full back, Spadaccini, Minnesota.

Andy Puplis, Notre Dame; Coroy Davis and Frank Filchock, Indiana; Rudy Gmitro, Minnesota; Pete Smith, Oklahoma, and Erwin Wegner, Northwestern, all temporarily disabled by injury, watched these teams scrimmage. Filchock was the only player not in uniform. The other two teams and their substitutes went through the same kind of a drill on the other practice field.

Depend on Six Man Line.

It is apparent, and if this is giving information to Sammy Baugh and the Redskins they are welcome to it, that the All-Stars will depend on a six man line to halt the Washington passing attack. Of course, if pushed back deep in their own territory, the All-Americans naturally will use seven men on the defensive line, but the six man line still is the most common defensive maneuver.

The deduction from the All-Stars' plan for defense is that they hope to hurry Baugh when he wishes to pass. The coaching staf, two of whom helped direct Baugh last year when he was on the All-American squad, are convinced that he must be rushed. Give Baugh time to get set and he'll find a receiver somewhere.

All-Stars Have Passers, Too.

In all conjecture on how the All-Stars will stop Washington's air attack, the All-Americans' own passing must not be overlooked. Grant, if you wish, that Baugh is football's great-

BENTON'S SKILL PUTS THRILL IN PASS RECEIVING

Works with Robbins to Score Touchdowns.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Football fans are expecting one particularly tense moment during the All-Star game a week from Wednesday—the moment when Jim Benton of Arkansas goes in at end for the college team. If his Arkansas teammate, Jack Robbins, is in at half back at the same time, the thousands who are gathered in Soldiers' field will notice the Washington Redskins' secondary defense grow suddenly wary.

The pros will be on the alert for one of those brilliant passes—Robbins to Benton—that put thrills into so many Southwest conference games during the last few years. If this year's All-Star game is as close as its predecessors, it may be decided by just such a play—and it wouldn't be anything new for Benton and Robbins, either. This combination has been at it for three seasons and it hopes to have one more fling in the game with the Redskins.

Wins a Championship.

It was a pass caught by Benton that beat Texas, 6 to 0, and gave Arkansas the Southwest conference championship in the last game of the 1936 season.

"Nobody can pass any better than Robbins when he gets warmed up," Benton will say in his Arkansas drawl. "I've played against Baugh twice and there's no doubt about it—he's good. But I don't think he's any better than Jack."

And Benton should know. Down at Arkansas they throw most of the passes to the ends rather than to the backs, and Benton did most of the receiving. He was a regular for most of three seasons, during which time Arkansas turned out some of its strongest teams.

A Tough Conference.

"That Southwest conference is a tough one," Benton points out. "The schools are so evenly matched that the last place team is likely to beat the first place team any day of the season. Feeling runs pretty high among the spectators down there, too. They give their teams a lot of support."

Southwest conference fans expect a spectacular type of game—and they get one, too. Most of the teams use a wide open style of attack with the forward pass figuring prominently. The Chicago football public is quite likely to see just that type of football a week from Wednesday when the college boys go up against the pros.

Benton is going in for professional football after the All-Star game. He has a contract with the Cleveland Rams. However, he doesn't intend to make it his career.

Wants to Be Lawyer.

After the pro season is over, he intends to go back and study law at Arkansas. When he's ready to hang up his shingle he probably will tack it onto a door in Fordyce, Ark., a little town of about 3,000 people, seventy miles from Little Rock. His father is the local sherif.

Benton is a tall, lean, pleasant looking fellow, who talks with a leisurely southwestern drawl. He gives the impression that when the folks down in Arkansas have any "lawin'" to do, it will be in mighty good hands if they take it to him.

PHILS, ATHLETICS CONSIDER NIGHT BASEBALL PLAN

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Officials of both clubs indicated tonight that the Phillies and the Athletics may play night baseball in Shibe park next year.

"Night baseball is a distinct possibility," said Roy Mack, vice president of the Athletics, American league club.

"The fans have proved they want night games," said Gerry Nugent, president of the Phils,

A Red Hot Passer from Down Arkansas Way

Australia Wins Doubles, Right to Play in Final

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Australia swept into the Davis cup challenge round today when Adrian Quist and Jack Bromwich scored the squad's third straight victory of the five match interzone series with Germany.

It took the Australians exactly one hour to pin a 6-2, 6-1, 6-4 defeat upon Henner Henkel and Georg von Metaxa, who were good enough to reach the doubles final at Wimbledon this year.

Score Almost at Will.

Winners over Don Budge and Gene Mako three times in Australia last year and picked by Vincent Richards, pro veteran, after today's match to beat the Americans in the Davis cup final two weeks hence, Quist and Bromwich scored just about at will. They made only 23 errors in three sets to 64 by the Germans. In the nine sets played between the two teams so far, the Germans have failed to carry a single one to deuce, and they have been able to take only 21 games in all.

Bromwich's two-handed forehand and Henkel's own service were the deciding factors today. Possessor of one of the mightiest deliveries in the game when he's right, Henkel's service was broken five of six times.

Resume Play Today.

The Germans will attempt to save something tomorrow in the final two singles matches, which will be meaningless. Quist will play Henkel and Bromwich will meet Metaxa. Australia was last in the challenge round in 1936, when it lost to England after beating Germany, 3 to 2.

WAR ADMIRAL MEETS ESPOSA IN $3,000 RACE

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(AP)—The blankets come off War Admiral again tomorrow. Samuel Riddle's great son of Man O'War will be heavily backed in the Whitney purse, $3,000 added, but it will be a tough struggle if William Ziegler Jr.'s great mare, Esposa, runs to her true form.

Esposa was only three-fifths of a second off Saratoga's track record in winning the recent Champlain handicap of a mile and a furlong. The added distance of the Whitney, which is run at a mile and a quarter, will be to Esposa's liking, for the 6 year old daughter of Espino-Quick Batter can run long and hard.

Early morning for a drive
Sun just coming into sight;
Squirrels, gophers playing games
Flowers lift their smiling faces bright.

Or is it all because of rest
That over night has made YOU new?

Hay Fever.

No. 4.

My boy friend's eyes get itchy and he sinks
His knuckles in them clear up to the wrist,
I wish that you could see the way he blinks
After he's walloped each eye with a fist;
His nose runs like a spigot all the time
There isn't any place to turn it off,
You'd say his future wasn't worth a dime
If you could hear his deep asthmatic cough.

We wanted him to go to Mackinac
But he can't leave his job, he seems to think,
And anyway he hasn't got the jack
To take a trip, so he'll stay here and blink;
His cup of grief is filled up to the brim
Since ragweed pollen made a sap of him.

CUBS TO UNVEIL DIZZY DEAN FOR 9TH TIME TODAY

He'll Try to Avoid Fatigue Against Pirates.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

They are going to unveil Dizzy Dean at Wrigley field again this afternoon. It will be the ninth time this season they have pulled up the drapes to reveal the great man in all his athletic splendor. Yes, Diz will pitch the opener against the Pittsburgh Pirates this afternoon. He will step to the mound at 2 o'clock, Chicago daylight saving time. Many of us hope he will not have to step to the bathhouse until 4 o'clock, or thereabouts, after he has attained his seventh victory.

Diz is coming back for a test somewhat more precipitately than on several other occasions. He pitched six innings plus against the Pirates only last Saturday. He previously had pitched, or had tried to pitch, against the Phillies in Shibe park on July 30.

Good for Six Innings.

There is little need to dwell on the fact that he was knocked out in the fifth inning in Philadelphia in a game which subsequently was lost by Larry French. It is more pleasant, as well as more significant, to reflect on his accomplishments a week ago against the same team he will face today.

Diz for six innings was very good. He allowed five hits and did some swell pitching in a couple of jams that developed during the span. Possessed of a 7 to 1 lead going into the seventh, Dean's arm grew tired. He was knocked out on five hits, leaving the game with a score of 7 to 5. The Cubs eventually won, 11 to 5, and Dean was credited with his sixth victory to no defeats.

Does His Writing at Night.

In his eight starts the $185,000 pitcher and magazine writer has been able to finish three games. He has been working industriously days strengthening his arm. [He does all his writing at night, 'tis said.] While the National league pennant race rapidly is becoming a hollow mockery, in so far as the Cubs are concerned, Diz loves to win regardless and is expected to try to go all the way just as zealously as he would if the Cubs still were fighting for the pennant.

Hubbell Flies to Memphis to See Specialist

Carl Hubbell, left handed star pitcher of the New York Giants, arrived in Chicago last night from New York aboard a United Air Lines plane and left a few minutes later for Memphis, Tenn., where he will consult a specialist, Dr. J. Spencer Speed, about his pitching arm which failed Thursday. It is feared Hubbell may be lost for the rest of the season and that his loss may erase the Giants' slim chance of winning a third straight National league pennant.

Hubbell said he would see the specialist today and would follow whatever treatment is necessary. If Dr. Speed's examination reveals an injury that will require an operation, the operation will be performed as soon as advisable, he said. Hubbell expressed the hope that treatment would restore the arm and that he would be able to pitch again this year.

Battered by the Brooklyn Dodgers during an early inning Thursday, Hubbell reported to Manager Bill Terry that he was experiencing severe pain in the arm. He said he had suffered like pains at times during 1936 and 1937, but that the trouble had subsided after the arm had rested for a few days. He has had like difficulty this year, he said, but the arm has not loosened up and the ailment has become more troublesome.

RUNYAN, SNEAD LEAD CANADIAN OPEN WITH 136

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Harry Cooper of Chicago, defending his Canadian open golf championship, equaled Missisauga's course record of 66 today and Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., and Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., missed that mark by one stroke.

Runyan and Snead, who had 69s for their opening rounds yesterday, tied for first place at the 36 hole mark with 136. Cooper, who opened with a 71, was one stroke behind.

There was a four stroke gap between Cooper and the next players on the list, Horton Smith of Chicago and Ed Oliver of Wilmington, Del. Smith had 70—71—141 and Oliver 67—74 for the same total. Gene Kunes of Chicago, the 1935 champion who shared the first round lead with Oliver, reached the half way mark with 67—75—142.

Lawson Little, 1936 winner, and Walter Hagen, who won the title in 1931, were well out of the running. Hagen had 145 and Little 146. Vic Ghezzi and Jimmy Hines tied with Hagen while other star United States pros were even higher.

OWEN'S HOMER STARTS INDIANS ON DOWNFALL

Walker Hurt by Own Foul Ball.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Aug. 19.—Thornton Lee rose up today and again plagued his former Indian mates with a dazzling assortment of left-handed twisters. With apparent ease he throttled the pennant deluded Indians for the fourth time this season, his fellow White Sox meanwhile putting on such an impressive hitting demonstration that they captured the opener of a five game series, 7 to 2.

The Sox turned the occasion into a batting holiday for themselves by refusing to show any fear of Earl Whitehill, the 38 year old southpaw. They put him on the short end right at the start, helped by homers from Marvin Owen and Joe Kuhel, and kept him in arrears until they finally forced him to abdicate in the seventh with a cluster of three runs in which Owen also figured, this time with a two-bagger.

Lee Also Hits.

Lee was such a complete master of his job that only one Indian really got out of control. He was Hal Trosky, who came up in the second inning with a mate on base and blasted his sixteenth homer before anybody was retired. Lee proceeded to pitch such beautiful ball that not another man got past first base until two were gone in the ninth. Along with his pitching he supplied a couple of hits.

Between the start and finish of the ceremony the Sox were inflicted with all sorts of outfield trouble. While he was batting in the fifth inning Jerry Walker inadvertently got his head in the path of a foul off his own bat. He was hit on the right temple, the blow inflicting a cut which required one stitch. However, he thinks he'll be completely repaired by tomorrow. Larry Rosenthal filled in for Walker and he, too, had to quit. He pulled a charley horse in his left leg while running to base.

Owen Socks Homer.

The Sox tuned up on Whitehill with Owen's first inning homer, a terrific drive into the left field bleachers. In the second inning they nailed the old southpaw again, this time with four hits, but only two scored. Radcliff singled, Kreevich fanned, and Berger singled. On the latter hit Averill threw the ball into the Sox dugout, Radcliff scoring and Berger taking third. Schlueter also fanned, but Lee doubled off the right field wall to send Berger home. Kuhel then beat out a bunt, but Owen couldn't prolong the pleasure.

An error caused some confusion for Lee in the home second when he was plastered for two runs. Schlueter dropped Averill's pop foul and the latter expressed his appreciation with a single. He was chased home immediately on Trosky's No. 16 homer, which sailed over the fence in right center. This reduced the Sox lead to one run, but they made it 4 to 2 in the fifth when Kuhel used the right field barrier for home run purposes.

Whitehill Forced to Quit.

Lee started the Sox off in a business-like way in the seventh by singling to right, going to second a moment later on a wild pitch. Kuhel succumbed on strikes. Owen almost removed an arm from Keltner with a two base drive, Lee scoring. Rosenthal bounced a double off the right field wall to score Owen. This completed Whitehill's service. Appling ripped off a single against Rescuer Galehouse and Rosenthal slid safely across the plate.

PARISO HUSTLES 4 WINNERS HOME; NEAR JOCKY LEAD

Hero of 9,000 Race Fans at Washington Park.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Spectacular and skillful horsemanship made it possible for Jocky Nunzio Pariso, an Italian lad from Buffalo, N. Y., to become the hero of 9,000 racegoers yesterday afternoon at Washington Park, where he kicked and slashed four horses past the winning post.

Favorites and longshots looked alike to him. He could win on one as easily as he could on the other. Every triumph he scored required well judged and hard finishing rides. In addition to the four winners he finished second in two other races. He moved up from behind to register each of his victories.

Pariso's victory on Happy Helen in which he sneaked through next to the rail in the final strides to get the decision by inches in the second race was spectacular.

Happy Helen was the hottest kind of a tip, morning odds having been 15 to 1. She was at 4 to 1 at post time.

Boots in Long Shot.

Pariso's first ride of the afternoon was on Ovid in the opening race. He was second in this one. In the second came his Happy Helen triumph and in the third he scooted to the winner's circle on stoutly backed Jens Son. He had to put on a powerful finish to get Jens Son home in front of Flightaway.

Pariso turned in his greatest thriller in the fifth with the 32 to 1 shot Pandonna. He smashed his way up from behind to get the decision in a camera finish from Woodsia and Chief Nadi. Pandonna paid $66.60. In the sixth race he got Miss Ponne up in time to be second.

Pariso made it four winners for the day when he drove Navanod from far back in the eighth race to win by a neck over Foolem. Molasses Bob was third.

This was Pariso's 21st winning mount of the meeting. It left him two behind Ken McCombs, the leader.

Witan Shows Speed.

There's still a spark of life in the old selling plater Witan. He was given up as a no account earlier in the week when at odds of even money and running on his favorite sort of a muddy track he took a beating.

Out he came for another chance in yesterday's fourth race. This time he glanced up at the betting board, where the odds were 4 to 1. A new sparkle came into his eyes. His admirers had deserted him. He knew that. So he would show 'em up.

And show 'em up he did. He took eleven of the same kind of platers he met in his previous start on a trip to the cleaners. When he got through with them they were thoroughly cleaned. So were the players who had deserted the Witan band wagon.

CABON, GINKUS REACH CHICAGO AMATEUR FINAL

Tourney Again Produces Stirring Golf.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Joe Cabon of Evergreen and Vincent Ginkus of Lansing Airport will battle thirty-six holes today for the thirty-fourth Chicago city amateur golf championship on Jackson park's ancient fairways. They reached the final match yesterday with semi-final victories which once more bore out the adage that this tournament produces much of the most stirring golf of the season, regardless of whether the contestants are old timers or newcomers.

Both Cabon and Ginkus are playing rôles new to them, for neither has gone this far in competition before. Cabon, 33 years old, is a pig iron clerk at the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, while the 21 year old Ginkus is employed as a tester with the Columbia Tool Steel company.

Goes Thirty-seven Holes.

Ginkus gained the final only after going thirty-seven holes against Pat Lanis, stockyards restaurant manager from the home club, while Cabon, after being 5 up at one time against Bert Nugent, a construction clerk who also registers from Jackson park, had to go to the thirty-fifth green for a 3 and 1 victory.

H. C. Smith of Longwood carded 79—10—69 in the Class A event in the Chicago District Golf association one day handicap at Midlothian yesterday. Charles Wilson of Riverside and B. E. Baal of Elmhurst tied for second with 73. J. Ide of Lincolnshire won in Class B with 82—15—67 and C. M. Johnson in Class C with 106—33—73.

Mrs. Charles E. Epstein of Lincolnshire is the new Illinois women's public parks golf champion. Yesterday in the 36 hole final over the Waveland course in Lincoln park she defeated Mrs. Evelyn Moore of Navajo Fields, 2 and 1. In the championship consolation Mrs. Estaire Ruplin, unattached, won 2 and 1 from Mrs. Thelma Kurry of Cog Hill. The first flight championship went to Mrs. Gwen Fischer of Lincoln park who defeated Betty Johnson of Shore Acres, 2 and 1.

Mrs. Opal Hill of Kansas City established a new women's record of 74 yesterday on the No. 4 course of the Olympia Fields Country club. Mrs. Hill was practicing for the women's western golf tournament which opens Monday. Patty Berg played the course alone.

Art Doering of Westward Ho, newly crowned Chicago district amateur champion, topped a field of 175 at Glen Oak's annual Roundup yesterday with 36—37—73. Behind Doering came Lee S. Roblee, Glen Oak club champion, with a 76, and George Dawson, star of the club for years, with a 75. Valuable prizes will be distributed to the fifty lucky ones at the finish of today's round.

South Dakota Has 2 Seasons on Pheasants

BY BOB BECKER.

The first of two South Dakota pheasant seasons, as forecast in this department some days ago, will start Oct. 1 and continue through Oct. 7. The second season opens Oct. 22 and lasts through Oct. 28. All pheasant hunting begins at noon and continues until dark each day.

The prediction by this department that the bag limit on pheasant will be four a day has been confirmed by the conservation department's regulations which read "four per day and eight in possession." South Dakota also is going to have an open season on Hungarian partridges in a couple of counties, starting Oct. 1. The limit in Roberts and Marshall counties is three birds a day and six in possession. The season on ducks also opens Oct. 1.

Await Results of Survey.

Now that Illinois hunters know what South Dakota has to offer in pheasant hunting this fall the next news to come from the northwest will be the details of the big duck survey being conducted by Ducks Unlimited. Hundreds of volunteer investigators, wardens, and others are checking the marshes in the prairie provinces of Canada. Before the survey is completed between 500 and 1,000 reports will be filed so that we'll have a good idea of just what the duck crop is this season. Advance reports to this department indicate that the ducks have done very well in the southern parts of the provinces, but not so good in the north, due to lack of water.

More than $100,000 already has been invested by Ducks Unlimited in marsh improvements to help grow more ducks in the southern parts of the prairie provinces, according to Harrison Kennicott, executive secretary of the Illinois division of the organization.

Spend on Dams.

Kennicott said yesterday that virtually all of this money was spent on dams and other works to impound water and flood marshes for duck nesting areas. This $100,000 was raised by membership contributions to Ducks Unlimited in forty states. Illinois duck hunters now are being invited to join in this "grow more ducks" movement. Illinois headquarters are maintained at 231 S. La Salle street, where sportsmen and others may write for details of the program.

Armstrong May Give Up One of Titles

New York, Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Thirty-six hours after it all happened Henry Armstrong, three kinds of champion, and Lou Ambers, former lightweight champion, continue to figure in the day's news.

Through puffed and stitched lips Armstrong announced he will abdicate as world featherweight king on Jan. 1 unless a worthy challenger appears.

Ambers, the loser, more popular in defeat than he ever was in victory, listened to a proposal from Herman Taylor, Philadelphia promoter, as it was relayed to him by Joseph Jacobs, manager of Tony Galento.

"If Mike Jacobs doesn't want Ambers Muggsey Taylor does," Jacobs informed Al Weill, Ambers' manager. "He wants him to fight Ceferino Garcia, the Filipino welterweight."

Joe Jacobs has signed a five year right to Galento's services and revealed that Taylor is seeking similar agreements with Ambers, Garcia and any other fighters not signed to similar contracts with Mike Jacobs.

Eight stitches hold together thirty cuts in Armstrong's mouth. He will not fight until Dec. 6, when he will defend one of his three titles on the annual Christmas fund card at Cleveland.

Announcement yesterday by the federal Commodity Credit corporation that it would continue to lend farmers 50 cents a bushel on cash corn until Nov. 1, or 5 to 10 cents more than can be secured in the open market at the present time, resulted in an advance of ⅞ to 1⅝ cents in futures.

Corn showed independent firmness from the start, and closing prices were at the top. The upturn was helped by reports of marked improvement in the European demand. Export sales were estimated at more than 500,000 bushels.

Wheat futures closed ⅝ to ⅞ cent a bushel higher.

Trading in Wheat Dull.

Brokers said trading in the wheat pit was probably the smallest in three months. Oats advanced ¼ to ⅜ cent; rye, ¼ to ⅝ cent, and soy bean futures ⅝ to 1 cent a bushel.

The CCC announcement is expected by traders to result in farmers pledging considerable old crop corn as security for government loans. It was recently announced that benefit payments to producers who agreed to reduce their acreage for the 1939 crop would be 13 to 16 cents a bushel. About 45,000,000 bushels of cash corn are now stored on farms as security for government loans, mainly at 50 cents a bushel.

Chicago Corn Stocks Reduced.

Local stocks of corn, which were 3,718,000 bushels on Aug. 13, are expected to be reduced to about 3,000,000 bushels by Monday. Steamers loaded more than 800,000 bushels at Chicago elevators on Thursday for shipment to eastern lake ports.

Foreign wheat buyers were said to be awaiting further information regarding the American subsidy plan and the outcome of conversations with Canada regarding a quota program for the two countries. Winnipeg wheat futures closed ⅛ to¼ cent a bushel higher. Liverpool prices declined ¼ to ⅜ cent a bushel.

U. S. ACQUIRES DOLLAR SHIP LINE CONTROL

Gets 90 Per Cent of Voting Stock.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—Uncle Sam today broadened his rôle as ship operator. The United States maritime commission arranged to take 90 per cent control of the famous Dollar Steamship lines.

Emory S. Land says 12 ships will be operated.

An agreement to this effect was signed in San Francisco by Reginald S. Laughlin, special counsel for the commission, and a group of thirteen corporations and individuals representing Dollar interests. The agreement provides that the commission acquire 90 per cent of the company's voting stock. The commission said that operations generally would remain in company hands.

There are twelve ships in the Dollar fleet, but only four of them are in operation. One of these carries passengers, the others freight.

Will Use All Vessels.

Chairman Emory S. Land of the commission said today that the commission plans to have the twelve ships put in sound condition. They will then resume regular service between California and the orient and in round the world trips.

The government already owns six steamship lines, operating thirty-eight vessels in foreign trade. Under bankruptcy proceedings it soon will acquire four vessels of the Munson line. It is reconditioning three modern liners, the California, Virginia, and Pennsylvania, which were bought recently from the Panama-Pacific line. These will operate to South America.

The agreement signed today is contingent upon certain future actions. These include [1] a 5 year operating differential subsidy, which may amount to $3,000,000 a year; [2] a loan of not less than $1,500,000 from commission funds for repairing the fleet; and [3] a loan of approximately $2,500,000 to the company by the Reconstruction Finance corporation to provide working capital.

RFC Loan Up to Company.

Responsibility for meeting RFC loan requirements rests solely upon the company, the commission said. There has been no word from the RFC as to its position. The commission will continue to hold about $7,000,000 of mortgages on the company's ships. In addition, mortgages will be acquired under the repair loan plan.

The agreement provides for transfer to the commission of absolute title to all class B stock [2,100,000 shares] and title to 63,893 shares of class A stock. The commission would also receive voting rights and interests in another block of 51,533 shares of class A stock. This leaves outside interests holding 136,574 shares of class A stock and 34,243 shares of preferred.

"The Dollar situation has been a matter of considerable anxiety to the commission for many months," said Chairman Land today. "The commission insists upon maintenance and efficient servicing of the vital trade routs covered by the Dollar lines. They are of outstanding importance to our foreign trade and to our national defense."

Wants Continued Service.

"The commission, therefore, has explored conscientiously possibilities of a solution and has agreed to the adjustment plan signed today with the idea of preventing interruption of service and employment, such as would occur were the line to go into bankruptcy and follow the usual course of such procedure."

The Dollar line was founded by the late Cap. Robert Dollar. His son, R. Stanley Dollar is president of the company.

Financial and labor troubles threatened to wreck the company. It was then that government salvaging was sought. Last January a temporary six months' operating subsidy was granted. That agreement placed two government representatives on the Dollar line board. Inability of various interests to agree prolonged negotiations with the government for a definite operating plan.

CHICAGO BANKS MAKING LOANS ON 'RECEIVABLES'

An Associated Press dispatch from San Francisco published in yesterday's TRIBUNE said that the Bank of America's new policy of making loans on "accounts receivable" marked the first entrance of banks into this field.

Some Chicago banks have been making this type of loans for several years. One began making loans on assigned accounts receivable in 1934 and such loans have since reached large proportions.

The object of the loans, for the firm assigning its accounts, is to get cash for financing more business during the period of collection of time sale accounts.

Rail Mediators Adjourn Wage Parleys to Monday

Conferences by the national mediation board with management and labor groups on the railroad wage dispute adjourned yesterday until Monday. No announcement as to progress was made. The 15 per cent wage cut sought by the carriers is opposed by the unions.

Half Million Cash Paid for Land in Loop

BY AL CHASE.

A half million dollars cash was paid yesterday by the conservators of the estate of Stanley McCormick for part of the land under the sixteen story building at the southwest corner of Clark and Monroe streets. It was purchased from the Freer estate. The building was formerly known as the Nixon building.

Second Purchase on Corner.

Yesterday's purchase is the second made on this corner in little more than a month and gives the McCormick estate sole ownership of all of the land under the building. On July 15 the conservators of the estate, of which the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company is one, bought the south section of the fee under the building for $150,000.

This was a parcel of land fronting thirty feet on South Clark street, with a depth of ninety feet. It was bought from Emily Osborn Bliss, George Edison, and May Osborn Carothers.

Fronts 79 Feet on Clark.

The land bought yesterday fronts seventy-nine feet on Clark and ninety feet on Monroe street. The McCormick estate several years ago bought the building and a ninety-nine year lease on the ground under the building.

With the closing of yesterday's transaction the estate has merged the fee and leasehold and owns both land and building. Herbert Becker of Mayer, Meyer, Austrian & Platt represented the McCormick estate in both transactions.

RE-ELECT MUTUAL BROADCASTING OFFICERS, BOARD

Reëlection of all officers and directors of the Mutual Broadcasting system yesterday was announced.

All stock of the Mutual system is held by W-G-N, Inc., Chicago, and the Bamberger Broadcasting Corporation of Newark, N. J., operator of WOR.

Directors reëlected were: Alfred J. McCosker, T. C. Streibert, Jack I. Straus, W. E. Macfarlane, E. M. Antrim, E. W. Wood Jr., and Fred Weber. Officers reëlected were: President, Macfarlane; chairman of the board, McCosker; general manager, Weber; first vice president, Streibert; executive secretary and treasurer, Antrim.

Weber reported the addition of affiliated stations in the far west, the increase in power of other associated stations, and the affiliation of the newly organized Texas State network. He also announced that the network's commercial program revenue during the first six months of 1938 was 19 per cent larger than the same period last year.

HOLD PETTIBONE ACTED PROPERLY WHILE RECEIVER

Holman D. Pettibone, president of the Chicago Title and Trust company, was exonerated yesterday of any wrong doing while he was state court receiver from 1930 to 1934 for the Tower Building corporation, Harper avenue and 63d street. A report to that effect was filed with Federal Juwge John P. Barnes by Attorney Lessing Rosenthal, special counsel for the court.

Judge Barnes appointed Attorney Rosenthal to investigate charges of a bondholder that Pettibone permitted Lublinер and Trinz, defunct theater operating concern, to reduce their rent for the Tower theater, which is in the building, from $100,000 a year to about $50,000. Rosenthal held that the reduction of rental was justified because of the depression.

The report also said Pettibone acted for the best interests of the corporation, which since has been reorganized under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy law.

MEDILL BUILDING, LOAN EARNINGS LOWER FOR YEAR

The Medill Building and Loan association yesterday reported its net earnings for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1938, amounted to $34,135, compared with $37,810 in the preceding year. Mortgage loans outstanding on June totaled $538,550, against $586,950 a year earlier. Stock loans had increased to $89,540 from $85,816 on June 30, 1937.

The association paid out $187,200 on matured stock issues during the year. Profit distributed to investors was $29,952. Total assets on June 30, 1938, were $718,563, of which $48,255 was cash on hand and in banks.

The Medill Building and Loan association is wholly owned by the employés of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

THREE MONTHS' SALES OF WIEBOLDT STORES 18.9% BELOW YEAR AGO

Wieboldt Stores, Inc., sold 18.9 per cent less merchandise in the three months ended July 30 than in the corresponding quarter of 1937, President E. F. Wieboldt said yesterday. The decline from year ago levels was greater than in the first three months of 1938, when sales were only 14.8 per cent under those of the like 1937 period. For the first half of 1938 sales were 16.8 per cent under those of the first half of 1937.

Although operations to date still make a poor comparison with the like 1937 period, Wieboldt said sales trends in the last few weeks are more favorable.

Goods sold in the quarter ended July 30 amounted to $5,185,908, compared with $6,397,086 last year. In the six months ended July 30 sales totaled $10,757,522, against $12,933,555 in the first six months of 1937.

Revising Labor Act Is Studied by A. F. of L.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said today that the executive council will review the "whole Wagner act problem" when it meets next week in Atlantic City, N. J.

William Green.

A. F. of L. attorneys had been reported drafting a series of proposed amendments to the national labor relations law, commonly called the Wagner act. The act established the National Labor Relations board to arbitrate labor disputes. It was reported that one of the proposed amendments would call for establishment of a new and independent tribunal to take over judicial functions of the labor relations board.

Study Amendment Question.

"We haven't decided on anything definite," Green asserted. "We are studying the question of amendments. When final agreement is reached on the proposed amendments we will make a formal announcement of it."

On numerous occasions the A. F. of L. has charged the labor relations board with bias in favor of the Committee for Industrial Organization, arch rival of the federation.

Meanwhile Elmer F. Andrews, administrator of the wage and hours act, warned employers today against wage cuts.

"It would be economically unsound and very unfair to labor for manufacturers to cut wages to the rock bottom level of the new fair labor standards act," he said.

Wage Cuts Are Reported.

Labor department officials said that they had received reports of widespread wage cuts in the textile industry to get pay levels down to the minimum allowed by the act.

The act established a base of 25 cents an hour for all interstate industry during the first year, beginning Oct. 24. In the second year the minimum will be 30 cents and will rise gradually to 40 cents at the end of seven years. The act provides a 44 hour week during the first year, 42 in the second year, and 40 thereafter.

The first conference of the textile industrial board, headed by Donald M. Nelson of Chicago, vice president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., was held today. Nelson said it would require three or four months for the committee to complete its arrangements for administering the act.

Perkins Calls Conference.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins has called a conference of six state labor commissioners to be held in Washington on Sept. 12. They will be asked to draft a model state wage and hour law to supplement the federal statute. The state law would cover intrastate industry.

The commissioners invited to the conference are Martin P. Durkin of Illinois, Joseph M. Tone of Connecticut, W. A. Murphy of Oklahoma, William M. Knerr of Utah, A. L. Fletcher of North Carolina, and William M. Bashore of Pennsylvania.

Wisconsin Will Rehear Byllesby License Case

Madison, Wis., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—The securities division of the Wisconsin banking commission announced today it would hold a meeting next Thursday on its order revoking the license of H. M. Byllesby & Co., Chicago, to deal in securities in the state. The company's permit was revoked July 25 when William H. Spohn, special state counsel, charged the firm had spent large sums in the state and kept no record of its expenditures. In its request for a rehearing the company attacked the commission's power to revoke its license until its transfer from the state public service commission to the banking commission has become final.

Closed Park Ridge Bank Repays Another 5 Pct.

Depositors of the closed Park Ridge State bank, Park Ridge, Ill., yesterday received repayments of 5 per cent, or $36,007 of their deposits. This was the seventh repayment by the bank, bringing the total to 55 per cent.

LOW BID ON CITY WORK REJECTED; BID RAISED AND IT'S STILL LOWEST

Several weeks ago the trustees of the sanitary district received only two bids for contracts to install electrical equipment in the new Racine avenue pumping station at Pershing road and the Chicago river. They rejected the offers on the ground that there should be more bids to choose from and more competition among the bidders.

The board received new bids yesterday. There were still only two, but the low bidder had increased the price by $7,679. Last time the Central States Electrical company offered to do the work for $106,187. This was bosted to $113,866. The other bid was that of the Pierce Electrical company, $121,754.

Previously, the Harmon Electric company asked $122,645. This firm did not bid yesterday. The bids were turned over to William Trinkaus, chief engineer for the district.

FREIGHT TRAFIC HAS MORE THAN SEASONAL GAIN

Railroads in the United States loaded 5,511 more cars of revenue freight in the week ended Aug. 13 than in the preceding week, the Association of American Railroads said yesterday. The gain in trafic was caused chiefly by increased shipments of ore and miscellaneous freight, according to the association.

A total of 589,561 cars was loaded in last week compared with 584,050 in the week ended Aug. 6. The increase amounted to 0.9 per cent. Termed slightly more than seasonal by the Dow-Jones financial news service, it raised that agency's railroad freight index to 69.5 from 63.5 in the preceding week.

FRANC AND POUND CLOSE STRONGER; GOLD ADVANCES

British and French currencies were stronger on the foreign exchange market yesterday. The pound rose 3/16 cent to $4.87 5/16. The franc gained 0.0025 cent to 2.73 cents. French Premier Daladier's declaration that the franc will not be cheapened was a steadying market influence.

Gold resumed its price advance on the London market, closing at 142 shillings 6½ pence an ounce, 1 penny higher. At the exchange rate prevailing when the quotation was posted the London price was equal to $34.78, unchanged from the preceding day.

More gold was received yesterday in New York. A shipment of $4,436,507 of bullion arrived from Canada, consigned to the federal reserve bank. The bank received another consignment of 185 boxes of gold from England and the Chase National bank received 29 boxes from the same country. The reserve bank said no additional gold was engaged during the day.

MOTOR OUTPUT RISES TO 23,940 UNITS FOR WEEK

Automobile production this week was estimated at 23,940 units by Ward's Automotive Reports, Inc. Last week production totaled 13,790 cars and trucks, the 1938 low. In the corresponding week a year ago the total was 93,339.

Most of this week's rise was due to the resumption of operations by the Ford Motor company, Ward's said. Although production will be slightly lower next week, the industry is expected to show a steady rise through the fall and early winter months.

Asserts McGuire Rejected Pipe Line Firm Contract

Harold P. Childs, vice president of Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company, said yesterday that President William G. Maguire has turned down a contract as general manager of the company. Childs said Maguire was offered a two year contract by directors, including an option to purchase 100,000 shares of stock at $3 to $5 a share over a three year period. Dow, Jones & Co. quoted Maguire Thursday as saying that the directors did not intend to offer him a contract or stock purchase option.

DROP IN DEPARTMENT STORE SALES LARGEST IN SEVERAL WEEKS

Sales of department stores in the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district during the week ended Aug. 13 were 17.8 per cent under those of the corresponding week of 1937. The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago announced yesterday that the slump from a year ago was the largest in several weeks.

In the week ended Aug. 6 sales in the district were only 13.2 per cent under the like 1937 period. In the week ended July 30 they were off 16 per cent.

Sales in Chicago alone were 14.8 per cent less than a year ago. Those in the preceding week were only 7.8 per cent under 1937.

UNITED AIR LINES LOSSES HEAVIER IN 2ND QUARTER

Travel Increases, but Costs Rise.

United Air Lines Transport corporation had a heavier loss in the second quarter of this year than in the June, 1937, quarter. The company reported yesterday it had incurred the loss despite an increase in revenue passenger miles flown.

W. A. Patterson reports expenses much higher.

Paraffine Companies, Inc., reported profit for the fiscal year ended June 30 equal to less than one-half the profit in the preceding fiscal year. Lower interim earnings than for last year were reported by Plymouth Oil company, Northern Indiana Public Service company, and F. E. Myers & Brother company, makers of pumps and water systems. Earnings of Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company dipped slightly in July, compared with June.

Loss Rises to $243,031.

Although revenue passenger miles flown by United Air Lines increased 11.7 per cent in the second quarter over the same 1937 period, the company's loss increased to $243,031 from $59,849 in the June, 1937, quarter. In the March quarter of this year the loss was $666,671.

The increased loss was caused by higher expenses and a drop in express revenues, the report issued by W. A. Patterson, president, showed.

"The increase in expense has been caused primarily by increases in wages and taxes and by the necessity of enlarging the company's supervisory staf, its flight operations personnel, and its research program in the interests of greater safety," the report said. "Other substantial expenditures were made to improve the company's airplanes, engines, and communications systems to obtain the benefits of recent technical advances which add to the safety of operations.

Expects Rise in Business.

"The company's physical facilities and personnel are now adequate to accommodate the increased volume of business anticipated during the next two years. The company had recognized that modernization and enlargement of a transportation system must be accomplished prior to the existence of actual demand for such facilities.

"Passage of the civil aeronautics act of 1938 presents an opportunity for growth and development of the air transportation industry under the regulation of a single government body whose activities will be devoted to the establishment and preservation of an air transport network."

Westinghouse Electric's net income for July was $662,418, compared with $714,865 in June and $695,206 in May. Although profits were a little lower, the percentage margin of profit showed an increase as a result of better control over expenses.

Paraffine companies and domestic subsidiaries had a profit of $1,255,001 for the fiscal year ended June 30 against $2,608,395 in the preceding fiscal year. W. H. Lowe, president, said the decline in net profit was due to a drop in sales volume, increased labor costs, and somewhat lower selling prices.

Plymouth Oil's July profit of $218,472 compared with $223,527 earned in July, 1937.

Associated Gas Meeting Postponed Until Sept. 20

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—The annual meeting of stockholders of the Associated Gas and Electric company has been further adjourned to Sept. 20.

Stocks Finish Higher Despite Late Selloff

New York, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The stock market resumed its forward stride today but top gains running to 3 or more points were chipped down substantially at the close.

Wall street's wishful thinkers climbed aboard the rails in the afternoon on word from Washington that the Association of American Railroads would have an "important" announcement about 2:30 p. m. First thoughts had to do with the possibility a wage cut compromise might have been effected.

Announcement Is Dud.

There was a quick letdown in sentiment when it was eventually learned that the "important" railway announcement was merely that a petition had been filed for an extension of coal freight rate increases due to expire at the end of the year.

The trading pace then slowed appreciably and the buoyant rails dropped about half of their best advances. While industrials stepped down from their peaks, most finished well ahead. Transfers of 825,680 shares, compared with 446,610 the day before.

Motors, Steels Gain.

Motors and steels, lagging in the forenoon, came back to finish well in front. General Motors touched a new year's high. Both this issue and Chrysler retained gains of 1½ points each, the former at 47⅞ and the latter at 72⅝.

Stocks ending with net advances of fractions to around 2 points included Santa Fe, New York Central, Union Pacific, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, U. S. Rubber, Goodyear, Sears-Roebuck, J. I. Case, Western Union, Anaconda, Kennecott, Air Reduction, Westinghouse, General Electric, Union Carbide, Johns-Manville, Allis-Chalmers, Standard Oil of New Jersey, and National Biscuit.

Berlin Prices Rally.

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—Prices on the boerse, which slumped severely until yesterday, staged an equally sensational recovery today. On a restricted turnover, prices climbed an average of five points and gains of 6 and 7 points were not unusual.

The recovery was led by heavy industrials—so-called armament issues—but extended to the entire list. The rise apparently was brought about by official control, which forced shorts to cover. In view of this control, it is still a puzzle to many that prices on the boerse were permitted to decline to the extent they did.

JULY BUILDING IN STATE IS 6 PCT. ABOVE YEAR AGO

Building construction of all types in Illinois increased during July 6 per cent in value of projects as compared with the same month last year. According to a building survey made by the state department of labor in 132 Illinois cities, permits for structures costing $6,122,727 were issued last month, compared with $5,776,664 for July, 1937. The actual number of projects showed a slight decline.

The cost of buildings of all types during July was fractionally less than those of June. The number of projects also declined.

Home building gained in both number of units and cost during July as compared with the same month last year. Last month there were permits issued for 497 residential units costing $2,871,253, compared with 381 costing $2,358,145 in July, 1937. This is a gain of 30.4 per cent in number and 21.8 per cent in estimated cost. July, 1938, home building was slightly less in both number and cost than June.

City of Los Angeles Train, Revamped, Has More Cars

The streamliner City of Los Angeles will roll into the Chicago and North Western station at 1:15 o'clock [daylight saving time] this afternoon practically a new train. It has been revamped throughout, and will carry two additional cars, an all room sleeping car, and a new observation lounge car.

EDISON OFFERS NEW BONDS TO STOCKHOLDERS

Part of 72 Million Refunding Plan.

Directors of the Commonwealth Edison company yesterday announced subscription rights to stockholders to purchase $39,251,600 of new convertible debentures.

The rights will be issued to stockholders of record Sept. 2 and will expire Sept. 21. One subscription warrant will be issued on each share of stock, entitling the holder to purchase $5 principal amount of debentures.

The debenture offering is part of a new 72 million dollar refunding operation being undertaken by the company. An additional issue of $33,000,000 first mortgage bonds will be sold through a banking group. Both issues will carry a 3½ per cent interest coupon.

Will Retire Earlier Issues.

Proceeds of the new issues will be used to retire 30 million dollars of series C and D 4½ per cent bonds of the Edison company; 25 millions of Public Service Company of Northern Illinois 5 per cent bonds, and certain other publicly owned securities of Edison subsidiaries.

The Chicago Stock exchange has made application to the Securities and Exchange commission to trade in the warants on a when issued basis. Trading is expected to begin about Aug. 25.

The company completed a similar refunding operation in June in which $37,500,000 of debentures were sold to stockholders. These debentures are convertible, beginning Sept. 1, into Edison stock at the rate of four shares for each $100 principal amount of debentures. The conversion rate is the same on the new debentures.

Provide for Stock Conversion.

Owners of outstanding debentures who elect to convert their holdings into stock on Sept. 1 will be given their proportional warants to subscribe to new debentures, officials explained. An additional amount of new debentures has been registered by the company to provide for warants so issued.

If warants issued on all stock now outstanding are exercised the total issue of debentures will be $39,251,000. If all outstanding debentures were immediately converted a total issue of $50,208,745 of debentures would be required.

Officials of the company said they did not expect a large conversion of outstanding debentures before issuance of the new rights.

Plan Formal Offer Next Week.

The formal offer to stockholders will not be made until the registration statement with the Securities and Exchange commission becomes effective next week.

A banking group headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co. and Lehman Brothers yesterday was awarded an issue of $4,700,000 Chicago 3 per cent water works certificates of indebtedness. The syndicate paid $4,997,980 for the certificates, which mature from 1955 to 1958. The net cost to the city is about 2.57 per cent. The issue was reoffered at prices to yield 2.50 per cent.

Halsey, Stuart also heads a group that was awarded an issue of $1,442,000 Worcester, Mass, 1½ per cent bonds due serially from July 1, 1939 to 1948.

New Financing Increases.

New financing undertaken this week was substantially larger than in the comparable week of 1937, a compilation by Poor & Co showed.

Total stock and bond offerings, exclusive of federal government issues, were $39,313,390, compared with $82,158,000 in the preceding week and $28,779,586 a year ago. Public utility issues accounted for $27,982,000 of the week's offerings.

New York Bonds.

New York, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Bonds developed recovery momentum today, with the cream of the gains going to the rails. Trading activity broadened, with the total at $5,041,250, face value, compared with $3,996,525 on Thursday.

Bonds of New York City traction companies continued to meet demand at rising prices, based on expectations of early realization of the long proposed unification scheme. Interborough Rapid Transit 7s certificates blazed the way with a rise of 5¼ points. Other Interborough and Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit loans pushed up 1 to 2½ points.

Rails stiffened after some erratic swings in early trading. Closing gains ranged up to around 3 points in Southern Railway general 6s and 6½s, St. Louis Southwestern 5s, Seaboard Air Line stamped 4s, Southern Pacific 4½s of 1968, Nickel Plate 4½s, Erie 5s of 1975, Alleghany corporation stamped 5s of 1950, St. Paul 5s, and Mobile and Ohio 4½s and 5s.

United States governments continued in an uneven range, ending fourthirty-seconds down to two-thirty-seconds higher. Foreign dollar loans felt a downward pull from weakness in Italian and Polish obligations.

Chicago Stocks.

Chicago stocks advanced fractions to more than a point yesterday. Increased buying interest stepped the volume up to 28,000 shares, compared with 12,000 on Thursday. The Tribune average of 20 stocks advanced to 11.11 from 10.84 Thursday.

Two new issues admitted to trading, American Telephone and Goodyear Tire and Rubber, added more than $15,000 to the dollar volume. American Telephone trading amounted to 62 shares, and Goodyear's volume was 230 shares.

Bendix Aviation, Katz Drug and Marshall Field gained fractions. Borg-Warner, Electric Household, and Montgomery Ward common advanced a point or more.

Bank Stocks.

Gains and losses were about evenly divided among leading Chicago bank stocks yesterday. Harris Trust and Savings shares moved up $5 to close at $290 bid, $298 asked. First National stock closed $4 higher at $228 bid, $232 asked, and Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust shares were $1 higher at $69½ bid, $70¼ asked. American National Bank and Trust shares declined $5, and City National Bank and Trust stock closed $1 lower.

MERGER OF TWO SOUTHERN RAIL LINES PLANNED

Report Principal Groups in Agreement.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 19.—A plan to consolidate the Mobile and Ohio railroad with the Gulf, Mobile and Northern will be considered by officials of the roads and the Mobile and Ohio bondholders' reorganization committee next week. The Mobile and Ohio is bankrupt but the Gulf, Mobile and Northern is solvent.

The plan has received final approval of all principal interests involved, it was reported today, and is expected to be filed early next month for interstate commerce commission action. The deal, it was said in railroad circles, would mark accomplishment of the first railroad consolidation in years.

The consolidation plan calls for formation of a new company to be called the Gulf, Mobile and Ohio Railroad company. Capitalization of the new company would consist of new first mortgage bonds, new income 4½ per cent bonds, preferred stock and common stock.

How Bonds Will be Used.

The new first 4s, in the amount of $16,500,000, will be a first lien on the M. & O. properties and a junior lien on the G., M. & N. property.

Approximately $10,500,000 of the new first 4s will be turned over to the RFC as collateral for a $9,500,000 loan which the government agency has agreed to grant the new company. The ramaining $6,000.000 of the new mortgage bonds will probably be distributed among the M. & O. junior bondholders, together with income bonds and both classes of stock, in exchange for their holdings.

The terms of consolidation, it was said, would be beneficial to Southern railway, which controls the M. & O., and the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy system, which owns 27 per cent of the common and preferred stocks of G., M. & N.

See Benefit to Roads.

The Southern railway will receive the major portion of the RFC loan funds in payment for $7,839,000 M. & O. general 4s, maturing on Sept. 1. The general 4s are now pledged as collateral behind the joint collateral 4s of Southern and M. & O., in the amount of $7,295,000, which mature also on Sept. 1. The balance of the $9,500,000 loan will be used for rehabilitation purposes by the new system.

The Burlington would obtain preferred stock having possibilities of near future dividends and common stock which would not have ahead of it unpaid preferred stock dividend obligations.

Schiff Company.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information on the Schiff company. What dividends are being paid?—Miss M. N.

Answer. The Schiff company, $4,904,000 concern with headquarters at Columbus, O., operates a chain of shoe stores in twenty-eight states and the District of Columbia. The company had 278 units in operation at the end of 1937. Of these, 147 were shoe stores and the other were shoe departments in department stores.

A general line of men's, women's, and children's footwear is handled. Retail prices range from 50 cents to $7 a pair. Various trade names are used by different units owned by the company. These store units are served from a warehouse in Columbus, O.

The capital stock now includes 7,155 shares of 7 per cent cumulative $100 par preferred, 12,150 shares of 5½ per cent cumulative $100 par preferred, and 148,150 shares of no par common. A recapitalization plan was carried out early last year. The plan called for issuance of the new 5½ per cent preferred, a reduction in the number of 7 per cent preferred shares, and an increase in the number of common shares. A part of the plan was a 50 per cent stock dividend on the common.

Sales for the first six months of this year were $5,602,736, a decrease of 9.8 per cent from sales of $6,212,701 in the corresponding period last year. The record of earnings in recent years follows:

	Sales.	Net income.	Earned per common share.
1937	$13,503,836	$378,269	$1.55
1936	13,039,729	443,947	3.93
1935	11,693,789	365,281	3.14
1932	8,878,279	219,189	1.59
1929	9,198,603	499,629	4.46

The company reported current assets of $3,946,043 and current liabilities of $484,206 at the end of 1937.

United Box Board and Paper.

Investors' Guide: Kindly advise me if the United Box Board and Paper company is still operating. They were incorporated in New Jersey about thirty years ago.—G. B.

Answer: The United Box Board and Paper company was incorporated in 1902 under New Jersey laws. Its charter was forfeited in 1912 for nonpayment of state taxes and has never been reinstated. We find no record of any distribution being made to stockholders.
